SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year by Carrier in advance.....$1.50

Entered at North Platte, Nebraska, Post office as Second Class Matter.

TUESDAY, JUNE 6, 1911.

Before adjourning last week the Pennsylvania legislature appropriated $4,000,000 for good roads, and also submitted an amendment authorizing the state to borrow $50,000,000 to be spent in good roads. Pennsylvania has poor roads; and so has Nebraska.

Business throughout the country, as reported by the commercial agencies, is slow, and the revival which was predicted early in the spring has failed to materialize. We are now entering upon the period of midsummer dullness, and the revival cannot now be expected until fall. The crops will have much to do with this hoped for revival, good crops as a general proposition, resulting in good business.

One-sixth of 1 per cent of the population of Nebraska is in asylums for the insane. Joel A. Piper, clerk of the state board of charities and correction who made this computation says in 1900 only one-eighth of 1 per cent was in asylums for the insane, therefore he believes insanity is on the increase or that a growing confidence in the public institutions of this kind places a greater number of insane in the care of the state. At the three insane hospitals of the state 2,070 patients are being cared for, and there are probably a few at private institutions.

Announcement is made by the state university senate that the standards of admission to that institution will be materially changed. Twenty-eight high school credits will hereafter be required for condition admission to the colleges of arts and science, engineering and agriculture. Full admission requires thirty points as heretofore, but in the future twenty-four points will not be accepted as sufficient high school experience for entrants who wish to become candidates for degrees. Following is the list of the senate resolutions. No. 1. After September 1, 1912, twenty-eight points shall be the minimum requirement for conditional admission to the college of art and science, engineering and agriculture in the university. No. 2. There shall be maintained a list of junior accredited schools on the basis of three years of secondary school work. The graduates of these schools may receive conditional admission to the university upon the completion of sufficient additional work in an accredited school to secure the minimum of twenty-eight points.

The latest addition to the list of candidates for nomination for county offices is E. W. Crane, who solicits the republican nomination for county judge. Mr. Crane was one of the earliest settlers of Fairview precinct, where he lived for a number of years, and then moved to this city and has since followed the vocation of carpenter and contractor. It is true Mr. Crane has not always been a republican. He rode on the top wave of populism, and later became a democrat, but became divorced from the latter party and is now firm in the espousal of republican principles. Mr. Crane while not a lawyer, is well read in law, he has made it a study, and this qualifies him for the position for which he is a candidate. He has lived with us for many years and has established a record for good citizenship. Mr. Crane rulings as judge would be in all cases unbiased and his clerical ability fits him for the probate duties.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Progressive Republican League of Nebraska was to have been held at Omaha last week, but because of the inability of Senator Brown and Congressman Norris to be present, the meeting was postponed to a future date. In a letter expressing his inability to be present, Senator Brown said: "The principles of the league can only be advanced successfully by uniting all forces who believe in them in a steady and constant effort to support them. Our chief danger, as pointed out by ex-President Roosevelt in a letter to us here, is a division of the friends of the movement among themselves. The moment we begin to factionize and divide our forces in the interest of any one of our number for some particular office that moment the cause for which we stand begins to lose the support that belongs to it. The league is for the advancement of government policies and not for the advancement of any particular individual. Under the Nebraska statute the rank and file are permitted to choose all their officers and to express their choice for president at a primary. They should be permitted to do so and to exercise their own judgment in that regard without dictation or suggestion on the part of any organization whether it be our own or some other organization. Our fight is for a cause and not for men."

Local Mention.

The Travel and Study Club tendered Miss Emma Smith a farewell party at the home of Miss Lillian Hendy Friday evening. Several very amusing features were introduced for the entertainment of the members, and each one presented Miss Smith with a token of the occasion. The pleasant evening closed with the serving of enjoyable refreshments.

U. G. Keeler, who had been held by the sheriff at Grand Island for two weeks on account of what seemed a temporary derangement of the mind, was returned to this city the latter part of last week. Keeler for some time had kept books for John LeMasters. A couple of weeks ago he departed without notice. Since returning here he seems to have regained his normal condition.

A business meeting of the Epworth league will be held on Tuesday evening. Matters of utmost interest will come up and all members are earnestly solicited to be present. The subject for discussion at next Sunday's meeting is "religious training and leadership," and a cordial invitation is extended to strangers especially to the visiting teachers.

We sell the best watch to be had at $25.00—Ball's Commercial Standard. Dixon, The Jeweler.

Sheriff Miltonberger was notified by telegram from H. A. Spellman, sheriff of Julesburg, to arrest and hold W. H. Finney, wanted at that place for jumping a board bill and other offenses. The arrest was made and the sheriff at Julesburg notified, who arrived on No. 12, but his man refused to go with out requisition. Mr. Spellman returned to Julesburg and later notified Mr. Miltonberger to release the prisoner as the parties did not wish to go to any further expense. Finney was released.

Business Chance.

County News.

The Wallace Winner says: Cut worms are reported to be doing much damage in the corn fields.

Howard Conger, of Dickens precinct, recently suffered the fracture of both bones in one of his legs while dicing corn.

A little daughter of D. S. Breiner, living south of Sutherland, ran into a barb wire fence and almost cut off the lower portion of her nose.

Sidney Hopping, of Wallace, who was taken to Excelsior Springs, Mo., for treatment, and thence to the home of a sister at Maryville, Mo., died at the latter place and the remains brought to Wallace Wednesday for interment.

Thanks to the late rains, everything in the south part of the county is reported to be looking fine. The Wallace section has been re-named "Egypt" and around Somerset and Dickens the conditions are likened to those of the fertile valley of the Nile.

ANSWERS EVERY CALL.

North Platte People Have Found This So.

A cold, a strain, a sudden wrench. A little cause may hurt the kidneys. Spells of backache often follow. Or some irregularity of the urine. A certain remedy for such attacks. A medicine that answers every call. Is Doan's Kidney Pills, a true specific.

Many North Platte people rely on it. Here is North Platte proof. John T. Hollenbeck, 520 East 11th St., North Platte, Neb., says: "My kidney trouble dates back to the Civil War. When I returned home the privations had undermined my entire kidneys. I used a great many kidney remedies, but nothing compared with Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured from McDonnell & Graves' Drug store. I have appealed to them on numerous occasions and the results have always been excellent. Of course, I am pretty old now, past seventy-seven, and must expect some trouble, but I feel that in Doan's Kidney Pills, I have something that will always give me relief."

For Sale by all dealers, Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agent for the United States.

A CIPHER NOTE

By MARGARET BARR

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"I have perfect confidence in my husband," said Mrs. Ackley to Mrs. Bradshaw, "and the reason why I have confidence in him is because he's so careless. If he had occasion to keep anything from me he couldn't do it. For instance, if he should receive a love letter from any illegitimate source he would be sure to have it in his pocket."

"But how would that give him away?" asked Mrs. Bradshaw.

"Why, my dear woman, there's not a night when he is in bed and asleep that I don't go through his pockets."

"It's the only safe way with men."

Time came when Mrs. Ackley in going through her husband's pockets received a shock. She came upon a bit of paper on one side of which was her husband's name written in a woman's hand, on the other certain mysterious figures—1, 12, 9, 3, 5.

Mrs. Ackley turned pale. She loved her husband notwithstanding the fact that she thought it necessary to watch him. She had gone through his pockets for years dreading that she would find something to convince her of his inconstancy, and at last the blow had fallen. She almost wished she had remained in ignorance. Possibly she would have burned the message had not curiosity interposed to prevent her doing so. She wiped a tear from her eye and looked at the paper again. There were the figures 1, 12, 9, 3, 5. Doubtless every figure stood for some loving word.

Getting her feelings under control, she began to puzzle over the figures with a view to their interpretation. It was the first day of May; therefore the figure 1 might refer to the day of the month. But 12 came next, and the twelfth month is December. By beginning at the other end the theory fitted better. May was the fifth month. The figure 5 coincided with the month exactly. The next figure, 3, might stand for the day of the month, 9 possibly marking the hour. The figures indicated that the sender wished Mr. Ackley to meet her on the 3d day of May (the next day) at 9 o'clock. Twelve might mean the termination of the meeting, the hour it would be necessary for the woman to leave him. But was it not from 9 to 12 in the morning or 9 to 12 in the evening. "I have it," she exclaimed. "The figure 1 indicates that it is the first 9 to 12 of the hour in the day or in the morning. Of course it wouldn't do for them to meet in the evening. I might have something to say about that. In the morning, when he is at his office, I am supposed to be powerless. We shall see."

Having doubts about the correctness of this deciphering of the message, she tried another theory. Possibly the figures might spell a word that would mean a whole sentence. She tried several plans and at last hit upon one making the figures represent letters. The first figure was 1, and A is the first letter of the alphabet.

"Eureka!" she exclaimed. "Then she read, 1, A; 12, L; 9, I; 3, C; 5, E—Alice. 'Aha,' she cried, 'so the name is Alice!'"

She thought over all the women she knew, but none was named Alice. Her rival could not, therefore, be one of her friends or acquaintances. She must be some one her husband had met whom she, his wife, knew nothing about. She would unearth this plot, but she would not spoil it by letting it be known that she possessed the secret.

When Ackley came home for dinner and gave his wife the usual marital kiss he noticed that her lips were cold. "Don't feel very well, dear?" he asked.

Mrs. Ackley declared that she was perfectly well. Nevertheless, though she tried to appear as usual, she failed. The next day Mrs. Ackley, after breakfast, went to her mother's to remain for the day. She could not bear to remain in the house with the man who was deceiving her. She telephoned him during the day that she would remain away all night. Mr. Ackley passed the evening at his club, went home at 9 and the next morning, having breakfasted, went to his office. There he found a note from a man with whom he had an important business deal asking him to be at a certain place at 9:30 a. m. Mr. Ackley left his office without saying where he was going. He did not return till half past 12.

When he did return he found his wife in the office looking like a thundercloud. She had been there three hours "nursing her wrath to keep it warm," and an accumulation of vindictiveness had placed her in a condition frightful to behold. Those in the office were waiting an explosion. When Mr. Ackley entered he looked at his wife, astonished. Without a word she took from her portmanteau the cipher message and handed it to him.

"Miss Quimby," said the gentleman after glancing at it, addressing his stenographer, "there are the figures of the new safe combination you wrote out for me and which I couldn't find yesterday." Then to his wife, "Have you had your lunch, dear?"

Mrs. Ackley went out quietly with her husband. What was said between them the office force did not know. They inferred that the memorandum of the safe combination had something to do with Mrs. Ackley's long wait at the office.

Homeopathy Principles

Similea, Similibus, Curantur.

A like remedy will cure a like disease—as a remedy which has the same symptoms, or produces the same in the well, will cure those in the sick, and with nature's help will cure quicker than any other, and with less expense to the human economy. This system of medicine has at its command anything in the realm of cure, such as electricity in any form, the Vibrator, Massage, Hydrotherapies. Therefore the correctness of choosing this line of treatment, rather than whims with a single borrowed idea. For out of town patients and all those interested, rooms furnished when desired, for confinement, medical and the necessary surgical cases. Trained nurses in attendance.
