Engineers Under Constant Strain.

In the hearing before the arbitration committee which is hearing the demand of eastern locomotive engineers for more pay, Dean Wood engineer on the twentieth century limited on the New York Central said he makes the run between Syracuse and Albany, 148 miles, in 162 minutes, including slowdowns. He added that he made as high as seventy-five miles an hour on straight track. In that 148 miles, he said he passed 151 block signals, all of which he had to see.

Wood said he was not on the fast train through choice, but because he was assigned to it. He said he worked twelve hours every other day and was paid $186 per month. Asked by Chief Stone what danger he most feared in making fast runs he said the great danger lies in the buckling of a freight train on an adjoining track.

C. N. Gallagher, engineer of a fast passenger train on the Boston & Maine, said he ran from White River junction to Springfield, Mass., and that there were 270 signals on the 123 miles of track. He said he was paid $5.12 1-12 per trip, or about $153 a month.

Cattle Shortage Everywhere.

Lincoln Journal: It is as J. H. Edmisten writes from Lincoln county, the price of cattle is going up and the number going down. The average value of per head of all American cattle in 1900 was $21.78, while in 1910 it had climbed to 26.51. Meanwhile the number in the country had fallen nearly nine per cent. It is not a Lincoln county or a Nebraska or a range country phenomenon, this decrease in cattle. Missouri lost more heavily than Nebraska. The west as a whole lost more heavily than the east. The country is going out of the cattle business and beef is apparently not long for the family of small means. Yet because of the cost of grain, of the power of the packers or for some other reason there is no sign that higher prices are tempting people back to the land and the cattle growing Mr. Edmisten pleads for.

One on the Proofroom.

There are few words in an unabridged dictionary that have not at some time invaded the proofroom of this office, but one came in the other day, an utter stranger. It was in the body of an astronomical article.

"This beats me," said proofreader No. 1 to the copyholder. "Let's see the copy."

There it was written in with a heavy hand in the blackest of black ink. "It's got more legs than a spider," said the proofreader—"only six letters in the word and five of 'em below the line."

There it was syzygy—three of the six letters are y's.

"What does the blooming word mean?" asked the copyholder. The proofreader for the first time in many moons declined to give an opinion. The dictionary was consulted: "Syzygy—the point of an orbit, as of the moon or a planet at which it is in conjunction or opposition." The word is pronounced siz-z-y-gy.

"Sounds like the cracker to a college yell," said the proofreader as he closed the book.—Indianapolis News.

About a Pair of "Pants."

A Detroit man who had contributed a bundle of his castoff clothing for the relief of the victims of a great fire received from one of the sufferers the following note: "The committee man giv me amongst other things wat he called a pare of pants, and 'twould make me pant some to ware 'em. I found your name and where you live on one of the poklets. My wife laffed so when I shode 'em to her that I thot she wood have a conspshun-ft. She wants to no if there lives and breathes a man who has legs no bigger than that. She sed if there was be order be taken up for vagrancy for havin' no visible means of support. I couldnt get 'em on my oldest boy, so I used 'em for gun cases. If you hav another pare to spare, my wife would like to got 'em to hang up by the side of the fireplace to keep the tongs in."—Spofford's Library of Wit and Humor.
