Status of Omaha Strike.

Today's Bee says: Failure on the part of the striking car men to accept the proposition of the street railway company left the status of the strike in practically the condition it was in before negotiations for peace were begun through the five mayors. Instead of giving serious consideration to the overtures for a settlement the men ridiculed the proposals of Mr. Wattles and scored the five mayors and the members of the city council for attaching their names to the document.

The next step, say the strikers, is the appeal to Governor Shallenberger to take a hand in his capacity as state labor commissio..er and a telegram requesting him to make an investigation was sent to him yesterday afternoon.

The city council at a meeting of the committee of the whole at the earnest request of a committee from the Central Labor union recommended to pass resolution asking the company to arbitrate and put a speedy end to the trouble. This resolution will come up at the meeting of the council tonight

What Constitutes Baseball? The essential apparatus of baseball is simple and inexpensive. All that is required is a field, a stick, the ball itself and police protection for the umpire. One advantage of the game as played professionally is that those sitting in the grand stand can play the game a great deal better than the eighteen men on the diamond. It is also true that any one of the spectators, even though perched on a telephone pole across the street or looking through a knothole in the fence beyond right field, can judge of the pitcher's skill or the runner's fleetness much more intelligently than the arbiter who stands behind the battery The great merit of the game is that the people can participate in it. It is not like bridge whist. Its science is not synonymous with silence. The thing to do is to take off your coat and root as long and as loudly as you can, even if you don't know what is happening.-Philadelphia Ledger.

Taking It Out In Trade.

The proprietor of a certain Turkish bath establishment, seeing a strong looking young man working in a butcher's shop and being impressed by his magnificent muscles, told him to resign and take a rubber's position with him

"I'll give you more than you are getting now," he said. The young butcher, resigning in good faith, turned up the next morning at the bath house. "Well," said the proprietor to him, "I'll put you on at once. What did you get at the butcher's?" "Six dollars and my week's meat."

returned the young man. "What did that amount to?"

"About $3." "Well," said the proprietor, "I offered you more to come here, didn't 1? I'll give you $6 in money and $4 worth of baths weekly. That is a dollar more than you got at your old place."

Dutch Engagements. A custom among the Dutch is the exchanging of engagement rings, which are narrow bands of plain gold, with the initials of the betrothed and the day of the betrothal engraved on the inside. They are worn on the left hand before and on the right after marriage. Dutch engagements extend over a period of from two to five years, During this time the young woman gives up all amusements in which her flance does not participate. If he is not of the dancing sert she refrains from that recreation, however much she may desire to engage in it. She never goes in company anywhere if he is not present, and when they go together to a ball no gentleman will ever ask her to dance without formally gaining his permission. - London Scraps.

The Sure Thing. A theatrical manager once offered a famous actress $1,000 a week to make a tour of the world. She insisted on $1,500. But the manager said $1,000 was all he could give, and he reminded her of the fabulous jewels that South American millionaires, Russian grand dukes and Indian rajalis are wont to lavish on the ladies of the stage when they are touring, "Go home," said the manager; "think the matter over and let me know your decision in the morning." In the morning the actress sent the manager this message; "Give me my terms and you can have
