To this banquet invitations will be issued to a large number of railroad employees who are property owners and are identified with the welfare and progress of the city. These invitations will be issued by Secretary Temple tomorrow with the request that each one invited notify Mr. Temple his acceptance by next Tuesday, otherwise the caterer will not know how many to expect. The members of the organization will also be invited.

Ready to Turn Over.
The city council will meet in session this evening and complete the formality of receiving the water plant from the North Platte Waterworks Co., and tomorrow morning the city will take possession of the plant.

The details of the transfer of the property was completed Wednesday, at the conference between the citizens committee consisting of Messrs. Forbes, Frazier and Meyer and J. C. Adams representing the company, and the sum agreed upon was $87,074.39. This sum represents the original appraisal, together with extensions made by the company since the appraisal was made. Mayor Patterson will appoint W. M. Cunningham water commissioner to serve until the commissioner elected next Tuesday qualifies.

Twenty-one Years Ago.
In 1891 Easter Sunday occurred March 28th, and on that day the local weather bureau reported the snow fall at eleven inches. The Tribune said "there were six or eight persons at the Presbyterian church, about twenty at the Methodist, a few at the Episcopal and a fair sized audience at the Catholic."

The railroad employees held a meeting at the court house and passed resolutions denouncing the Newbury freight rate bill and petitioned Governor Boyd not to sign the measure.

John and Frank Ericsson, of Gaslin, lost twenty-three head of cattle. A load of straw had been loaded on a wagon to be hauled to the feed yard but on account of the storm it remained on the wagon several days and then fed to the cattle. Shortly after the cattle began eating the straw they were taken sick and died. It was thought that some one had strewn poison on the straw while it was on the wagon.

The base ball club gave a dance on Easter Monday evening, about sixty couples attending. Music was furnished by Monagan's orchestra.

Arthur McNamara let the contract for the erection of the house now owned by John Clabaugh.

Mrs. H. S. Brooks died of pneumonia, superinduced by a gripple.

The Mutual building and loan association held its fourth annual meeting. The receipts up to that date had been $75,000. (Now the receipts since organization exceed one million.)

P. H. Sullivan shoveled eleven inches of snow from 140 feet of sidewalk on his premises, and then started out to kill off every fellow who mentioned "beautiful snow" to him.

Arrangements were being made to ship the remains of 146 soldiers from Ft. Laramie to the McPherson national cemetery.

In response to an inquiry W. J. Roche, city clerk, published a statement to the effect that the alarm bell tower cost $256.30. Several "kickers" had said that the builder had juggled $600 out of the city for putting up the tower.

Tim Gibbs Passes Away.
Tim Gibbs died at the Pulver hospital yesterday morning, and as he had for months past expressed the wish that the Lord might take him, death no doubt came as a relief to him. Tim had been a familiar figure in town for over thirty years, his father having been a pioneer Baptist minister of North Platte. For a number of years past Tim had been his own worst enemy; he was strongly addicted to the use of liquor and drugs, buying these from the dimes and nickels he solicited from old acquaintances. He may not have done much good in the world, but did no harm.
