We hope to be able to publish in Friday's issue the names of those who will do the work in this county. Here in North Platte all are anxious that the enumeration be very accurate. The Talk of all America.

"The Lion and the Mouse," probably the most talked of play in America today, will be presented in this city Monday evening, April 18th, under the direction of Henry B. Harris. Everyone who is interested and keenly alive to the influence wrought upon American politics by the moneyed interests, trusts and kings of finance, will appreciate Mr. Klein's great drama. Briefly outlined, it relates the story of Shirley Rosmore, daughter of Judge Rosmore, a judge of excellent standing, who, through the rendering of decisions in opposition to the interests of a despot in the financial world, John Burkett Ryder, known as "Ready Money" Ryder, is impeached by the latter and financially ruined. Ryder's son, Jefferson, falls in love with Judge Rosmore's daughter, Shirley, who has been in Europe. Upon her return, she finds her father ruined in reputation, broken in health and financially embarrassed as a result of this ruling. One man holds the proof of Rosmore's innocence. That man is Ryder. Through his love for Miss Rosmore, Ryder's son purloins certain papers, which will prove Judge Rosmore's innocence, at least morally. Discovering this, Ryder orders the girl from his house in which she has become an inmate as the writer of his biography and under an assumed name. The scene which follows is a striking and dramatic one, and although the love interest, seemingly subservient in the struggle, becomes the vital factor in a situation unconventional in its treatment and finely dramatic in its presentation and climax. There has probably never been a play in the history of the American drama which has scored the triumph of "The Lion and the Mouse." There is no class of theatre-goer who will not be interested in its theme or could fail to appreciate the wonderful lessons it teaches.
