Abernathy Boys in Town.

Louis and Temple Abernathy, aged respectively eleven and seven years old, arrived in town yesterday enroute to San Francisco on horseback. They left New York August 1st, and if they complete the trip by October 10th, they are to receive ten thousand dollars. They rode their horses out of the Atlantic ocean and by the terms of their contract they are to ride them into the Pacific ocean before midnight of October 10th. They must not sleep in a hotel or house of any kind nor eat therein, and carry blankets strapped to their ponies. The horses are the same they left New York with, but they are permitted to change in Wyoming if they desire. They are a few days behind schedule time, but expect to make up the time between here and Ogden. So far they have been accompanied by their father Jack Abernathy, who is a personal friend of Teddy Roosevelt, having been one of the rough riders at San Juan hill. The Abernathy boys are known as the "Roosevelt boys," because they rode horseback from their home in Oklahoma City to Washington, where they were received by President Roosevelt.

Fight With Rattlesnakes.

The Wallace Winner publishes this snake story: Mrs. Fred Walter, south of town, had a remarkable experience with a bunch of rattlesnakes one day last week. Mr. Walter had gone to town leaving her at home with three little three year old boys. The little fellow, who had been playing outside the house for some time after his father left, came running into the house and exclaimed, "Oh, Mama, come out here, there is something in the cellar window that goes b-z-z-z, and it ain't dead either." Mrs. Walter immediately went out and there on the ledge of the cellar window was curled three big rattlesnakes. The window was closed preventing them from going into the cellar and Mrs. Walter procured a hoe and attacked them in front but they came at her so viciously she was forced to retreat. She then went into the house and got the shot gun and coming out she found them still coiled up and full of fight. With one lucky shot she killed two of them and with the next shot put a hole through the other, the biggest of the three. This one had twelve rattles and a button showing it to be an old-timer, the other two had nine and seven respectively. The wonder is that the little boy escaped without being bitten as the reptiles were camped in a place that was his daily play ground.

Judge Dano, of Ogalalla, transacted business here this week.

Mrs. A. S. Ross, of Lewellen, is spending this week in town.

Walter Beauchamp, of Hershey, has been in town for several days on business.

Miss Edna Laughlin left for Sutherland Wednesday after spending a few days with Miss Kathleen Flynn.

WELL HOUSED STOCK

does the most work] and yields the most profits. Live stock costs money and is worth caring for. A good stable is cheaper in the long run. We will be glad to give you an idea of the cost of the lumber needed for repairing or rebuilding the present barn or stable, or for putting up a new one. We can save you money on it.

The Endurance Auto Run.

The seventeen automobiles participating in the Omaha-North Platte endurance run arrived in this city Wednesday at 4:08 p. m., having left Grand Island at 7:08, and spending an hour at Lexington for lunch and a half hour at Kearney to "check in." The actual running time for the 168 miles was therefore seven and one-half hours.

The cars taking part in the race were The Interstate Pilot, or confetti car, driven by R. G. Sternberg, and Eugene Silver, of the Industrial garage in Omaha, is the official pilot. In the official car were Messrs. Watkins, Fletcher, Kirkland, secretary of the Omaha Motor Club, Otto Hibner, and J. L. Sternberg, driver. The Lexington was No. 1 driven by E. R. Wilson, son of the Wilson Automobile Co.; No. 2, a Ford driven by Ed Brown of the Ford Auto Co.; No. 4, Lion car; No. 6, a Velle; No. 7, Chalmers Detroit; No. 8, the Kelly truck; No. 9, Case car; No. 10, the Maxwell; No. 12, the Marion; No. 14, the Alco; No. 15, Paige-Detroit; No. 17, Lexington; No. 26, Paige-Detroit racer. The big truck car with eight or ten men aboard did not arrive until shortly after eight o'clock.

Upon arrival here the technical committee announced that only two cars had made perfect scores, these two being a 60-horse power Alco and a Ford belonging to Max Gottberg, of Columbus.

The judges appointed to pass upon the condition of the roads, awarded the county prize to Hall county, the road through that county, being far superior to that of any other county, and the first township prize was awarded to a township in Merrick county. Osgood precinct, in this county received favorable mention, the road in that precinct being among the best on the route.

In the evening the motorists were entertained at the Elks' home, about 150 persons being present. Mayor Paterson introduced Secretary Watkins, of the Nebraska Automobile Association, who spoke at some length on road conditions in Nebraska and the influence the association had in securing better roads. He urged the formation of a local automobile association, and steps for the organization of such were immediately taken. Short addresses were made by others, and following lunch was served and a period of good fellowship was had.

The visitors were loud in their praise of the hospitality shown them. The cars left on the return trip at seven o'clock yesterday morning, the route being to Kearney, thence to Lincoln via Hastings and thence to Omaha.

W. W. Keen Dead.

William Keen, for many years a conductor running between Omaha and this city, but for four years post station agent at Omaha, died Tuesday morning following an operation for bowel trouble. The deceased was a brother of Chas. Keen and Mrs. Jenkins, and uncle of the Dickey boys and Mr. P. M. Sorenson, of this city.

Mr. Keen entered the service of the Union Pacific as brakeman October 1, 1879, and was promoted to freight conductor October 19, 1880. He was promoted to passenger conductor December 10, 1883, which position he held until February 23, 1907, when he was promoted to station master.

Superintendent Cahill in speaking of his record while with the road said few men in the service had as clean and good a record as he has. In the thirty-two years that Mr. Keen has served the road he has made an absolutely perfect record.

Mr. Keen leaves a widow, one daughter, Mrs. Mathers, of Joliet, Ill., and an aged father and mother at Joliet, Ill. Mr. Keen was sixty-five years of age and a veteran of the civil war.

Miss Eva Baker has taken a position in the hat department of the Hub.
