

"A Rolling Stone Gathers No Moss"

Is an old adage which can also be well applied by us.
The big mistake the average merchant makes is to allow the stone to remain still and gather the moss, or, in other words, he lets the stock get old.
The reason he gets into this rut is because he doesn't know how to buy. A style comes out, and he thinks he must supply the whole town, and buys a heavy stock of this one article.
You ladies visit each other and see this article, and, of course, you do not want the same thing, and the result it carries this stock over. Thus it is with most of his goods, and before he knows it he has accumulated a large stock of old patterns.
You will not find any moss on our goods, as they are too new.

A full list of the season's offerings and the dates on which they will appear, will be published later.

Forgets to Return.

Sunday a man appeared at the Garman livery stable and engaged a single rig for a short drive. Up to this morning the man and the team had failed to show up and there is evidence that the fellow has gone for good. The man is described as five and a half feet tall, weight 150, about 35 years of age, light complexion, smooth shaven, wore light coat, pants and hat. The horse is a bright bay, star in forehead, weight about 1,000 pounds, wire cut under fetlock on right fore foot, heavy mane and tail, shed all around. Buggy Ohio Valley make, rubber tire, red running gears, quick detachable top. A reward of fifty dollars is offered for the arrest and conviction of the fellow and the return of the property.

WHEN PROPERLY CARED FOR

harness made by Fink will last for years, for the simple reason that in the first instance nothing but thoroughly tanned, stout stock leather—oak tanned whenever that's the best to use—goes into it, and because the necessary cutting, sewing, riveting and adjusting are skillfully done by experts at the business. Fink's harness is always a good investment for any owner of a horse.
