New Harriman's Trains Fast.

The new Centennial State Limited train of the Union Pacific and Northwestern lines is one of the fastest trains in the world, from Omaha west. It makes nearly as fast a time as the famous Twentieth Century limited of the New York Central between New York and Albany and the Pennsylvania special of the Pennsylvania railroad between Chicago and Fort Wayne. Both of these eastern lines are on a water level grade, while the Union Pacific line rises 764 feet in going the same distance as these lines.

The time records of these three trains show what speed they travel for long distances. From New York to Albany 142 miles on the Twentieth Century limited, takes 171 minutes, and from Fort-Wayne to Chicago on the Pennsylvania, a distance of 148 miles, takes 170 minutes; while the Union Pacific from Omaha to Chapman, Neb., 142 miles, takes a time of 175 minutes.—Omaha Bee.
