Still Boosting for New Court House.

Editor Tribune:

I want to heartily accord in the movement for a new court house. Provision should be made to supply a rest room therein for our county people—especially the women and children.

W. H. McDONALD.

Editor Tribune:

In a recent issue of The Tribune I notice Julius Pizer takes the initiative in a move for a new court house. I fully endorse such a proposition. My property interests in Lincoln county are extensive, but I will be glad to pay the tax necessary to erect a building that will preserve the records and furnish adequate room for the transaction of business—two requirements that we do not now have.

J. W. PAYNE.

Editor Tribune:

I fully endorse the proposition advocated in the letter of Julius Pizer recently published by The Tribune. I think in any way attempt to repair or improve the old court house would prove to be a penny wise and pound foolish policy. The cost per capita of a new court house would be so little that I believe no tax payer would vote against such a proposition.

N. McCABE.

Editor Tribune:

I have just read Mr. Pizer's letter in your paper with reference to the building of a new court house. This matter has my hearty approval. When the heaviest taxpayers of the county feel that it is to their interest to have a court house in the county that will not only be a credit to the county—but will preserve the public records, the general citizenship should co-operate. It is only recently that practically all of the records of Custer county were destroyed by the burning of an inferior and inadequate court house. If the Lincoln county structure should burn there would be a loss of several times the cost of building a fire proof building in the destruction of the treasurer's books, and the records of the clerk of the district court, and a large part of the county clerk's records. The fire comes in the night time when we are not looking for it. We ought to wake up and do something before it is too late.

W. V. HOAGLAND.

We are offering 12 lots, a full block, in the west end at the low price of $1000.00. About one half what they are worth.

Stimson Declares for Taft.

In a speech at Chicago Tuesday night Henry L. Stimson of New York, secretary of war, and the Roosevelt candidate for governor of New York in 1910, declared himself for President Taft, and said that while he remained the sincere friend of Mr. Roosevelt, he could not support him for the presidential nomination. Mr. Stimson entered President Taft's cabinet last year, after consultation with Mr. Roosevelt, and with the distinct understanding with the president that he would be bound in no way to take part in the political activities of the administration.

Secretary of War Stimson in announcing his decision as between Taft and Roosevelt, said:

"I am for the renomination of President Taft. I am now and always have been a progressive.

Mr. Taft has faithfully carried out the progressive faith. I entered public life under the inspiration of Theodore Roosevelt.

I am a firm believer in his great national policies.

I now remain his sincere friend. But I believe those who are forcing him, against his original intention, into the arena against Mr. Taft, are jeopardizing instead of helping real progress.

Mr. Taft has faithfully carried out his pledges of four years ago.

Mr. Taft has been most falsely vilified and abused.

The recall of judges would bring the courts down into the welter of politics."

A Reminder.

Editor Tribune:

Teddy Roosevelt in his effort to explain his position and his former letters reminds me of a minister in Cass county in an early day, who was charged with stealing half of a dressed hog. In his tearful explanation to his church people he said: "The more I try to explain the more they think I stole the hog."

OLD TIMER.

Brown Will Stand on Record.

In a letter to Asst. Attorney Genl. F. E. Edgerton, Lincoln, Senator Norris Brown says:

"Dear Friend—Replying to your kind letter of recent date, I beg to thank you for your interest in my campaign.

"My fight officially began when Governor Mickey undertook to protect the people against the wrongs of certain delinquent taxpayers. I have been on that side of every fight since my public life began and was never more in earnest than I am today.

"I have no quarrel with those who would deny me a second term, although I know and feel that I am entitled to it. If what I did as attorney general and if my stand and voice for a direct primary, for direct legislation, for the direct election of United States senators, for lower and juster tariff duties, for a tariff board of experts, for liberal pension, for a presidential preference vote in every state, particularly in Nebraska, for the income tax amendment, for the enforcement of the Sherman law and against its repeal and against Lorimer, are such as to put me outside the company of real progressives, then I must accept that fate, but you know that such a record ought to entitle a man the friend of every square dealing progressive.

"My candidacy rests on my own record and not on that of any other man. Very truly yours,

"NORRIS BROWN."

When the Guns Cease.

The effects of the fighting were seen from a distance as a vessel in the harbor. A correspondent on board the vessel says: "For several moments I wondered what hit me and where I was hit. The glass that protects the helmsman from the weather and the windows of the chart-house, the glasses of which is one-third of an inch thick, were smashed to atoms. An ink bottle that stood on the table in the chart-house jumped about six inches, and every drop of ink sprang out. But the bottle dropped back to the spot from which it jumped. Three water bottles and three tumblers were on the table in the smoking room, all being full of water. When the guns were fired the bottles and the tumblers jumped into the air. Three gentlemen who were in the room also left their seats. The bottles and tumblers fell back into their old places, but every drop of water had been spilled upon the table, though nothing had been broken."

This suggests a rather unpleasant outlook for the sailors in case of a battle.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Beaver's Day's Work.

A young beaver in Regent's park gardens, London, was once placed at work upon a tree twelve feet long and two feet six inches thick just as the town clocks sounded the hour of noon. The beaver began by barking the tree a foot above the ground. That done, he attacked the wood. He worked hard, alternating his labor with dips in his bathing pond. He bathed and labored alternately until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when he ate his supper of bread and carrots and paddled about in his pond until half past 5 o'clock. Ten minutes later, when only one inch of the tree's diameter remained intact, he bore upon his work, and the tree fell. Before it fell the beaver ran as men run when they have fired a blast. Then as the tree lay on the ground he portioned it out mentally and again began to gnaw. He worked at intervals all night, cut the log into three parts, drilled two of the portions into the water and reserved the other third for his permanent shelter. The work done, he took a bath.—Harper's Weekly.

Setting in Buenos Aires.

The Hippodrome, one of the finest race tracks in the world, is owned by the Buenos Aires Jockey club, and its enormous revenue is derived from this source. The Argentinians are born gamblers, and they wager almost incredible sums on horseflesh. The municipal statistics of Buenos Aires show that $25,900,000 in American gold was wagered upon the races at the Hippodrome in one year. This is an average of fifty Argentine dollars for each man, woman and child in that great city. Naturally the reported figures do not include all the money wagered on horse racing, so that the true sum is no doubt several millions in excess of the reported figures. There are none so old and few so young that they will not wager a few pesos on a favorite. The tense faces of all present show the personal interest in the result. The Jockey club receives as its share 10 per cent of all bets, besides the entrance fees and seat sales.—Travel Magazine.
