TUESDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1910.

After an illness of nine days, Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, died Saturday night at 10:45. No physician was in attendance but she had the assistance of the students who comprised her household. Death was declared to be due to natural causes. Mrs. Baker was born July 16, 1821.

Governor-elect Aldrich gave the patronage tree a shake Saturday and about a dozen political plums fell into the laps of men who would rather receive a political appointment at $150 per month than to hustle at some other vocation and earn $200. It is said Mr. Aldrich for some time past has been receiving about 400 requests daily for appointment to office, which indicates that the army of pie hunters is just as large as ever.

Homesteaders in the west part of the state have sent in a petition to Washington asking that they be permitted to vacate their homesteads until March. Dry weather during the summer and consequently light crops has resulted in short rations for the homesteaders and they desire to leave their claims for a few months in order to earn a few dollars to tide them over until they raise something to eat. The permission asked should be granted.

Several of the smaller cities of the United States made a wonderful increase in population between 1900 and 1910. The greatest percentage of increase was Oklahoma City which jumped from 10,000 to 64,000; Muskogee from 4,000 to 25,000; Pasadena from 9,000 to 30,000; Seattle from 80,000 to 237,000; Berkeley, Cal., from 13,000 to 40,000; Flint, Mich., from 13,000 to 38,000, and Birmingham, Ala., from 38,000 to 132,000. Of the larger cities Los Angeles leads with a gain of 217,000, or 211 per cent.

The constitutional amendment, although it received a majority of the votes cast on the question, is lost since it did not get a majority of all the votes cast at the election. The amendment provided that foreign-born residents shall not be permitted to vote until after they have completed their naturalization. At present they may vote simply on their declaration of intention. The amendment received 98,121 votes and 73,559 votes were cast against it. Over 70,000 voters who did not express any preference are responsible for its defeat. To have carried the amendment would have required 121,696 votes.

A Big "Example"

To the teachers with precocious pupils whom it is hard to keep busy, and to older persons of sound mind who find time a burden, permit us to point the way of relief. Take a pencil, paper, and county map and figure out a new legislative and Congressional apportionment for Nebraska. For reapportionments on both lines there must be. Our congressional districts have stood unchanged for twenty years, the legislative districts longer still. The census returns disclose a shifting of population which makes a reapportionment in all fairness necessary. Our congressional districts now range in population from 164,215 in the First to 247,775 in the Sixth. If Congress lets us retain six representatives the average for a district will be 138,702 and the law requires the districts to be as nearly as possible of the same population.

In the legislature the Twenty-second district, which consists of Saline county with 17,896 people, has one senator. The Thirtieth district, with more than 50,000 people, has the same number. Senator Bartos will represent one-third as many people as Senator Hoagland. In fairness, every 36,000 people should have a senator. There is one representative for every 12,000 people. Lancaster county has at present only one for every 15,000, while Richardson has one for every 6,000.

To divide up the state into six congressional, thirty-three senatorial and one hundred representative districts so as to respect county lines, make districts compact, and give each the nearest possible approach to its fair proportion of population, is a "sum" in arithmetic to interest the least mathematical and yet try the powers of those who think in numbers.

For this task is a "snap" compared with that of the man who must make a stagger at the ideal while at the same time making the greatest possible number of districts safe for the political party on which he depends for office. But this is no business for the young or for the idly interested. The midnight oil of the politician will attend to that.—State Journal.

Garlow on High Living.

Fred H. Garlow, manager of the Cody ranch, contributed the following article to a late issue of the South Omaha Daily Drivers Journal-Stockman: The falling off of the prices in meats the last two weeks has given the newspapers of the country another opportunity to enlarge upon the old familiar subject, "The High Cost of Living." They should say—"The cost of high living in the city."

It is almost laughable, how little it takes, to make the people in the city scramble at the news of lower meat prices. Why, pork chops are two or three cents cheaper—Great! The newspapers take it up and put large "scare-heads" over their articles and proclaim to the world that the packers have been robbing the people all these years and the farmers have actually been riding in automobiles.

The papers give columns to the subject and rail at those associated with the industry for having prices so high. The consumer reads about the low prices of meats, which the papers state have come to stay, heave a sigh of relief, and some even rush out and order that dress suit they have been wanting on the strength of lower meats and then, alas; along comes the law of supply and demand and says—"Put the prices back," and up they go again.

It's all B-U-N-K and misleading and the people who are associated with the live stock industry, from the packer down, know it.

The cost of producing live stock for market has increased very materially in the past ten years and it will take more than one year's corn crop to make meats to the consumer much cheaper.

Prices are bound to fluctuate more or less this season as they do every year, but there won't be many sky-scrapers erected from the savings of the meat bill.

As to the farmers owning automobiles, why shouldn't they?

Hasn't the man in the country, who is up every day three or four hours before the city man thinks of getting up, a right to have a little pleasure in this world; or must he plod along year after year and produce products for the city multitude and be satisfied with box socials at the corner school-house and go to them in a lumber wagon?

The reports come out from New York, every time there is a money stringency now days, that the farmers of the west are buying too many automobiles. Well, the farmers of the west sent their money down to New York and they haven't forgotten the fall of 1907.

Why, if it wasn't for the automobile huxter around their city, those New Yorkers never would get fresh toothsome vegetables.

Another thing, if the farmers of this state had the power that is used up each year by "Joy-Riders" in New York alone, they could produce twice the amount of crops, at a lesser cost, than they do today.

Then again, when its all done—and said: Our city relations wouldn't like to have us "afraid of the cars," when we visit them anyway, so its up to the farmers to keep up with the proposition. F. H. GARLOW.

The Climax.

The beautiful thing in "The Climax" is the masterly manner in which Edvard Locke has drawn the character of Adeline, the heroine who is working hard to become a great prima donna. She is beloved by and loves Dr. Raymond, a young physician. The woman fights against the natural inclinations for a home, motherhood and all of the joys and sorrows which come with happily married life. Against these is a life of a gratified, towering ambition, where genius has to pay the price, in the shape of existence, lonely beyond human endurance.

Two loves make the struggle very hard for the girl, on the one hand is her lover, whom she adores; on the other the tender loving care of her old maestro, Luigi, who gives the best remaining in his nearly spent life to the perfecting of the God given voice of Adeline. And there is the worship of Pietro, the young composer, who is struggling with his masterpiece, "The Song of the Soul," which is to usher Adeline to the world as a great prima donna.

It is a great picture of common, every day life, homely in its heart-breaking truthfulness; and as such has taken a firm and lasting grip upon the playgoers of this country in the past year. This season the company presenting "The Climax" at the Keith next Saturday evening is the best which Joseph M. Weber is sending on the road, each member of the cast being selected for individual worth, and with the idea of producing a harmonious whole.

Saved From Awful Death.

How an appalling calamity in his family was prevented is told by A. D. McDonald, Fayetteville, N. C. R. F. D. No. 8. "My sister had consumption," he writes, "she was very thin and pale, had no appetite and seemed to grow weaker every day, as all remedies failed, till Dr. King's New Discovery was tried, and so completely cured her, that she has not been troubled with a cough since. Its best medicine I ever saw or heard of." For coughs, colds, lagrippe, asthma, croup, hemorrhage all bronchial troubles, it has no equal, 50 cents, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Spiritual Awakening Near Wellfleet.

R. B. Favoright, pastor of the Baptist church, returned late last week from the Valley community southwest of Wellfleet. He brings news of a great meeting in a school house where he has been preaching in evangelistic services for nearly two weeks. Pastor S. E. Bishop of Wellfleet, with the assistance of an evangelistic singer had been carrying forward the services for weeks and called for help. Six persons had made a start before Mr. Favoright went, and when the meetings closed last Wednesday night there had been thirty-eight definite public professions of faith in Christ and purpose to live the true Christian life. Over a score more manifested interest by coming forward or standing. Twenty have already united with the church, and fifteen were immersed in the Little Medicine last Sunday. All the converts except two boys were adults above fifteen years of age. Husband and wives and whole family were among the number.

The church has been meeting in a school house seating about sixty people, but this would not nearly accommodate the crowds. Steps were taken and committees appointed during the meeting looking to a $2500 church building.

NO REASON FOR IT.

When North Platte Citizens Show the Certain Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the torture of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of diabetes or any kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a North Platte citizen says:

J. M. Harper, 409 Dewey Street, North Platte, Neb., says: "I had occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney trouble when living in Creaton, Ia., and found them to be a splendid kidney remedy. Their use removed a pain across my back which had troubled me greatly. They also strengthened my kidneys and regulated the passages of the kidney secretions. I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills most highly. They can be procured from McDonnell & Graves' Drug Store."
