Easter Services Sunday.

The weather Sunday was pleasant and the attendance at the churches at the morning and evening services was such as to fill the seating capacity. The special music rendered by the choirs was spirited and cheerful, the sermons were appropriate to the day, and potted plants and cut flowers used for decorative purposes added to the brightness of the occasion.

At the morning service at the Presbyterian church nine were admitted to membership, five by letter and four by profession, and three children were baptized. Exercises appropriate to Easter were held by the Sunday school.

The morning services at the Episcopal church were well attended, and in the evening the choir rendered an Easter cantata, the attendance at the latter filling both the main room and the chapel and chairs were placed in the aisle. This cantata, with its beautiful solos, duets and choruses was splendidly rendered, the accompaniment consisting of a five-piece orchestra. In the afternoon the two Sunday schools held an Easter festival.

Both masses at St. Patrick's church were attended by audiences that filled the church. At the 10:30 service the choir rendered Snedecker's mass in F, a high class and beautiful composition, and it was exceptionally well rendered by the choir, who were assisted by Mrs. Avery, of Paxton, Mrs. Rasmussen of Hershey and Gus Chamberlain of Denver.

Large audiences were present at the Baptist church both morning and evening, especially at the latter service, when the Sunday school rendered an interesting program of songs and recitations under the caption of "The City." This service was a combination portrayal of Easter and home mission events and was nicely rendered.

As a climax to the inspiring and well attended services of Holy Week, The Easter Day was another glad day for the Lutherans. All the services were well attended. The offering for church and Sunday school amounted to $142.50 for benevolence. An exceptionally large communion in the morning. The Sunday school service, though short was well rendered. The service in the evening by the choir was of the usual high order and received many words of commendation. The decorations of palms, Easter lilies and cut flowers were most beautiful.

The services at the Methodist church attracted a large attendance both morning and evening, a pleasing feature was the special music by the choir. In the evening a cantata entitled "Resurrection Light" was well rendered.

Assessors Meet.

The precinct assessors met in session at the court house Saturday and discussed assessments and schedules for the present year. This year real estate assessment is made, and this part of the assessors' work was the feature of the discussion. The average valuation placed on Lincoln county land by the government enumerators is in excess of $17.00 per acre, while the assessors' average valuation is less than half that amount. The state board is inclined to accept the government's valuation as correct, while the local assessors, who are better acquainted with the true value of the lands, believe the government value is way too high. The assessors are therefore in somewhat of a quandary as to what to do; if they take the government value as a basis the assessment will range too high; if they do not the state board will probably make a raise. There is not much land in Lincoln county worth $75 per acre, while there are hundreds of thousands of acres of grazing land that is worth from $5.00 to $10.00 per acre.

Albert Stoddard Drops Dead.

A telegram received by Jas. Babbitt of this city, yesterday morning announced that Albert M. Stoddard had dropped dead on his ranch in Banner county. Mr. Stoddard was one of the early settlers of Lincoln county, having taken a homestead and timber claim six miles west of town in 1873 and made his home one of the most attractive in the valley. He continued to reside on the land until six or seven years ago, when he removed to a ranch in Banner county. He raised a large family of children, two of the sons, Fred and Will, living in McPherson county, the others reside in different sections of the west. Mr. Stoddard was an excellent citizen, and while a resident of this county took an active part in its business and political progress, and for three years held the position of county commissioner. He was a veteran of the civil war, and was seventy-two years of age. His old friends in North Platte will regret to learn of his death.

Store Burglarized.

The Ginn, White & Schatz furniture store was burglarized yesterday morning between five thirty and six o'clock. Mr. Plumer was the first of the employees to discover that several articles were missing and that the rear door had been left ajar in the hasty exit of the burglars. A window on the south side of the store was broken and it is thought entrance was made there. Several articles were taken from the cases and scattered on the floor and ten dollars was missing from the cash register. Among other things taken were six revolvers, two rifles and a number of pocket knives. At five thirty Officer Trout reports that he tried the door while on his rounds and it was then securely fastened.

Firesmen's Dance.

The twenty-fifth annual ball of the fire department, held at the Lloyd last evening was largely attended, the floor being filled with dancers and the gallery packed with spectators. Preceding the dance the Stamp orchestra rendered a splendid concert program. The ball throughout was a very pleasant function and reflected credit upon the committees in charge. Every attendant had an enjoyable evening.
