Getting Ready for the Big Fair.

The arrangement committee for the big three-day fair to be held by the B. P. O. Elks is composed of Tom Healey, Ike Howard, Frank McGovern, Dick Baker and W. J. O'Connor, and a more vigorous boosting committee could not have been selected. This committee has appointed several sub-committees, and the preliminary arrangements for the fair are already well in hand.

The dates of the fair, as already announced, are April 17th, 18th and 19th, and there is no question but that in every respect it will be the greatest amusement feature ever pulled off in North Platte. While the entire program has not been completed, there will be dancing each evening, vaudeville stunts, booths for the sale of various articles, two town lots in a Nebraska county seat will be given away, as will also suits of clothes, travelling bags and a host of other articles. From eight o'clock until midnight on each date there will be something doing every minute; there will not, in fact, be a second of time that there will be a lack of amusement for attendants. A bevy of pretty girls will have charge of the booths, and will be authorized to do their best in assisting every young man to have a good time.

Files for County Attorney.

Wm. E. Shuman yesterday filed for the nomination for county attorney. Mr. Shuman is a Nebraskan by birth, having been born in Boone county. He came to North Platte about a dozen years ago and for a year or two was employed as a teacher of the eighth grade in the city schools. Later he attended the university, graduated from the law department, and upon returning to the city entered into a partnership with attorney Albert Muldoon, and later the firm dissolved. He has been a practicing attorney for eight years, and has met with success. Mr. Shuman enjoys the confidence of a large circle of acquaintances and will receive a hearty support at the primary election.

"The Top O' Th' World."

"The Top O' Th' World," which will be the attraction at the Keith this evening, brings back Bail-v and Austin after their recent triumphs in the vaudeville houses of Europe. The eccentric and grotesque work of these two famous comedians has long ago caused the hearty stamp of theatrical approval to be theirs. With a supporting company of seventy people, a score of new tricks and novelties, "The Top O' Th' World" is duplicating its former success—capacity business has been the rule in every city visited since the season opened. "The Top O' Th' World" has always been a "hit" spelled with a big "H".

It is so far and away different from the average traveling attraction that it really occupies a niche all its own. It is today a rarer combination of musical comedy, extravaganza, pantomime, farce and spectacle than anything which has been produced in a score of years. It is brim full of clever things and clever people. It is a magnificent electrical production. Its basic principle, its fundamental idea is comedy. It is everything and anything, in fact, but a prescription for feeling too well. If it was taken for that effect it would be a failure.

The management of "The Top O' Th' World" has shown the wisdom in retaining almost the entire original company intact for the road tour. It is one of the few really large organizations new en tour, seventy people and three special baggage cars of scenery and effects being carried.

Favors Retailers' Association.

Secretary Temple, of the Chamber of Commerce, who attended the state retail dealers' association in Omaha last week, returned imbued with the idea that a local organization of merchants would prove helpful to both the buyer and seller. "Since attending the state convention," said Mr. Temple, "I am more desirous of thoroughly organizing the merchants into an association that they may protect themselves from bad debts and save money in the buying and handling of their goods by the many systems outlined at the state convention and thereby reduce the cost to the people, giving them more and better goods for the money expended and thereby be able to show their customers and citizens of their town, as well as the country, that they cannot possibly afford to do business outside the city of North Platte. As a representative of the commercial organizations of this city I see no greater detriment to the upbuilding of the city than to have our local people send money out of the city for half, or in some cases more, of the things they wish to buy, and from the individual's standpoint, spending his money these days when the cost of living is high, it is certainly pretty hard to ask him to spend it any place but where he can get the most for his money.

If it were true that peddlers and mail order houses could furnish the bargains that they represent that they can furnish in comparison to the home merchants' prices, I for one, could not ask the buyer to do different than buy from these houses, but I have investigated this question pretty thoroughly and compared the prices with the local prices and while it is true that some of the articles may be cheaper and these are the articles that your attention is called to by the peddler or representative of these houses, but, if you will take a list of a dozen articles and compare the prices of these articles with the prices that the home merchants are making on the same articles, you will find that in every case the home merchant can show a difference in your favor. And, if through a local organization affiliated with the state organization there can still be a saving to the consumer, the merchants can meet this unfair competition much more effectively.
