

Insomnia and Tobacco.
The dominant characteristic of tobacco is the fact that it heightens blood pressure. The irritant action by which it does this sometimes leads to still more harmful results. Its second action is narcotic. It lessens the connection between nerve centers and the outside world. These two actions account for all the good and all the bad effects of tobacco. As a narcotic it temporarily abolishes anxiety and discomfort by making the smoker care less about what is happening to him. But it is a well known law of medicine that all the drugs which in the beginning lessen nerve action increase it in the end. Thus smoking finally causes apprehension, hyperexcitability and muscular unrest. Here this inevitable law seems to give contradictory results. Every physician knows that an enormous amount of insomnia is relieved by smoking, even if it is at the expense of laziness the next day. At the same time every physician knows that most excessive smokers are troubled with insomnia.—Century.

Meanness of Mose.
A typical southern "mammy" entered the office of a well known attorney and, after mopping her shining brow with a handkerchief, said to the man at the desk:
"Ah wants 't git a divorce from mah husband, Mose Lightfoot."
"On what grounds?" asked the attorney.
"He's jes natchelly wuffless," was the reply.
"What is your husband's occupation?"
"He jes sets round de house all day and p'tends to mind de baby."
"Does he take good care of the child?"
"Deed he do not! He's too lazy. Dis maw'nin' he tried to make de dawg rock de cradle by tyin' its tail to one ob de rockers."
"Did the scheme work?"
"Land sakes, no! Mose am so evah-lustin' grouchy dat he couldn't speak enough kind words to make de dawg wag its tail!"—Judge.

Yellow Writing Paper Easy on Eyes.
Oculists have often called attention to the fact that the eyes are easily fatigued by the reflection from white paper, especially when the surface is under a strong light. Since green is known to be the color most restful to the eyes, it is a common practice to use wall papers and draperies of that color in libraries and private studies. For writing paper, however, green is an unsatisfactory color. It imparts a reddish appearance to the writing and makes it hard to read. Yellow writing paper is not open to the same objection. In strong daylight it is softer than pure white paper, and in artificial light is not too dark. Black letters on a yellowish background show clear and distinct. Many mathematicians use yellow paper in figuring long and difficult calculations, and many writers have adopted it for manuscripts.—Youth's Companion.

Articles Marked "Patented."
We are all accustomed to see a patented article marked "Patented," with the date of the patent. It is doubtful, however, whether one in a hundred who notices the mark realizes its importance to the patentee. The statute on the subject makes it the duty of all patentees or those holding under or making the patented article for them to apply the mark "Patented," together with the day and year the patent was granted, and the same statute provides as a penalty for not making that "in any suit for infringement by the party failing to so mark no damages shall be recovered by the plaintiff, except on proof that the defendant was duly notified of the infringement and continued after such notice, to make use or vend the article so patented."—Scientific American.

Music and Appetite.
The majority of the great musical composers had appetites on an equality with their talents. It is told of Handel that when he dined alone at a restaurant he always took the precaution to order the meal for three. Once on asking, "Is de dinner retty?" at a restaurant, or a tavern, as it was then called, where he was little known, he got the reply, "As soon as de company comes," and astonished the waiter by seating himself, with the remark, "Den bring up de dinner; I'm de company." The appetite of Haydn was yet more voracious. He delighted in dining alone and always finished the meal ordered for five persons.

Curious Beehives.
In the village of Heofel, Silesia, there are a number of beehives in the shape of life size figures cleverly carved in wood and painted in colors. The figures were carved more than a century ago by monks of the Naumburg monastery, who were at that time in possession of a large farm in the district. The beehives represent different characters, ranging from Moses to a military officer, a country girl and a night watchman with a spear.

The Fastidious.
"Catch any fish on your trip?"
"No, and I can't understand why. Had a $200 outfit. Had the right kind of hooks and the latest thing in flies."
"Maybe you weren't wearing the right kind of hat?"—Washington Herald.

She Did.
"Jack proposed to me while turning the music for me at the piano."
"Ah, I see! You played right into his hands!"—London Answers.

Hurt not others with that which natus yourself.

Winners Buy Studebaker Cars.
Taking the lead is what the Studebaker cars are doing. Four of the champion race drivers buy Studebaker cars. Joe Dawson, winner of the $20,000 cash prize at Indianapolis International Sweepstake races, also Howard Wilcox, his team mate, and Don Herr, relief driver for Dawson, each bought Studebaker E. M. F. 30 while Harry Endicott, winner of another big chunk of money bought a Studebaker Flanders 20 touring car.

Other well known race drivers, who are numbered among the Studebaker owners are Johnny Aitken and Lou Zengel. These men are not only master race drivers, but they are the most expert judges of motor cars. They have studied every make of car from rear axle to radiator. They know the weak and strong parts of every car that is worth knowing about. They have spent years in factories studying automobile construction and testing every new device and method known to motordom. It is a part of the daily business of these men to know what is good and what is bad in a motor car. Their word is final decision. The judgment of such men on motor cars cannot be questioned.

The ordinary automobile DOES NOT APPEAL TO SUCH MEN. If there is any one thing race drivers are critical about, it is the sort of car they choose for their PERSONAL USE. That is why these race drivers choose Studebaker cars. They looked the field over and when it came to Studebaker cars, the verdict was unanimous. These drivers have seen many higher priced cars go down to defeat at the hands of Studebaker E. M. F. 30 and Studebaker Flanders 20 cars in race and hill climb events. They are built of the very best material money can buy. The only cheap thing about the Studebaker car is the PRICE. They are made by the most skilled workmen in the automobile industry. They are factory made and not assembled. They are made with a steel body not wood. This is why Studebakers can give the best guarantee that is possible to give with any car. Studebaker cars have more than sixty years of business integrity behind them. The Studebakers stand behind every car bearing that name.

A Bath in a Holland Hotel.
"There are some things about a trip through Holland that you recall when stopping at one of our modern hotels," said a traveler. "In many places the hotels are run as they have been for ages, and candles still are the vogue. Rooms with baths are unknown. Instead they charge you about 40 cents in American money for a bath. You ask for the privilege of using the tub, and they send up a maid, who brings with her towels and soap if you have none, for you are supposed to carry both with you. She fills the tub, has it about the right degree of heat, and the faucets are locked, so that if you want any more water you don't get it; also there is no chance for your traveling pal sneaking in and enjoying a bath without coming through with another 40 cents. You are provided with one candle a day and charged for it. The lights go out early in the night, and if you happen to get up or want to read you have to use a candle. This does not apply to Amsterdam, which is a metropolitan city."—Detroit Free Press.

Smiled and Killed the Play.
Paul Lindau in "The Memories of My Life" relates that at the performance of his Countess Leah in Berlin the old Emperor William, who had been present at the play, sent for him to congratulate him upon his fine work and the favor it had won.
"Only," he added, as if casually and without the least emphasis, "it is a pity that the titled officers do not play a very brilliant part in it."

When the emperor had dismissed Lindau, with a gracious nod, the manager, De Hulsen, came to the author and said:
"I am sorry that I can no longer produce your piece. It promised to have a long run."

"But why?" asked the astounded author. "The emperor paid me very flattering compliments and appeared to be much pleased with the piece."
"Ah! But, my dear doctor," replied the courtier, "his majesty never expresses his censure more strongly."—Bookman.

The Old Charcoal Burner.
The charcoal burner may still be found within thirty miles of London. This writer knows a charcoal burner who has carried on his ancient trade for forty years in Surrey and Sussex. You come suddenly upon the piled dome of fine earth on heath or in woodland, and near it is his neatly constructed hut of wattle, fern and heather, with its rough corner posts and little door. There he lives during the whole period of the cutting process, keeping a sharp lookout to see that inquisitive passerby do not push an inquiring stick into the mound, which might result in a sudden burst of flame and the ruin of that particular lot of wood. This man is his own master. He knows his markets, and he makes a decent living—a curious, solitary life, but he knows all about the birds.—London Chronicle.

Wilson Nominated.
Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, was nominated for president on the forty-ninth ballot, at 3:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, after Pennsylvania had cast her seventy-six votes for him, making his total vote 733. Representative Fitzgerald of New York, asked that the nomination be made by acclamation, but Senator Reed of Missouri objected, not he said because of bitterness but because the state of Missouri wanted to be recorded on this last ballot for "Old Champ Clark."

The forty-sixth ballot was then called and Missouri stayed with her favorite son, "the lion of democracy," with her full thirty-six votes. These were supplemented with those from Nevada and others with smaller votes. New York went solid for Wilson on the final ballot and his nomination was made after Underwood was withdrawn and the Clark and Foss delegates were released. The victory was received with tumultuous cheering.

The result of the forty-sixth ballot was as follows: Wilson, 900; Clark 84; Harmon, 12. Senator Stone of Missouri, then moved to make the nomination of Wilson unanimous, and this was accomplished at 3:30 o'clock. Marshall, of Indiana, was nominated for vice president.

Ormsby McHarg was one of the conspicuous trainers in the Roosevelt camp at Chicago. It was McHarg who said, when something was said about a Bryan-Roosevelt alliance, "What, the sun bow to the moon?" Roosevelt failing to get the nomination, McHarg has deserted his cause, which is not especially to his credit, but he makes one remark in getting out of the Roosevelt camp that is undoubtedly true: "Roosevelt would have made much better off if left alone to work out his own destiny, for as a matter of fact he has been contributing to a bunch of hangers-on." This last part is particularly true. He caught two drifts in the republican party, one the radical or insurgent type, and the other the old standpatters and corporation servers who had been whipped to a standstill by the real progressives; and later on the hangers-on, for they are in the Roosevelt movement as a lone chance to get astride of a political wave again. Roosevelt has been deceived by both of the above classes of followers. He may still be deceived by the politicians who are raising the third party banner because they may have nothing to lose even though they may have very little to gain.—Kearney Hub.

"Against the resolution passed by the city council."

Said election shall be opened at 9 o'clock a. m. and remain open until 7 o'clock p. m. of said date.
Copies of above resolution and ordinance can be obtained at the city clerk's office.
In witness where I have hereunto subscribed my name this first day of July, 1912.

CHAS. F. TEMPLE,
City Clerk.

The Norfolk Daily News submits this as to the case of George W. Norris: "Since Mr. Norris sees fit to separate himself from the republican party's ticket, supporting a third party movement, the proper thing to do is for him to become a third party candidate, running on a Roosevelt platform; and the proper thing for the republican state organization to do is to fill the vacancy."
