Lecture Course. The first number of the Lecte Course comes next Monday night. Lecture is an attraction rarely seen outside of the larger cities. Benj. Chapin has had a reputation in New York for years. His impersonations of Lincoln have won him national fame. Read his press no-tices and you will see that he has all of the great literary critics with him. His evening differs from most attractions in being intensely interesting and in leaving with those who attend some-

we. The Lyceum is too broad for us to get all of it. But he will get all that he can and that is just what we will do. The girls need the same inspiration and will get as much out of it. We say get him a ticket good for every number and get him to get it reserved.

Try to supply your family of five people with two tickets and you are not ng as well for them as you would do if had five tickets. Better economize on something else and have the intellectual awakening. Business men need the course. Professional men should be there. Our doctors and lawyers should be as cultured as our preachers and

Baptist Notes.

All past records are maintained and even surpassed. The audience last Sun-day night filled the house. All present gave extraordinary attention while the pastor preached a full hour. This is an unusual length of time for the speaking as it is planned to occupy only an hour for the entire service. About thirty to for the entire service. About thirty to forty minutes is the time usually occupied by the pastor. The mid week meeting this week was splendid; better than the ordinary which, is saying much. Thirty-five persons were present not counting several small children. Several said at the close "The meeting was too short; I wanted to speak." All meetings of next Sunday will be according to regular schedule.

During the past month the price of hogs has dropped about $2.00 per 100 in the south Omaha market. This dein the south Omaha market. This decline is due, the packers say, to the large corn crop, which means plenty of fat hogs. During the past year the Lexington Shippers Association shipped three hundred thousand dollars worth of hogs

Lets Train Cut his Foot Off. It is not a very uncommon thing for persons to become discouraged and throw themselves before a moving train with the intent to commit suicide, but for one to deliberately poke his foot under the wheels of a moving train and thus have it amputated, is something seldom if ever heard of until the other day when a tramp performed the act between Juniata and Kenesaw. The man who did the foolish act told the The man who did the Poorter of a news-following story to a reporter of a news-

 'My name is Sam Childs; I was thirty years old October 20; my parents live at Leoti, Kan. I was born in Tennessee. When my brother and myself or mo were old enough to work a little my teed. father became cranky and grew worse and we grew older. I got out of bed once at midnight and ran away, but later returned on the advice of my friends only to be driven away again. I have been a wanderer for fifteen years, riding freight trains and expecting to lose my life. I did this act October 24th of my own free will, in accordance with the Catholic bible. My parents have no more religion than dogs. and I had never been baptized, so I baptized myself with my own blood, having no one to help me. First I removed my old shoe, rolled down my sock and pulled up my pants and draw-ers, and when the train whistled for the bridge I stuck my right foot across the rail. Zip! and it was done. Then I pulled myself around the abuttment of the bridge and let her bleed awhile and then checked the flow with my garters and pulled my drawers and pants over the stub; I was forced out of hiding in the weeds the following day by thirst and discovered by the section men. This is all I care to say."
