STREET NAMES AS MEMORIALS.

In Paris, where one may visit the Street of the Fourth of September, it the National Association for the Study will be possible presently to traverse also the Street of Edward VIL By designation in the latter instance France will honor a late great and good English friend; in the other case the beginning after Sedan is commemorated of the present republic. Considering the array of New York streets and avenues running to arithmotical terms, we are reminded how far we have neglected memorial opportunities in the naming of our thorougfares. Certainly we have honored Washington in New York-several times, indeed, in the several boroughs, says the New York World. We have Lafayette in street and avenue, and did have him in boulevard till Riverside drive was extended. A few other names we have remembered of men great in state or nation. There are perpetuations, too, of the names of old local families. But where is our Avenue of the Declaration of Independence? Where our Boulevard of the Fourth of July? Where our Street of the Surrender of Yorktown and our Place of the Emancipation Proclamation. In the absence of such historic designations for important thoroughfares is a real metropolitan deficiency. Newer New York offers abundant chance to remove the fault. But instead of suggestions to this end we have a change of name for fine old Long Acre square, and a proposal is actually mode to wipe out the famous old Bowwry? We are not a sentimental people.

Whaling formerly was extensively carried on and was a perilous occupation. The business is not yet free from danger, notwithstanding "modera improvements." In the earlier days the chief risk was to the crews of the whale boats which put out to harpoon and follow the big cetaceans. Then it was a case of hunting the Whale, with the latter frequently turning on the boats and smashing them, the men thus being menaced with drowning. Now the tables seem to be turned to a certain extent, and the whales hunt the ships. At all events news comes from Alaska that a whaler was wrecked in Alaskan waters by a whale which had been har pooned and which gave the vessel such a crushing blow with its powerful tall that the ship sank in four minutes, the crew having barely time to take to the boats, in which they reached the shore.

Fines may not please them, but they can afford a money penalty, when interest or pleasure tempts them to the breaking of the law, as a fine simply buys them immunity from the disgrace of fail and the inconvenience of losing their personal liberty. A few jail sentences in such cases would have an almost immediate reformatory effect.

The growth of the crusade against tuberculosis in the United States is shown to good advantage in the two directories that have been issued by and Prevention of Tuberculosis and the one in preparation. The first tuberculosis directory published in 1904, by the tuberculosis committee of the New<sup>4</sup> York Charity Organization Society and the National Association listed 123 sanatoria and hospitals for consumptives in the United States, for some of which preliminary provision only has been made. The combined capacity of these institutions was only 8,000 beds. Thirty-two special dispensaries and thirty-nine anti-tuberculosis organizations summed up practically all of the fighting force enumerated in the first directory. The second directory was prepared by the National Association for the study and Prevention of Tuberculosis and published under the auspices of the Russell Sage Foundation in August, 1908. This directory listed 240 sanatoria and hospitals, an increase of 107 from the former directory; 158 dispensaries, an increase of 126; and 195 associations, an increase of 156. The number of hospital beds listed in 1908 was 14,014.

The new directory that will be issued soon, will list over 400 sanatoria and hospitals with a bed capacity of nearly 25,000; more than 300 special tuberculosis dispensaries; and fully 450 anti-tuberculosis associations and committees. Since the first directory was issued in 1904, the increase in the number of agencies fighting consumption aggregates nearly 500 per cent.

The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis would like to get in touch with all agencies engaged in the fight against tuberculosis, in order that they may be listed in the new directory.

Says Woman Editor.

Women Whose Husbands Earn $2,500 Yearly Have No Business to Keep Servant, Says Mrs. McGlone in Lecture.

Chicago .- Women whose husbands earn $2,500 a year have no business to keep a servant, according to Mrs. Idah McGlone Gibson, editor of the Woman Beautiful.

She addressed the members of the home and education department at the Chicago South Side club on "Marriage as a Business."

"The average earnings of the salaried man of the United States is from $600 to $2,600 a year, and his wife has no more business to shirk her part of the marriage contract by keeping a maid than her husband would have to keep an automobile," said Mrs. Gibson.

"We hear about the lax marriage ideas of modern France, but the United States records show one divorce in every twelve marriages. There is a reason, and that is the women of America marry men and then look out for a good time, shirking the responsibility of the business of married life. They sit around the house during the day, and when their husbands come home at night, tired out with the hard day's work, they want to go out to spend the evening.

"This often causes dissension. The husband is too tired and tells his wife so. Then she pouts. If she had been attending to her business all day, as she should have been, she would have been just as tired as he and as ready to stay at home. They should be partners in the business of home making."

er. The freak hat also is about to At this point Mrs. Ira A. Newman said:

> "It is a wife's duty to keep rested during the day that she may greet her husband cheerfully when he returns from his hard day's work." "Yes," returned Mrs. Gibson, "but housekeeping should be the first had been exhibited. She measured 22 thought of the married woman. DR. E. R. TARRY, 223 Bee Suilding, Omaha, Neb. fireside after the evening meal.

"The good homemaker should know what she is paying for butter. She should know whether eggs are 25 or 36 cents a dozen, and she should also know what is being used for the table in her house. If she is the proper kind of wife and mother and makes marriage a business she will train her daughter how to buy and will rear her to be an exemplary housewife. Work never hurt any one, and yet we as a nation are training and educating our daughters in everything under the sun but the one great, essential thing -marriage.

"Homemaking is the principal factor of a woman's life and should be taught the young girls of today rather than higher mathematics or fancy work.

"If your girls go to college see that they make their college wardrobe. Let them feel and know the value of a dollar bill. The old biblical idea that work is a curse visited upon the descendants of the inmates of the Garden of Eden is wrong.

"Woman is the greatest retail buyer in the world. Fashion is purely a commercial thing and the manufacturers tickle the fancy of the woman by exhibiting new and pretty things. which she, having no idea of the value of money, readily buys.

"The woman who is her husband's comrade and who makes a business of housekeeping and homemaking is not tempted beyond her means. She considers it her duty as her husband's partner to save. The women of the great middle class of France are the bone and sinew of the country and are responsible for that small country's wealth and prosperity."
