“WHY SHOULD I USE CUTICURA SOAP?”

“There is nothing the matter with my skin, and I thought Cuticura Soap was only for skin troubles.” True, it is for skin troubles, but its great mission is to prevent skin troubles. For more than a generation its delicate emollient and prophylactic properties have rendered it the standard for this purpose, while its extreme purity and refreshing fragrance give to it all the advantages of the best of toilet soaps. It is also invaluable in keeping the hands soft and white, the hair lustrous and glossy, and the scalp free from dandruff and irritation.

While its first cost is a few cents more than that of ordinary toilet soaps, it is prepared with such care and of such materials, that it wears to a wafer, often outlasting several cakes of other soap, and making its use, in practice, most economical. Cuticura Soap is sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but the truth of these claims may be demonstrated without cost by sending to “Cuticura,” Dept. L, Boston, for a liberal sample cake, together with a thirty-two page book on the skin and hair.

No Chance About It. “I’m awfully sorry it happened,” apologized the abject young man, after the stolen kiss.

“Happened!” she exclaims. “Happened! That is worse than the kiss! If you didn’t have it in mind when you asked me to stroll away back here in this quiet corner of the conservatory I shall be offended, after all.”—Judge.

WILL RAZE MARKET

Noted New York Structure to Be Demolished.

Building Known as Fulton Trading Post Which Linked Modern Gotham to Peter Stuyvesant’s Days Fails to Pay.

New York.—Tottering under its weight of ninety years and showing the ugly scars of a recent fire, Fulton market, the historic, picturesque, the malodorous, is about to fall. The ruthless hand of progress, personified in a wrecking crew, working under orders of the municipal authorities, will begin tearing down the old yellow building in the block bounded by Fulton, South, Beekman and Front streets some time during the coming spring or summer.

Thrice condemned is the old structure, with memories woven around it that link the present New York, with its rustle and bustle, its subway and cloud touching structures of stone and steel, to the days of Peter Stuyvesant. For it was that stubborn old Dutchman, who, Sept. 12, 1656, as governor of New Amsterdam, decreed that “Saturday shall be the market day, and the market shall be held at the strand, at or around the house of Hans Kierstede, where, after him, every one shall be permitted to enter what has anything to buy or sell.”

In 1675 the market moved to the Custom House Bridge Market house, farther up the East river and near to Maiden Lane. It became generally known as the Fly market, which name stuck to Fulton market long after its erection.

Perhaps the housewife of today with a turn for economics would like to know what the quaint Dutch vrons paid for their household supplies in those early times, when bears roamed over Manhattan island not far north of the present city hall, and lambs bleated in the meadows around Wall street. Well, pork was 3 pence a pound; beef, 2 pence; butter, 6 pence; beer, 2 pence a mug. Lodging was 2 pence a night, meals 6 pence and board by the week 5 shillings. But then it must be remembered that labor brought only 2 shillings 6 pence a day.

For over a century the market remained, cleaned out occasionally by vagrants designated by the courts for the purpose. But the agitation that brought about the abandonment and razing of the old Fly market began in the early part of the last century, much after the fashion of the agitation that started against its successor, Fulton market.

The department of health condemned it as insanitary. Finally, on Jan. 22, 1821, the market was torn down.

The merchants scattered to other parts of the city, some going to Spring Street market and others to Center Street market and a part of them to Old Slip market, until the new market was built at the foot of Fulton street. This was finished toward the end of the year and the aldermen comprising the market committee recommended that the stands in the new market, which were to be occupied almost exclusively by butchers, be auctioned off at a minimum rental of $100 a year. The butchers organized and decided to boycott the market, thus hoping to keep it idle until their demands for a lower rental were granted. But the city authorities determined upon ignoring the butchers and on Dec. 18, 1821, James Biecker began to auction off the stalls.

Though established as a market for the express purpose of “supplying the common people with the necessities of life at reasonable prices,” old Fulton market long before the civil war began to assume its present wholesale characteristics. Not in decades have thrifty housewives gone to the slip across from the market proper, where the fishing smacks come in, to purchase fish cheaply as is still done at old “T” wharf in Boston. And with the going out of fashion of the varicolored shawls, New York women have ceased to go marketing with a basket on one arm, or, without one, for that matter, and this decadence, with the progress in rapid transit taking its one time customers out to the suburbs, has been responsible in no small measure for the gradual departure of Fulton market from its original standards.

Because its maintenance costs the city an annual loss of over $2,000, and the controller has condemned the building, and largely because it has been declared insanitary by the health department, the borough president condemns it. So Fulton market must go.

Few Cottages In England

Lack of Homes for Rising Generation Serious Problem for British—Couples Wait Years.

London.—The Chelmsford laborer who was forced into a workhouse because there is no cottage procurable is no isolated victim of the dearth of rural houses. It is quite a common thing in the country for marriages to be postponed for years solely owing to want of houses.

Close to Dunmow is a notorious marriageless district, and in spite of a number of would-be village benefactors. In a number of Huntingdonshire villages engagements of ten and fifteen years’ duration are common.

The couples either wait indefinitely till a cottage is available or migrate to the towns or emigrate. An observant motorist through the eastern midlands could soon reckon up a hundred vanished homesteads still traceable by either ruins or rectangular foundations covered by the work of worms and moles.

Only wealthy landlords can afford to build cottages; the duke of Bedford, in Cambridgeshire; the duke of Buccleugh, in parts of Northampton and Huntingdon; the university colleges, and, best of all, the ecclesiastical commissioners have built many good cottages for moderate rents; and have done it in spite of financial loss. Some smaller land owners have done their best to erect cheap cottages.

The only solution of the great national question is the cheap cottage. A member of a leading firm of builders said to a representative of this journal that if cottages were standardized they could easily build £120 cottages by means of concrete slabs, but absolute standardization would be necessary. Comfortable cottages have recently been built in some of the new intensive gardens for £80. With these French gardeners are delighted, but the English workmen will not accept a home of wood and corrugated iron.

GETS TIPS; HAS AN AUTO

Minneapolis Negro Hotel Waiter Gives Illuminating Testimony In Court.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Benefits of the tipping system—with reference to the receiver—came to light in the municipal court here, with the testimony of George Smith, a negro waiter at a hotel, that another man, being tried on the charge of vagrancy, was an expert mechanic and had operated his automobile for him.

“Yes, sir,” said Smith, “I own a six-passenger, $1,800 car, and I haven’t been anything but a waiter for the last 23 years. My salary is only $23 a month and now then I am tipped a dime or two, so the money for that machine came only after years and years of savin’ up.”

Smith declares that there is only one ambition left in life for him, and that is to take his wife, Julia, in the car to his old home near Norfolk, Va., and, throwing open the muffler, go “down the pike” at the rate of 50 miles an hour.

Backache

Is only one of many symptoms which some women endure through weakness or displacement of the womanly organs. Mrs. Lizzie White of Memphis, Tenn., writes Dr. R. V. Pierce, as follows:

“At times I was hardly able to be on my feet. I believe I had every pain and ache a woman could have. Had a very bad case. Internal organs were very much diseased and my back was very weak. I suffered a great deal with nervous headaches, in fact, I suffered all over. This was my condition when I wrote to you for advice. After taking your ‘Favorite Prescription’ for about three months can say that my health was never better.”

Dr. Pierce’s Favorite Prescription

Is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. Tones and builds up the nerves. Do not permit a dishonest dealer to substitute for this medicine which has a record of 40 years of cures. “No, thank you, I want what I ask for.”
