

CATARRH OF THE KIDNEYS FULLY RECOVERED

Mrs. Maria Gongoll, Mayer, Minn., writes the following: "I must inform you that I recovered my health after using your valuable medicine, Peruna."

Her Tribute. Randall—How did you like the military parade, Ida?

"SPOHN'S." This is the name of the greatest of all remedies for Distemper, Pink Eye, Heaves, and the like among all ages of horses.

No Hurry. "What are you in such a rush about?" "Promised to meet my wife at three o'clock down at the corner."

Important to Mothers. Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the signature of J. C. Watson.

At the First Try. "What do you think of my doughnuts, George?" "Dear, you are a wonder!"

Easy for Her. An extremely corpulent old lady was entertaining her grandchild at luncheon when she found occasion to reprimand the little girl for dropping some food on the tablecloth.

Fable of Pan of Biscuits. A Vassar girl married a Kansas farmer.

Two weeks later a cyclone made the happy pair a friendly call. It savored around the premises, ripping up the fences, scattering the haystacks and playing horse with the bars.

There lay the bride's first pan of biscuits. "I ain't feelin' very strong this morning," murmured the cyclone.

Deadlock. "Who is that man who has been sitting behind the bar day after day?" inquired the stranger in Crimson Gulch.

"That's Stage Coach Charley. He's in a peculiar predicament. He went to town last week and got his teeth fixed. Then he came here, and, being broke, ran up a bill on the strength of his seven dollars' worth of gold fillin'."

Wise Words. A Physician on Food. A physician, of Portland, Oregon, has views about food. He says:

"I have always believed that the duty of the physician does not cease with treating the sick, but that we owe it to humanity to teach them how to protect their health, especially by hygienic and dietetic laws."

"With such a feeling as to my duty I take great pleasure in saying to the public that in my own experience and also from personal observation I have found no food equal to Grape-Nuts, and that I find there is almost no limit to the great benefits this food will bring when used in all cases of sickness and convalescence."

"It is my experience that no physical condition forbids the use of Grape-Nuts. To persons in health there is nothing so nourishing and acceptable to the stomach, especially at breakfast, to start the machinery of the human system on the day's work."

"In cases of indigestion I know that a complete breakfast can be made of Grape-Nuts and cream and I think it is not advisable to overload the stomach at the morning meal. I also know the great value of Grape-Nuts when the stomach is too weak to digest other food."

"This is written after an experience of more than 20 years, treating all manner of chronic and acute diseases, and the letter is written voluntarily on my part without any request for it." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pgs. "There's a Reason."

HAPPENINGS IN THE CITIES

Wild West Outdone in New York City

NEW YORK.—The wild west was once the home of most that was romantic and daring in crime. Today it is superseded by the wild east—by New York city itself. Crimes are being committed here which for daring and unwontedness can scarcely be surpassed even by the most imaginative of writers of fiction.

A few weeks ago, up the river in the neighborhood of Hudson, there was a hold-up such as Deadwood Gulch or Coyote Canyon never surpassed. A paymaster and his guard returning from a bank with $5,000 to pay off the laborers in a brickyard were held up and shot to death within a few hundred yards of their office, and to this day not one of the assassins has been captured and not the slightest light has been thrown on the tragedy.

Recently in West Forty-seventh street there was a duel between two parties of men. Each of them was in a big touring car and they maneuvered up and down the street exchanging shots like two battleships in action. There was another duel between two automobile parties on Seventy-second street a couple of evenings later.

Not long ago, one afternoon when Broadway was crowded, a gambler stood in front of one of the best known of New York's theaters and the big swindlers in fake mining schemes.

Bring Rare Antiquities From Egypt

BOSTON.—The Egypt exploration fund of England and the United States has forwarded to its headquarters in Tremont Temple a valuable consignment of antiquities to be divided among museums contributing to the society's excavations in Egypt. These objects were displayed in King's College, London, and represent the result of last winter's work conducted at Abydos, Ehnasiya and Sidmant.

Abydos has proved an especially valuable site for exploration. Here Osiris and Isis had their chief altars, to which offerings were brought from the farthest borders of Egypt during the period of centuries from the twenty-eighth to the thirtieth dynasties.

The main work, which was carried on under the general direction of Prof. E. Naville, consisted of an attempt to clear finally the royal tombs of the first and second dynasties; but much still remains to be done at this site, and good results are expected from the continuation of the work next season.

From these excavations come slate palettes, jars and vases, ornaments of glaze, wood, stone, carnelian, amethyst and flint; flint razors, ivory carvings, beads and pottery.

Now the Slot Machine Grocery Store

CINCINNATI, O.—The corner grocery store in the crowded tenement sections of great cities in the United States will be crowded out by automatic grocery stores if the formation of a great corporation to install slot machine stores in congested districts proves a success.

Rev. H. E. Robbins of New York city, who came here to attend the general Episcopal convention, has recently been appointed chairman of the committee of 50 business men and philanthropists who will direct the placing of the stores.

Automatic lunchrooms, though not new, form another side of the project. The company has already contracted with the Baldwin Locomotive Works and Cramp's shipbuilding yards to supply food at noon to their 40,000 men, said Rev. Mr. Robbins.

Women to Pit Salon Against Jackpot

CHICAGO.—The "jackpot" is to be supplanted by the "salon" at Springfield. Tea and wafers are to vie with the stronger stimulants which have been inseparable from legislative lobbying before. Pretty girls will pit their skill against that of corporation lawyers and saloon keepers.

Feminine methods are to be introduced into political wire pulling and those who are familiar with the internal politics of women's clubs predict that even the most practical politician will learn something new.

The invasion was decided upon at a meeting of the Political Equality League in the rooms of the Chicago Woman's club upon suggestion of Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, a justice of the peace at Evanston. The league will maintain a salon in Springfield throughout the next session of the legislature. This salon will be quite the equal of those through which brazen women so often swayed the destinies of France.

engaged in a pistol duel with another whom he claimed had wronged him. The aggressor was the poorer marksman and was filled with lead. Half an hour later the sidewalk had been scrubbed up and was dry and dusty again, and the surging crowds gave a little comment to the affray as the border men used to when a man was killed over a game of cards in Ahlens or Dodge or any other of those roaring cities of the cow country a quarter of a century ago.

One of the most daring deeds in the history of the metropolis was that performed by Myles McDonnell. He walked into a saloon, where he knew a lot of his enemies were waiting to kill him. The minute he stepped inside the door three or four of his foes opened fire on him. He drew his pistol without batting an eye and answered shot for shot. The doctors of the Harlem hospital were busy for several days thereafter attending to the dead and wounded. McDonnell killed two and seriously injured three or four others. He himself got off without a scratch.

New York today has the greatest clearing house for thieves in the world. It is there that congregate the transatlantic robbers, men who work the ocean greyhounds. After each round trip they meet at this rendezvous and divide their spoil. There also assemble the master thieves, the big robbers, the clever men who steal by brains as well as by force. They are the safe blowers, the crack second-story men, the cleverest of forgers who steal with pen and ink, the kings and princes of the wireless wire-tapping and gold brick industry, the big swindlers in fake mining schemes.

It is a significant fact that many of the discoveries of the last year are injured by dampness, because they lie so near the area of cultivation. The wide extension of agricultural Egypt resulting from the building of the monster dams at Assout and Assouan, has not been an unmixed blessing. Many of the noblest monuments have been injured and will ultimately be overthrown by the encroaching waters. The relics of the past that have lain safely in the dry sands of Egypt are already beginning to decay at the touch of the infiltrating waters. A few years more and the excavator will find nothing of value in places that are now rich fields for archaeological research.

Jesus Christ did not come primarily to change the circumstances that should make life easy, but to give a new incentive and lofty inspiration that would enable men to meet life's circumstances as they are. He never promised his friends that the path of duty should be free from danger. In the spirit of the Spartan mother who charged her soldier son, "Come home with your shield or on it," Christ says to his disciples, "Take the field and save humanity, cost what it may." It is always true that the choice of the broad path of personal ease and comfort, instead of the narrow path of duty, leads to the loss of self-respect, the world's esteem, and true success.

Sir Henry Stanley describes bravery as a requisite for those who push into the African forest, and says: "The bigger the work the greater the joy of doing it. The whole-hearted striving and wrestling with difficulty to lay hold with a firm grip and level head and the calm resolution of the monaster, and tugging and toiling and westing at it today, tomorrow, and the next, until it is done—is the soldier's creed of forward, ever forward; it is a man's faith that for this task he was born." When McKay wrote from Uganda in Africa to the home church, he said, "For our work at this station we want the best men in England; not a man who can be easily spared, but the man who cannot be spared." Christianity from the beginning has grown upon tasks that were so great as to require the consecration of all its power.

"O, pray not for easy lives, pray to be stronger men; do not pray for power equal to your tasks; then the doing of your work shall be miracle, but you shall be a miracle; every day you shall wonder at yourself, at the richness of the life which has come to you by the grace of God."

Final Aim. The main reason why men are so quickly swept off their feet by passion, why gambling and lust and drink are so strong, is because God has not been chosen as the final aim of life to furnish a standing check upon the tiger and the ape in the menagerie of the soul.—Rev. J. P. D. Lewyd, Presbyterian, Seattle.

Make Use of Your Gifts

By REV. ABNER H. LUCAS, D. D.

Text.—And he said, leave us not, I pray thee, for as much as thou knowest how we are to encamp in the wilderness, and thou mayest be with us instead of eyes.—Num. 10:31.

What more glorious use can be made of knowledge, influence, and personal strength than to turn them to the help of the needy? If your vision is penetrating and clear, what nobler service can you render than to "be eyes" for those who may not see afar? If your hand has strength and cunning, to what better use may it be turned than lifting the burdens of the weak and teaching the unskilled how best to accomplish their task?

If you have wealth you have possession of a power for good which is nearly omnipotent, if rightly applied. What more worthy aim can lead men and women of wealth than that through their help the poor may catch visions of the highest and holiest life? If we have the gift of prophecy, we must use it for the instruction of the ignorant, if we retain it. To hesitate is ingloriously to fail; selfishly to keep for ourselves what God has intended shall serve his children, is to lose life with all its opportunities of good. Hobab's knowledge and influence never were more precious to him than when, having refused the appeal to enrich himself, he accepted the opportunity to assist others. As the new dangers arose, and he helped Moses meet them and conquer them, his own mind and soul grew imperial. By the number, magnitude, and stress of the responsibilities of others, he was developed into his own worthiest life. When a great Italian commander was defeated he issued his immortal appeal: "Soldiers, I am without money and without reward. I have nothing to offer you but cold and hunger, and rags and hardship. Let him who loves his country follow me." But with that summons to self-denial and patriotism he gathered to his side the choicest souls of his generation. The men who followed in response to that appeal became courageous heroes themselves. When our Lord turned and said to the multitude, "The Son of man hath not to where to lay his head," and invited them to follow him, he was calling to men and women who had counted the cost, and were ready to surrender themselves to the cause of purity, truth, and human helpfulness. The way of life is narrow; the gate to it is narrow; but the narrowness of the way and the gate are its glory. Narrowness of the way demands energy, high purpose and noble perseverance. There is no other way. To invite a great soul to a broad path is to invite him to smallness, to the cessation of growth and impotence. The cry has been heard in every age, "Would God it were easier to be good!" "And would God it were easier to redeem the earth!" But that is a mistaken cry. When the ten spies returned from Canaan murmuring because of the obstacles to their conquest, their murmuring was an evidence of weakness of character; but the cry of Caleb and Joshua was, "Up, let us conquer these giants, and take their walled cities." That was the token of the greatness of the two.

The Difference. "I don't see any difference between you and a trained nurse except the uniform," said her sick husband. "And the salary," she added, thoughtfully.—Harper's Bazar.

That Cold Room

on the side of the house where winter blasts strike hardest always has a lower temperature than the rest of the house. There are times when it is necessary to raise the temperature quickly or to keep the temperature up for a long period. That can't be done by the regular method of heating without great trouble and overheating the rest of the house. The only reliable method of heating such a room alone by other means is to use a which can be kept at full or low heat for a short or long time. Four quarts of oil will give a glowing heat for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. Filler-cap does not screw on; but is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached by a chain and cannot get lost. An automatic-locking flame spreader prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that it can be cleaned in an instant. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, and is easy to unscrew in an instant for reworking. Finished in Japan or nickel, strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental. Has a cool handle.
