Miss Merle Thornburg is working in the Cressler dental parlors during the absence of her sister who is off for a two weeks vacation.

Miss Leety, who had been the guest of her sister Mrs. John Singleton for several months past, left yesterday for her home in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. O. B. Whipple, of Sacramento, Cal., who had been visiting relatives at Kearney for two weeks, arrived yesterday and will be the guest of friends in town for a short time.

O. T. Lytle Dies.

O. T. Lytle, who was found in an unconscious condition Monday on his place seven miles north of Hershey, died at the P. & S. hospital at 8:30 yesterday morning, to which institution he had been taken the evening before.

As related in Tuesday's Tribune, the deceased suffered a paralytic stroke of the left side. At no time after the stroke was there hope that he would survive, but he was taken to the hospital in order that such aid as could be given him might be more easily available.

The deceased was about sixty-five years of age, and he has several grown children, Mrs. D. A. Russell, of this city, being one of two daughters.

Interment will be made in the North Platte cemetery, but at this writing arrangements for the funeral have not been fully arranged.

Light Frost.

A light frost was visible yesterday morning, so says Weather Observer McDowall. The temperature early yesterday morning dropped to thirty-six degrees. The cold wave, which reached this section Wednesday evening was due to snow in the Black Hills section. There was a heavy frost in all parts of Wyoming yesterday morning.

Ballots will be Recounted.

The county clerk's office received an affidavit from J. C. Dahlman yesterday in which he recites that he believes that a recount of the ballots cast in Lincoln county at the recent primary is necessary. County Clerk Elliott will therefore assemble canvassers and a recount of the ballots will be made. Similar action will be taken in each of the counties of the state. Shallenberger served notice on Dahlman that he would ask a recount in certain counties. Dahlman went him one better by demanding a recount in all the counties.

Farmers Can Afford Cars.

A Chicago special to the Omaha Bee says: Officials of representative banks located in the county seats of fifty-four counties of Nebraska deny that the credit in that state has been impaired by the purchase of automobiles, and in all except one instance declare that it has not been necessary for the farmers to give a mortgage to purchase one of the modern flyers.

The denials are in answer to a series of six questions addressed to these bankers in letters sent out by Geo. W. Mason, Chicago manager of the Omaha Bee, and The Twentieth Century Farmer.

Arthur McNamra, president of the First National of this city sent in the following reply:

"In this section only the farmers who are able to buy machines own them. We feel that farmers have as much right to purchase automobiles at the present time as they had to buy horses and carriages in the past. We believe farmers are living better and enjoying more luxuries for the reason they can afford it."

Becker-Ackerman Wedding.

At the W. H. Diener residence in the Third Ward Wednesday evening occurred the wedding of Miss Katherine Becker and William Ackerman, both of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Harmon, of the Lutheran church, and witnessed by a small number of guests, only intimate friends and relatives of the couple.

The bride was gowned in a beautiful and very becoming dress of silk, trimmed with lace. She was attended by her cousin Miss Mary Becker who also wore white silk. The groom was attended by John Becker, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served and the young couple left on the midnight train for Cass county where the bride's mother makes her home. After a two weeks' visit they will make this city their home.

The bride formerly made her home in Gandy, but for some time past has been making her home in this city and has won a large circle of friends who join in extending their best wishes to the young couple. Mr. Ackerman, a son of Mr. and Mrs. August Ackerman, north of town, is a steady upright young man with a host of friends. He is in the employ of the railroad company at the freight depot.

Ex-Governor Frank S. Black, of New York, writes for the press a brief article on what he considers the danger to the republican party. Briefly summed up his conclusion is this: "Men fight better in companies than any one of them would detached. Scatter your army in fragments and your last campaign has been won. The republican party is now facing this danger. We seem to have thrown away our party guns and knapsacks and are now visiting in tents hitherto of doubtful reputation." Mr. Black puts the thing perfectly straight. It is time for the stragglers to get back into camp.

With Aldrich and Dahlman as the gubernatorial candidates, the issue in this campaign will be county option to the exclusion of all others questions. Dahlman stands for "personal liberty" in its broadest application; he opposes county option and says he will vote such a measure if passed by the legislature, and is also opposed to the eight o'clock closing law. In other words he is in favor of Nebraska being wider open than at present. Aldrich believes that county option is right in theory and correct in practice, and that all the people of the county should say whether liquor shall be sold in the county. Both candidates are plain and unequivocal in their respective position; neither beat about the bush.

BEFORE AND AFTER.

Moses P. O'Brien claim agent of the C. B. & O. R. R. company, was in the city Tuesday, and as evidence that he is not lacking in the wit, which has made the race from which he sprung, kindly contributes the following: "The farmer said to James his Son: 'Old Dobbin's usefulness is done; I've worked him now for thirty years, and while it fills my eyes with tears to have to shoot him through the head, its better for him to be dead.'"

The Son replied: "A railway train has saved us all the grief and pain; Old Dobbin got upon the track, a train came up and broke his back." "Great Spoons", the farmer cried, "I'll write a letter to the road tonight; I'll see if it can maim and slay fine-blooded stock and get away."

That horse was sired by Norman Chimes, that won the Derby seven times, I just was thinking sitting here, that I would show him at the fair, and take in first or second prize. That horse could gallop for a week and then get down and trot a streak.

I scarcely ever go to town but men with money run me down, and ask if Dobbin is for sale; when I tell them no, they fairly wail.

And Dobbin's dead, my cherished steed.

The daggone road that made him bleed will pay his value if there's law or justice west of Omaha. A thousand bones and nothing less will take the edge off my distress."
