Railroad Yards Congested.

During the past week the local rail-road yards have been badly congested with freight, more so than for many months, if not years. To remedy this condition Conductor C. A. Weir has been appointed general yardmaster, a position that has been temporarily created until the yards are relieved of the congest-

McDowell Goes to Sioux City.

G. W. McDowell, for a five years in charge of the United States weather bureau in this city, has been transferred to Sioux City, Ia., and will leave for that place about October 15th. The Sioux City office is in some respects a more important station than North Platte, hence the transfer is in the way of a promotion to Mr. McDowell.

Interest in Revival Continues.

There is no abatement of interest in the Finnell revival at the opera house. The attendance continues to be large and the work of saving souls goes or with excellent results. Seven sought and found the new life Sunday bringing the total up eighty-one. This is cer-tainly a great work in North Platte— results that will live long after the revival has passed into the forgotten past

The meetings will be continued the remainder of this week, and a cordial invitation is extended to all to attend.

Methodists Stab Dahlman

The Methodist conference while in session in this city passed the following resolution: "Be it resolved by this annual conference that we publicly and privately urge our people to support and vote for only those candidates who have declared themselves in favor of the county the right to prohibit the saloon. We are unutterably opposed to J. C. Dahlman's election as governor of our state and pledge ourselves as ministers to do ell we possibly can by voice and vote to defeat him, because of his bold and blatant stand in support of the brewery. We with all our powers seek the election of C. H. Aldrich and all other candidates who come out boldly for county option, regardless of their party name." A similar resolution was adopted by the conference held last week at York.

the employes of the road. Some who have commented on the poster are of ved at the close of a very enjoyable evethe opinion that this is part of the plan by which the railroad is endeavoring to line up its employes in a compact pol-litical union that can be directed from headquarters in the interest of any and

Death of Mrs. Casey.

Mrs. Catherine Casey died Sunday morning at her home on W. Fourth St. at the age of eighty-nine years. The deceased had been in poor health for several years and death was not unex-pected. The funeral was held from the residence yesterday afternoon.

Catherine Anna Miller was born in Bruniston, Ky., April 13th, 1821, and was married to George Casey on Sept. To this union eight children were borr, the only living one being Mrs. J. D. Shaffer, of this city. She united with the Christian church about sixty years ago, and was a consistent christian and a woman of fine character. The de-ceased came to North Platte with her husband thirty-six years ago.

Work Progressing Well.

The special work began Thursday night at the Baptist church is making a healthy development. Dr. White has already twined himself into the life of the church and the people in such manner as to make the work of the permanenty order. The decks are cleared and every gun is in readiness for action. The interest deepens with each meeting and the work takes or new phases with every service.

Two adults united with the church on Sunday morning and several others are ready to do so. The work is of such character as to commend itself to all right thinking people and must nec-essarily command the attention of North Platte. Additions and baptisms will no doubt be almost a regular fea-ture of the meeting. The main diffi-culty is the small building. R. B. FAVORIGHT.

Judge Grimes, who had been holding district court in western counties, re-turned home Friday.

Mrs. Claude Delaney came down from NorthPort Friday and left the follow-ing day for a visit with relatives in Gothenburg.

Mrs. Premus Forstedt, who became a mother last week, has been in a critical condition for several days, due to hemorrhages.

The men's meeting at the opera house Sunday afternoon was attended by about one hundred. An excellent talk was given by Revivalist Fennell.

Bert Barber came down from Lewellen Friday and after spending several days with friends in town, left for Lincoln to enter upon his fourth year at the state university.

John Gundram, living thirteen miles northeast of town, will have a sale of personal property on Tuesday, October 18th. The property to be sold includes seven horses, and colts, a number of head of cattle, and farm machinery.

The sessions of the Methodist conference closed Sunday and the attendants left for their respective homes Sunday night and yesterday morning. The conference is pronounced to have been a most interesting and suc-

Death of Sutherland Woman

Mrs. Anna Bussmer, living west of Sutherland, died at her home Friday Sutherland, died at her home Friday from cancer, from which she had been seriously ill for the past year or more. She received medical treatment in Omaha and for several weeks last summer was at the Physician's & Surgeon's hospital in this city, but not improving any, she was taken to her home, accompanied by a trained nurse who has since remained with her. The funeral services were held at Sutherland Sunday afternoon conducted by Rev. Sunday afternoon conducted by Rev. S. F. Carroll, of this city,

Lining Up Employes.

A writer in the Lincoln Journal calls attention to a railroad scheme as follows:

In every station, warehouse and on the toolhouses all along the main line of the Union Pacific the traveler these days is confronted by a big white canvas poster on which this is printed in red letters: "If the company is not prosperous will you be?" The inquiry is supposably intended to be aimed at the employes of the road. Some who Misses Francis Nichols and Eda Wen-

"The Spendthrift."

At the Keith Theater Monday, Oct.3 Frederic Thompson's "The Spend-thrift" will be presented. Porter Emerson Browne is the author. "The Spendthrift" treats of frivolous extravagance and its consequences. Its principals are Richard and Francis Ward, the former a business man with ward, the former a business man with working, saving and home-loving instincts, the latter, his "Butterfly" wife, desirous only of a triumphant social career. At first willingly but after awhile protestingly, the husband furnishes the money to humor her extravagant habits. Eventually he finds himself on the brink of ruin, with nothing to show for his years of toil. The prospect of life in any station but the prospect of life in any station but that to which she has been accustomed appalls Mrs. Ward. Having no understanding of her husband's business affairs, she cannot realize the imminence of the catastrophe threathing them. Believing that the lack of funds is a man ter of only momentary seriousness she borrows money from a "friend," in-tending with it to help both her husband and herself.

The circumstances of this transaction are such that when they come to Ward's knowledge the affairs of couple have arrived at a climax which makes a complete readjustment of family relations absolutely necessary. This readjust-ment takes place and the last act of the play discloses a woman transformed. The production is marked by that careful attention to detail which is a characteristic of everything for which Frederic Thompson stands sponser.
