From now until Christmas The Tribune's columns will be pretty well filled with advertising—in fact the Christmas advertising is one of the few harvests which fall to the lot of newspaper fellows. This advertising may curtail the amount of local reading matter but we need the money which it brings.

City Finances.

The statutes of Nebraska provide that the salaries of city officials in the class of North Platte shall be fixed by ordinance not to exceed the limitations set forth in the statute. That the tax payers may know what action the mayor and council have taken in this matter, we append here with a table showing in the first column the maximum salary fixed by the statute and in the second column the salary actually paid by the city as fixed by the ordinance.

Mayor, per annum.....	500.00	100.00
Each Councilman, per annum.....	200.00	50.00
City Clerk, per annum.....	800.00	300.00
Treasurer, per annum.....	900.00	200.00
City Attorney, per annum.....	600.00	300.00

Thus the aggregate salaries of the mayor, clerk, treasurer, city attorney and eight councilmen could be lawfully fixed under the statute at $4400.00 per annum; whilst the aggregate salaries of these same officials as fixed by the city ordinances and actually paid amounts to but $1800.00 p-r annum.

Certainly our city officials are to be commended for not taking advantage of the salaries allowed them by the statute; it is evidence that it is their desire to conduct the affair of the city as economically as possible. Quite a number of cities in the state pay the maximum salaries allowed by statute, thus increasing the taxes.

The McNamara Confess.

The sensation of the year was the confession last Friday at Los Angeles, of James E. McNamara and J. J. Mc-Namara, the former pleading guilty to dynamiting the Los Angeles Times building by which twenty-one persons were killed, and the latter to having dynamited the Lewellyn iron works in Los Angeles. The two men will be sentenced today, James McNamara for life and John McNamara for fourteen years.

The case attracted much attention because some labor unions charged that the explosions had been made at the instance of the corporations in order to make capital against the unions, and it was the unions who raised the money for the defense of the McNamaras.
It looks as though the confessions will prove quite a blow to organized labor, and especially against those radical leaders who insisted that the McNamaras were being persecuted.

Isaac Watts, of Corning, has been visiting relatives and friends in town for a couple of days, having arrived Saturday night.
