

ALARM CLOCKS

and Clocks of ALL KINDS

THE great competition in this class of time piece has brought about such a high standard that alarm clocks are now sold by us at a mere fraction of their former price. No one need be without an alarm clock when they can be bought at the prices we ask.

We have a large stock of other clocks—from the stately old hall clock to the pretty mantel time-piece. Come in and admire—we know you will buy.

The City Hall Bonds.

The question of voting $22,000 city hall bonds will come up for settlement at the special election October 4th. If the bonds are carried it will require, at the present valuation, the levy of a tax of one and one-half mills to pay the interest on the bonds. This would mean to the taxpayer whose property is valued at $1000 and assessed at one-fifth, or $200, an additional tax of thirty cents, and an additional thirty cents for each additional $1000 valuation. On a ten thousand dollar valuation it would amount to three dollars additional tax per year. Not a very large sum of money to pay for a building in which to house the fire department and to provide offices and vaults for the use of the city where the records of the city can be kept and preserved. The greater efficiency of the fire department made possible by such a building would be cheap at that cost.

A new city hall building such as can be provided with the proceeds of $22,000 would provide a home for the fire department somewhat in keeping with the value of the services rendered by the department.

The members of the fire department are entitled to a great deal more credit than they have received for the services rendered under the adverse conditions under which they have been laboring.

By erecting a steam heated building and providing a suite of rooms for one paid man to drive the city team, a dormitory for five or six volunteer firemen, with bath and toilet and club room for the use of all the firemen, where they could have their social and business meetings, the tax payers would not only be treating the fire department fairly but would secure good dividends on the investment by the greater efficiency of the fire department.

General Railroad News

The Brooks locomotive works at Dunkirk, N. Y., have been closed for an indefinite period, all the engines ordered having been completed. The New York Central lines wanted send to 150 engines to the works for repairs but the company was compelled to decline the order on account of the boilermakers refusing to do the work because the boilermakers of the New York Central lines are on a strike.

After a ten days' strike the men employed by the Missouri Pacific in the shops of the new terminal plant at Falls City went back to work Monday. Little information from the inside was given out about the strike, although results are shown in the fact that Steve Moore and Frank Pearson are still at work in their old positions. These are the formen who were not acceptable to the men, and whose presence in the shops caused the walkout on August 31.

Railway Age Gazette: The tone of newspaper comment on the demands of the shop employes of eastern railways should make the leaders of the labor unions think very carefully before they take the final plunge into a strike. The press, as a whole, is a pretty good barometer of public opinion. Nobody would say that its attitude toward the railways in recent years has been very friendly. Whether the issue has been one between the roads or the shippers, or between the roads and their employes, a large majority of the newspapers have taken the side of the railways' opponents. Therefore, the fact that the attitude of the press in general toward the demands of the western shop employes is hostile is significant. We have not seen a single newspaper editorial which defended them. We have seen many in which the demand and the threats to strike are condemned, or even roundly denounced.
