Lets Contract for Buildings.

At the meeting of the board of education last evening bids for the construction of the ward buildings were opened. There were five bids for the general construction work, and it was found that the bid of R. P. Bastin, of this city, was the lowest, being slightly in excess of $34,000, and he was awarded the contract. The plumbing and heating was awarded to Ginn & White for $5,414. In the construction of the buildings paving brick will be used, which is cheaper but as serviceable and looks just about as well. The new school buildings at Beatrice and Fairbury were constructed of this material. The contract price for the buildings just about equals the bonds, but in order to get within the bonds it was necessary to cut out the blackboards. In order to secure funds to furnish the buildings the maximum levy of taxes will be necessary. Last year the levy was twenty-one mills, this year it will be twenty-five mills.

Honors North Platte Man.

At the convention of Group 5 of the State Bankers' Association held at Lexington yesterday, W. H. McDonald was elected president of the group for the ensuing year. The election came to Mr. McDonald unsolicited. Another tribute was paid North Platte when the convention voted to meet in North Platte one year hence. This also came unsolicited, as the North Platte bankers, knowing our lack of hotel accommodations, were loth to extend an invitation. The attending bankers—who represented 190 banks in counties along and adjacent to the Union Pacific from Platte county west to the Wyoming line—desired to come to North Platte; they had heard so many favorable reports of the town that they wanted to verify them. So this desire was gratified, and next May we will entertain at least 150 bankers. The convention at Lexington proved an excellent one, and the town royally entertained its guests. At the banquet last evening F. L. Mooney responded to one of the toasts.

Since the coming of Rev. George Franklin Williams regular services have been maintained. The congregation, somewhat scattered, is gathering back home again and fills the church. The good work of the choir is much appreciated by the congregation. The Sunday school is making gains as are other departments. Much credit is due to officers and teachers for this. Parents are urged to attend the Bible school and thus set a proper example to their children.

A word about the new church. This is the big work that lies just before us. To it we have put our hands and from it we have no desire to turn away. We need this building badly. The old one has served its days and generation. It is time for it to "fall on sleep". It does not and cannot accommodate the Sunday school and the present congregation taxes its capacity with no room for growth. We face the future, the 20th century in a growing city. We must dream dreams of larger things and see visions of a growing kingdom. This church is being built and finished to aid our work along all social and spiritual lines. When completed we expect to it to be a source of pleasure and satisfaction to all.
