Several re-apportionment bills have been drawn and will be introduced in the legislature. So far all that have been given publicity put Lincoln county in a representative district by itself, with a seat member from Lincoln, Dawson and Keith counties. Such a division is equitable and will prove satisfactory to the people of this county. It is hoped that an apportionment bill giving western Nebraska the proper representation will meet with little opposition from the east end members.

In his message to the legislature, delivered last Thursday, Governor Aldrich urges the passage of direct legislation and county option; the restoration of the closed primary; strengthening of the anti-trust law; giving cities the power to make their own charters; ratification of the income tax amendment; favoring the use of voting machines; overhauling of the registration law to prevent certificate frauds, liberal appropriations. He wants the legislature to eschew party politics, pass needed laws and adjourn by March 1st.

The Tribune favors any move that will attract more people to the state. If it is necessary to spend $50,000 of the taxpayers' money to further that end it will be money well spent. Nebraska, and especially the western half, needs more people, either as farmers or stock growers. It is a section that offers inducements to both. The gain made in population during the past ten years was largely in the western counties, but the increase was not nearly as large as it would have been had the state been more extensively advertised. The field is inviting.

The judiciary committee of the United States senate is expected to make a favorable report on the resolution for an amendment to the constitution providing for the election of senators by a direct vote of the people. It is believed that the resolution will be strenuously opposed; that filibustering will be waged to prevent it from coming to a vote. The senators who oppose the resolution are pretty certain to kill themselves politically, for undoubtedly three-fourths of the voters the country over favor electing senators by a direct vote. It is in the line of progressive politics.

Indications are that the county option bill will come up for consideration early in the legislative session, and that it will be fought through to a finish without unnecessary delay. We believe that this is the proper plan, for so long as it hangs fire—and especially as the fight promises to be bitter—it will materially hinder the passage of other laws that are needed. If county option is defeated—and the result at this time is problematical—the next move will be for statewide prohibition. Such action will take the question out of politics, where in the first place it had no business.

Fred Ginapp, living south of Maxwell, who in his young manhood served in the army and protected the western frontier and helped to open to civilization our glorious western country, has lately been admitted to membership in the National Indian War Veterans Association, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., with Henry Hegwer, National Commander and C. R. Hauser, National Secretary. This organization is composed of ex-United States and volunteer soldiers, who in the early frontier days fought back the Indians step by step, making it possible for hundreds of thousands of inhabitants to now enjoy what was gained by their struggles, hardships and sacrifices in the early frontier days.

Bank Commissioner J. N. Dolley, of Kansas, reported yesterday that during the last three months thirty banks have been robbed in Kansas, one every third day, and that the safe crackers have secured $100,000. During this time not one robber had been captured.

It is worth while to repeat and emphasize the figures on file in a New York court showing the profits of the packing business. In a suit brought by a stockholder of the Swartzchild & Sulzberger company it is charged that this packing concern made a profit of from 30 to 50 per cent on its former capital of $4,373,400. Dividends were with held, it is alleged, for the purpose of squeezing out the stockholders outside of the Sulzberger family. When this was accomplished the capital of $4,373,400 was exchanged for $20,000,000 of common stock in the new Sulzberger & Sons company, and $12,000,000 of preferred stock was issued in addition. Up to this time we have seen no denial of the accuracy of these figures. They are in the records of the special term of the supreme court of New York.—Lincoln Journal.

No county official, and especially a county commissioner, has ever retired from office without having made some enemies. This is natural and cannot be evaded. When there are two parties to any kind of a contest, a decision must be made against one or the other, and as a result the one defeated feels "sore." We believe, however, that E. H. Springer retires from the position of county commissioner with less ill-feeling—considering the length of his service—from the people of the county than is usually felt toward such official. One thing is certain, no county commissioner studied conditions more thoroughly and endeavored to acquaint himself more thoroughly with county affairs than did Mr. Springer, and he has been faulted for certain things which upon full investigation would have been found unworthy of just criticism. We believe that Mr. Springer retires from office after having well performed his duties.

A recent bulletin of the census bureau states that twenty-eight million of the population of the United States is centered in cities having populations of twenty thousand and over. This is nearly one-third, and the proportion is so large as to be startling. This movement from the rural sections and villages to the cities has been developing for a century and we may hope that it has now reached a climax and that the movement will hereafter be turning in the other direction. This is possible for the reason that agricultural, stock-raising and fruit-growing are becoming more attractive each year and are affording better opportunities even to young men who have been bred in the cities and large towns. Coupled with a free, independent and health-giving existence, making for both manhood and morality, the country must be greatly the gainer all through and through if the movement back to the land can be given the proper impetus.—Kearney Hub.
