When the Earl of Kimberley arose he gravely admitted the force of this dizument.

There can be no doubt," said he. that the bill would put an end to fishing with worms as buit. It is a bill to greent cruelty to wild animals in captivity. The schedule states that the word 'animal' shall be held to inhide reptile. A worm may be held to be a reptile. A worm impaled on a book must certainly be held to be in captivity; therefore the angler who uses a live worm for bait would be guilty of cruelty to an animal in captivity."

The laugh that followed at the expense of those against the bill robbed the opposition of whatever force it had and carried the measure to a successful issue.-Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Sun Cooking.

Sun cooking-reasting and belling by sunlight Instead of by coal or gas-has been going on for 300 years. There are sun stoves that roast a sirloin or boll soup to perfection. They are only sed, however, by scientists. A sun stove consists mainly of a mirror-a spherical mirror-on a joint. There is also a reflector. The place for pot or plate is so situated that the mirror's rays can be focused on it accurately.

A German, Baron Tcherhausen, was the first sun cook. He began in 1087 to boll water, and in 1688 be had very good success in holling eggs. Sir John Herschef and Buffon are other famous names associated with sun cooking. In California various sun cooks have boiled a gallon of water in twenty minutes, roasted ment in two hours and posched eggs in fifteen minutes, quite as good time as the ordinary fire makes.

An odd thing about meat roasted by sun rays is that it has an unpleasant taste. This is avoided by the insertion of a plate of yellow glass between the meat and mirror. In all solar stoves the sheet of yellow glass figures.-London Tit-Bits.

One Sided Gambling.

"One need only to try his luck at any of the Riviera gambling palaces to learn how slender are the chances to win at roulette," says a German correspondent writing from Ostend. "But if he would experience the gambler's disadvantage at its best let him come to Ostend and join the baccarat players. The game as it is played gives the near who places his money against were known how much money is sacso chance whatever, and if it rificed in a season in the endeavor to win by luck and by system the public would be horrified. It is nothing unusual for the bank to win twenty-four times before an outsider wins once. The people who play, if they have ever played before, know this, and still they come again, respond to the call until they depart and plant their gold in the baccarat mire in the hope that it will bear fruit. It does. But what is the

A Snocked Scot.

The London Chronicle says that two Englishmen recently touring in Scotland found that Sabbatarianism ocea sionally extends to the middle of the week. They were forced by the weather to take refuge in a small country hotel and after lunch adjourned to the billiard room to kill time until the rain stopped. The game had hardly started when the landlord entered in a very drunken condition, upbraided his vishors for their unseemly conduct and issisted on their leaving the billiard remain. They received profuse apologies from the landlady. Her husband always got drunk on Sundays, she explained, but, mistaking the day, he had got drunk on Thursday instead. and from force of habit, believing it was Sunday, had been shocked at the

The bishop of Petersburg, England, is a great motorist and is also a stanch teetotaler, and thereby hangs a tale. On one occasion, while out in his car, the chauffeur ran short of petrol and applied at a public house for some more. The publican came out, and, seeing the bishop in his episcopal dress in the car, said: "Yes, I've got plenty of petrol, but I don't sell it to the likes of them what never buys my beer,"

Nothing Was the Matter.

"A newsboy I knew," said a yachtsman, "took to the sea. He became cabin boy on a tramp collier. He was a good boy, but-

"Once, when our white squadron was at Newport, this coilier steamed In her slow way shoreward with her ensign unside down, the signal of distress-distress of the direct. Instana pretty sight was to be seen. Every warship in the fleet lowered a lifeboat, and all of those beautiful, snowy boats, manned by jackies in spotless white duck, raced for the grimy old colller at breakneck speed-a pretty sight indeed. The captain of the collier stood on the bridge. He waved his hat, and the crews pulled all the faster. As they drew close they heard the man's

"'Come on! Pull! Get down to it! he roared, dancing about wildly,

'What's the matter, captain?' the first officer to reach the collier asked breathlessly.

"'Why, nothing's the matter,' the captain answered in a surprised voice. "'Then why's your ensign upside down?

"The captain looked aloft, then frowned.

'It's that boy Hank again,' said be 'And here I thought it was a regatta."

Light and Dark Cigars.

A striking example of the ordinary smoker's ignorance on the subject of smokes is the popular superstition that a dark looking cigar is stronger than a lighter colored one. Some strong cigars have dark wrappers, but the dark wrapper does not by any means indicate a strong clgar. Dark, gummy to bacco, if thoroughly cured, is the mildest form. Of course if dark tobacco is not thoroughly cured it will be strong, but so will light tobacco, for that matter. Any cigar man will bet you that the dark color is usually, though not always, a sign of a ripe, well cured leaf, which is therefore milder nine times out of ten than the lighter hued leaf. But when it is known that every manufacturer makes both dark and light cigars and that he uses exactly the same blend of filler in both and that the wrapper only constitutes a small fractional part of the cigar it is clearly seen that the shade of the wrapper has little to do with the strength of the cigar. Ask the dealer for a strong cigar. He hands out a dark one, and the imagination does the rest.-Harper's Weekly.

How Spiders Undress. It is an interesting sight indeed to watch a spider change its skin and one that will well repay any one for the time taken up by waiting for the little known-generally speakingevent to take place. When preparing for the change the spider stops eating for several days and makes his preliminary arrangements by fastening himself by a short thread of web to one of the main lines of his snare, this to hold him firmly while he proceeds to undress. First the skin cracks all round the thorax, being held only by the fore part. Next the lower part of the body is uncovered, and then comes the struggle to free the legs. He works and kicks vigorously, seeming to have a very hard time of it. Fifteen minutes of continued perseverance, however, brings him out of his old dress, the struggle causing him to appear limp and lifeless for some time after it is finished

Just Pleasantness.

Perhaps just pleasantness has not very herole sound, but the human beart that, knowing its own bitterness can yet carry itself cheerfully is not without heroism. Indeed, if that hu man heart does no more than hold Its tongue about its own aches and pains it has a certain moral value that the world cannot afford to lose, "Pleas antness" does not sound as well a self sacrifice or wisdom or spiritual ity, but it may include all these great words. And certainly just to star one's husband out to his work cheer fly, to make the hobbledehoy of a sor feel a gentler and sweeter sentimen toward women because of his ewn mother's sound, sweet gayety and strength, to help one's servants to put good bumor and friendliness into their services-these things make for rightcousness in the world.-Margaret De-

I saw the best of intentions become a veritable boomerang on Broadway the other night. A policeman had ar rested for some small disturbance two well dressed men who had evidently had too much, but were facing the inevitable trip to the station without any further fuss.
