We desire thank the neighbors and friends for their many acts of kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father. Mrs. J. W. McCauley, AND CHILDREN.

"Polly of the Circus" Friday evening attracted one of the largest audiences that ever gathered at the Keith to witness a theatrical performance. This in face of the fact that the play had been given here last season.

The reduction in the working time at the Union Pacific shops may not be appreciated by some of the men, but it is better for all concerned than a dismissal of men. This shortened time is not likely to long continue.

Clinton York went to Cozad Saturday morning to transact business for a few days.

Judge Grimes and Attorneys Wilcox and Halligan returned Saturday from Oshkosh where they had been attending the sessions of district court.

In speaking of the football game at Kearney, Friday, the Daily Hub said: "Halligan played a wonderful game, everywhere and at all times, and that can not be gainsaid."

W. C. Dolan sold Friday to Phil Griffith, of Cozad, and Ed Lewis, south of Willow Island, 75 head of feeders. They went at $4.30 and averaged 860 pounds. W. C. also bought 24 head of heifers and cows from G. W. Roberts. —Maxwell Telepost.

Beginning yesterday the entire shop force have been put on an eight hour day schedule. Reductions of the forces in other departments have been made and by every means possible the running expenses of the company are being lowered.

Rt. Rev. Anson R. Graves, Episcopal bishop of the Kearney district, will visit the local parish next Saturday and Sunday. It is probable a farewell reception will be tendered him Saturday evening. The Bishop will be succeeded December 1st by Dean Beecher.

B. J. Guynan and family, of Wood River, arrived in town the latter part of last week and are occupying the former Worthley house on West Third street, which Mr. Guynan purchased some time ago. He owns quite a tract of land south of the river.

"The Squaw Man."

"The Squaw Man," which comes to Keith next Thursday evening is a very strong play. One of the most intense scenes is that, in the second act, when Cash Hawkins, the "rustler," invites the cowpunchers in the Long Horn Saloon to "drink with me," the invitation is emphasized with a drawn 44-Colt. It is not used, because Hawkins had the drop on every man present, and each individual knew it. This is one of the few cases on record where a "bad man" pulled a gun and did not use it, and that the failure later cost Hawkins his life.

Edwin Milton Royle has taken the incident from real life, and it actually occurred in the Rocky Mountain sheep saloon, "West Cliff." "Young" Dick McCoy, one of the "bad men" of Wyoming, dropped into the saloon, loaded with bad whiskey. Some of the "Bar L" and "Broken T" outfit, most of whom were Englishmen had come in from the round-up and were quietly drinking. McCoy, with an oath, whipped out his gun; waved it toward the bar, and in a burst of profanity, declared "The house drinks with me. I'll kill the first coyote and 'short horn' who don't step lively."

When the glasses were filled, the rustlers proposed a toast, as he lifted his glass on high and swept his gun in a semi-circle "here's to the Beers." A young Englishman, Hunter, stepped up to the desperado; whipped out his revolver and placed it against McCoy's side, blowing a hole through his body. As he fell dead, McCoy's trigger finger closed convulsively. When the smoke cleared away, it was seen that Hunter's left ear had been clipped off by the last shot of the "good bad man."

P. A. White, Fred Ginn and J. E. Fillion spent several days last week at Julesburg, Holyoke and other points in northern Colorado, looking up lands in that section. The trip was made in the former's car.

G. T. Shanks, who for a number of years had lived north of town, left with his family yesterday for Comstock, Custer county, where he will engage in farming.

Saves an Iowa Man's Life.
The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Iowa, when, after seven weeks in the hospital, four of the best physicians gave him up, then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. For, after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice, getting no help from other remedies or doctors, five bottles of this matchless medicine completely cured him. It is positively guaranteed for stomach, liver or kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50c at Stone Drug Co.
