Engine Mileage and Time.

The following statement of mileage and time made by a freight engine on the Third district is taken from an engineer's time book for the months of August and September: Total mileage 7,850, hours worked, counting from time engine crew was called to leave terminal until relieved at destination, 480 hours and fifteen minutes; over time made during the two months, three hours; average time over district eight hours.

The engine which made this mileage was in the chain gang, first in first out, and caught all kinds of trains—locals, drags and expedite, and is a fair comparison for the twenty freight engines in service on the Third district.

Taking into consideration that the Third district of the Union Pacific is a single track, that fourteen passenger trains are handled each twenty-four hours, and that the freight traffic during the two months was up to the maximum, the showing is certainly a fine one, and speaks very highly for the train dispatchers in the North Platte office, the motive power as well as for the general management of the road.

Hunters Apples Ruined.

A dispatch from Sutherland to the Omaha Bee says: Reports from the orchards of this vicinity are to the effect that a heavy loss of fruit will result from the effects of the hard freeze of Monday night. Here the mercury went down to about 15 above zero, and as there were many hundreds of bushels of apples on the trees and in piles in the orchards the loss is important. At Glenburnie fruit farm, two miles north of Sutherland, it is estimated that 7,000 bushels of choice apples were ruined. Other orchards suffered to a less degree. The apple crop of this neighborhood was the best on record and the trees were fairly loaded with fruit.
