CHAIRMAN MACK, of the democratic national committee, says Bryan will have at least 300 electoral votes. He figures the 166 votes of the solid south and also Idaho, Montana, Colorado, Nebraska, Nevada, Indiana, Ohio, Delaware, Kansas, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and South Dakota. Of course if other states were needed, Mr. Mack would claim them.

The demo-fusion party plunged the state of Nebraska into debt over two millions of dollars during the days of their political control of the state. Under republican economy and without deterioration of state institutions or neglect of state responsibilities in the slightest degree, that inherited debt has been almost paid and within a year will be wiped out. "Nebraska free from debt," will be a well earned boast of the republican party. How does that sound to the tax-payer of city and country?

THERE are signs that Mr. Bryan is becoming discouraged, says the Brooklyn Eagle. Norman E. Mack is claiming everything for him. That is depressing, because Mr. Mack's two predecessors in the chairmanship of the democratic national committee claimed everything for the party in 1896, 1900 and 1904. Had Mr. Mack been a strategist and not a parrot, he would not have done, to his own foolishness and to Bryan's depression, just what two other chairmen of fatality did before. No wonder Mr. Bryan is becoming discouraged.

TAMMANY has recently made a donation to Mr. Bryan's campaign fund, of $10,000, and the check for same has been turned over to Herman Ridder, the treasurer of the Democratic National Committee. Eugene V. Debs, speaks of the incident in this fashion. "Four years ago Mr. Bryan denounced Tammany. This year he is hand in glove with Tammany. Tammany is the vilest and most corrupt political organization on the American continent. Tammany is a political leper. Tammany pollutes everything it touches. Tammany levies tribute upon your tenderloin. Tammany extorts from fallen women the proceeds of their shame. That is Tammany. And Mr. Bryan has compromised with Tammany and had Murphy at his Fairview home in order that he might carry New York and become president."

WHAT Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, says about democracy today is vastly different from the opinion he held in 1896 when he was a populist. In a speech at Dallas, Texas, in 1896 he said: "The trouble with the democratic party is it is a party of statesmen, without statesmanship, patriots without patriotism, heroes without heroism. Their policy begets farmers without farming, laborers without labor, free-men without freedom. The fifty-second congress had a democratic majority of 143, and if it redeemed a single pledge, observed a single promise, kept a single command or discharged a single obligation made to the people of the United States I will quit the stump and retire from the canvass. The Fifty-second was elected on retrenchment and economy, the free coinage of silver, and the repeal of the McKinley law. In the matter of economy that congress exceeded the republican's $100,000,000 congress by $40,000,000."

THE success of Bryan at the polls November 3d would accentuate the lack of confidence which has hovered over the commercial interests in the east for over a year past, and sooner or later the west would feel the depression. This lack of confidence and uncertainty makes capital flight shy of investment, and without the investment of capital there will be little demand for labor. This is not a mere partisan question. We do not have to assume that Mr. Bryan's theories are dangerous in themselves, it is not necessary to contend that he would undertake anything which struck at the essentials of prosperity, to understand the dangers involved in a complete shift of the government from the republican policy to democratic rule. No such change can be made without producing the element of general uncertainty which is so destructive of business confidence. On the other hand it is claimed by republicans and not denied by democrats that the election of Judge Taft would invite no such uncertainties. The whole commercial and industrial world knows that if Taft were elected money seeking investment would no longer hesitate and halt. It would be put out into legitimate channels of trade without doubt as to its safety and its opportunities to yield a just return.

A Recital of Events that Should Interest Local Railroad Men.

MR. EDITOR:

According to the census reports, this country reached the highest degree of prosperity during the year 1892 of all its previous history; that is, more men were employed at fair wages. In that year the people said they were not satisfied with conditions, that they wanted a change to increase their prosperity. We secured the change we voted for—a complete democratic administration. A panic followed, factories closed, men were out of employment everywhere, there was no demand for farm products and want and desolation stalked throughout the country. Whether the democratic administration was responsible for this condition of things matters not so far as this article is concerned. Following the panic the Union Pacific road went into the hands of a receiver and was operated under the direction of the United States court at Omaha. The management of the road conceived the time to be opportune for a sweeping reduction of wages in every department. New schedules were promulgated through Judge Dundy of the Federal Court and a general restraining order was issued. This order was to prevent the men on the road from going on a strike because of the order for the reduction of wages. This restraining order of Judge Dundy was resisted, not only by the employees in this state but by the men over the entire system.

In passing upon the rights of employees upon interstate railroads, Judge Taft held in the Ann Arbor case, that the relation of the employe to the company was one of free contract and that the employment was terminable by either party at any time. That a court could not compel the enforcement of personal service as against either the employer or the employe. This argument was used by Mr. Arthur in his speech at the K. P. Hall in this city when last in North Platte. Judge Taft further held in the celebrated Phelan case that the employe of the receiver had the right to organize into or join a labor union, to take action as to the terms of their employment—that it was a benefit to them and the public that laborers should unite for their common good and lawful purposes; that they had labor to sell. If they stand together, they are able often to obtain better wages than when dealing with the employer singly, because the necessities of the single employe might compel him to accept any price that is offered. He further held that he had the right to appoint officers to advise them as to the best course to be taken—that they might unite with other unions—that their officers might order them, under pain of expulsion from their union, to peaceably leave the employ of their employer because the terms of their employment were unsatisfactory.

In the Union Pacific case, as all railroad men ought to remember, Judge Caldwell, an appointee of President Harrison, was called to preside. His took evidence and went fully into all the affairs of the company. The result was that Judge Dundy's order was set aside and the receivers of the road ordered to continue the employment of its men at the wages they were receiving prior to the panic. This order stood during all the time the road was in the hands of the receivers. This order was made strictly within the doctrines and rules laid down by Judge Taft in the celebrated Ann Arbor and Phelan cases. These facts are, or ought to be, known by every railroad man. More than this they ought to know that Judge Taft's decisions in the cases above referred to has been held to be the law by every court that has ever had occasion to pass upon the questions, except the one order made by Judge Dundy, and he was not sustained. They know that Judge Taft's decisions have been accepted by labor unions, generally, as the most able declaration of their rights ever handed down from any federal bench. For democratic papers and orators to claim that Dundy's order was in line with the decisions of Judge Taft is an insult to the intelligence of every American workman.

A UNION MAN.

SUGGESTS A BRIDGE EAST OF TOWN. Editor Tribune: I wish to suggest one matter which would be of considerable importance in making a greater North Platte; that is to build a bridge across the North Platte river east of the city and near the railroad. Heretofore one difficulty has interfered with such a project. That difficulty is the fact that the Union Pacific railroad claims a two hundred foot right of way on each side of their line of track and the present road is upon this right of way. I call your attention to the fact that Roy B. Tabor, trustee, in platting acreage lands just east of the city, has donated to the public three roads one mile long reaching within about eighty rods of the river, and that therefore there would be no question about the ability of the public to travel that far at least without interference from the railroad. When the water of the river is low many people coming to North Platte ford it. Considerable trading is done by people from Garfield table, but most of this trade goes to Maxwell on account of the very sandy roads northeast of the city. It is also a few miles further to travel the present road. If a bridge were constructed across the river east of this city the people of Garfield precinct would have much easier access to the county seat and of course North Platte would be correspondingly benefitted.

Such a bridge would also be a very great convenience to the people living east of the river.

I submit that the location of such a bridge is a matter that could profitably be taken up by the county commissioners, the Commercial Club and interested citizens. W. E. SHUMAN.

NATURE'S WARNING.

North Platte People Must Recognize and Heed It.

Kidney ills come quietly—mysteriously. But nature always warns you. Notice the kidney secretions. See if the color is unhealthy. If there are settlements and sediment. Passages frequent, scanty, painful. It's time then to use Doan's Kidney Pills. To ward off Bright's disease or diabetes. Doan's have done great work in North Platte.

Mrs. George Smith, living in the northeastern part of North Platte, Neb., says: "After recovering from an attack of typhoid fever, my little boy, thirteen years of age, suffered for about a year from pains through his back and a badly disordered condition of his kidneys. He had a constant feeling of weakness and at times he was so languid that he could hardly get around. The kidney secretions were too frequent in action and part of the time he had no control over them. There was also a dull, heavy aching through his back and sides that annoyed him terribly. I gave him many remedies but was unable to find a cure until a few months ago we learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at A. F. Streitz's Drug Store. The prompt relief he received from the use was very gratifying and he continued using them until his back became strong and the kidneys well and healthy."
