FRIDAY JUNE 17, 1910.

One of the political queries now before the people of Nebraska is whether or not W. J. Bryan will be a candidate for United States senator.

Declaring that District Attorney Fickert of San Francisco had failed to take action, Governor J. N. Gillett Wednesday ordered that the Fourth of July fight between J. J. Jeffries and Jack Johnson be stopped by Attorney General U. S. Webb.

The tyranny of a government that would make its departmental clerks work eight hours instead of seven hours a day is apparent at a glance.

Denver papers state that the several railroads which have been doing construction work in Wyoming and Colorado have ordered a cessation of work.

The New York World calls attention to the fact that while the railroads recently undertook to raise their rates all along the line, and are only waiting now for another opportunity to make the attempt, other public service corporations have not made such effort.

President Ripley of the Sante Fe railroad published a letter which he says was written to him by "a very prominent business man," that predicts a long-drawn panic as the ultimate outcome and remedy of existing business and political conditions.

The Louisville Courier aptly and truly says: "The farmer furnishes business for the lawyer, he gives employment to the doctor, he secures the service of the teacher and the preacher. He furnishes most of the revenue to maintain our government.

Some Facts About Nebraska.

A well known publicist has described a "bonanza" as being "a hole in the ground for sale by a liar." The definition is true only in part.

Here are a few facts about Nebraska that homesteaders should study and which loyal Nebraskans should reiterate to the four corners of the earth:

Nebraska raises more wheat, oats, barley, corn and alfalfa to the acre than any other state in the union.

In 1909 the average yield of corn per acre in the United States was 25.5 bushels; the Nebraska average was 25.7.

In 1909 the average yield of hay per acre in the United States was 1.42 tons per acre; the Nebraska average was 2.22.

Nebraska soil is peculiarly adapted to the growing of every cereal and fruit that may profitably be raised in the temperate zone.

It is the third largest corn producing state in the union, with a smaller corn acreage than either of the states that are ahead of it in total production.

A decade ago Nebraska was not counted among the wheat producing states. Today it is the fourth wheat producing state in the union, and raises more wheat to the acre than either of the three states exceeding it in total production.

The two states that excel Nebraska in corn production were old and well settled states before Nebraska was admitted into the union.

There is a difference between "cheap land" and "low priced" land. There is very little "cheap land" in Nebraska. But there is a great deal of "low priced land" that may be secured at a low price on easy payments, and which will produce abundantly.

The home seeker need look no further than Nebraska. The far northwest is famous for wheat, but Nebraska wheat lands are just as productive and in addition Nebraska soil will grow corn, oats, rye, barley, alfalfa, potatoes, etc. just as profusely as it grows wheat.

There are approximately 49,000,000 acres in Nebraska. Twenty-five million acres are as yet untitled.

There is land in Nebraska subject to homestead. Write to the United States land office, North Platte, Nebraska for information.

For farm land, improved and unimproved, write to any reputable real estate dealer in Nebraska. The real estate dealers who advertise in this newspaper are worthy of confidence.

Nebraska offers homes to the industrious.

The Aero Club of Nebraska announces an amateur aviation contest in connection with the Mid-West Aviation meet to be held on a sight near Omaha, July 9 to 14.

There are a good many people in Nebraska interested in aviation but it was not known anyone pretended to fly until the Aero Club announced enough amateur aviators had been found in Nebraska and Western Iowa to have an amateur meet in connection with a big demonstration. Nine applications are now in for entries to contest.

Professionals who will compete include Glenn M. Curtis, who recently made the record breaking flight from Albany to New York city. Chas. K. Willard and C. J. Mars, both professionals in the heavier than air machines are under contract to come.

The Nebraska Aero Club has put up $15,000 to secure these men and they will give a five day demonstration on some site to be selected by Mr. Mars within a few days.

Thursday's Omaha Bee had this item: One of the oldest confidence games known to the police, found another victim in John Monson, a farmer of Paxton, Neb., when he handed out $16 to a stranger on a train at the Union station Wednesday morning.

Sherman was on hand to meet Monson, quite by accident again at the Union station. He explained he was trying to send out a bill of freight to Paxton, and had a check for $1,600 which he couldn't cash.
