No order too large or too small for us to fill. Prompt delivery. TRAMP, THE GROCER.

No clue has been obtained to the thief who stole the diamonds and watch from the Cressler residence. The rings, the property of Mrs. Aich, were valuable, one contained a diamond of 1 1/2 karats, the other of crescent shape set with ten diamonds. The watch was a costly one. In making a note of the theft, it was stated that these articles had been left in plain view. This was erroneous. The rings had been placed on a table behind some silverware, and were not easily seen. The watch was taken from a dresser in a bedroom while Mrs. Border was lying awake on the bed.

Congressman Norris delivered his lecture on "Practical Plans for International Peace" at the high school auditorium before an audience that was much less in number than it should have been considering the well known ability of the speaker and the prominence of the subject. Judge Norris spoke for just an hour, and there was not a dull moment; it was a lecture full of information and excellent suggestions and delivered in a pleasing manner. The speaker's plan for international peace was through the medium of arbitration, and that any complication between countries, no matter how serious, could be settled by that method, thus relieving the people of paying billions of dollars annually for the support of armies and navies.
