The trade of the United States with France for the year ending the last of this month will reach the enormous sum of $120,000,000 worth of goods and France has sold us $130,000,000 worth, giving that country $10,000,000 to the good. Statistics have been published showing that during the past five years 312,000,000 people have emigrated from the United States to Canada, and that they have taken with them $312,000,000. And the question arises, have the majority of these people benefited themselves by the move? Those who have gone are a sturdy, hard working, intelligent class as a whole, the kind who can do well in any country, but would not they have been just as well off had they purchased cheap land which is still available in all of the western states. And if so why emigrate?

It is a little surprising that Governor Shallenberger, in his effort to make campaign thunder, resorts to statements that facts do not bear out. In his late speeches he has said that "we," the democratic party, has reduced state taxes about one million dollars a year. But the truth is there has been no reduction of taxes, except that in order to wipe out a state debt of long standing the legislature passed a law levying a one mill tax. This levy raised a sufficient amount in four years, and the purpose being accomplished, the one mill levy was dropped out the year Shallenberger took his office. This is the reduction to which the governor refers. The fact is the last legislature, which was democratic, appropriated $800,000 more money than did the previous republican legislature.
