High Water in Platte.

The North Platte river is running bank full, and this volume of water will continue until the Pathfinder dam is emptied, which will be about the middle of October.

It is evident that the Pathfinder dam has solved the irrigation supply in western Nebraska, as by means of this storage of water, the flow down the river will at all times be sufficient to insure plenty of water for all existing irrigation ditches.

Notice.

All water bills are payable at the Waterworks office within the first ten days of each quarter.

All who have not paid their water rent for this coming quarter by Thursday evening, August 1st, 1912, will have the service discontinued without further notice.

The ordinance provides for a fine of $1.00 in case water is shut off for any reason and this will be added to the bill, if water rent is not paid by above date.

Water Commissioner.

New Auto Firm.

Miner Hinman and C. R. Osgood have formed a partnership, leased and taken charge of the Fifth street garage lately vacated by the Davis Auto Co., and by cutting an archway through the rear of the room that has been occupied by Mr. Hinman, have connected the two buildings. This gives them the largest garage floor space in the city.

Hinman & Osgood will conduct a general automobile business. They are selling agents for the Chalmers and Overland cars, will store and care for cars for individual owners, and conduct a general repair shop. Mr. Hinman spent several days in Omaha last week buying equipment for the repair shop, which will be in charge of a first class automobile machinist. The new firm starts out well equipped, and will no doubt command a liberal share of the automobile business.

Greek Laborer Fatally Scalded.

Gus Louis, a Greek laborer employed at the round house, was so badly scalded Saturday morning that he died the following evening at the Grand Island hospital, to which institution he was taken on the first available train. Louis' work was that of a boiler washer and the evening before had washed the boiler of an engine. Early the next morning after the engine had been fired up and gotten ready for its run it was discovered that in replacing the boiler plug it had become cross-threaded and Louis and his helper attempted to tighten it, when the plug was blown out. Louis was standing between the drive wheels and in this position caught the full force of the escaping steam and water. His face, neck, hands and portions of his body were literally cooked before he could be released by the round house employees. The helper was not in direct line with the plug and though blown off his feet was not seriously burned. Louis had been working for the company for several years, and has three or four brothers who reside here. The body was brought to this city for burial.

To Raise Assessed Value.

From the Lincoln Journal it is learned that the state board of equalization has decided that the assessed value of land in forty-five counties is too low and that it will be increased from five to twenty-five per cent. Lincoln is one of the counties which it is proposed to raise, but just how much, is not stated. However, before the increase is made the county boards will be given an opportunity to protest at a meeting to be held August 13th. The Tribune cannot understand why the state board of equalization should be in a better position to determine the true valuation of land than the men who do the assessing or the local board that passes on the work of the local assessors. The state board knows little if anything of conditions in Lincoln county, while the local assessor, who generally is a farmer, sees the land, knows its productive qualities, examines the improvements and is in position to know its true valuation. To increase values is a reflection on the judgment and honesty of the local assessors as well as on the county board of equalization.

Library Notes.

Socialism has become a factor in American life that cannot be ignored. It has some very strong adherents and some equally bitter opponents. Both sides ought to have an opportunity to obtain intelligent information concerning this subject. A number of excellent works on the different phases of socialism are on the shelves of the library.

Now-a-days we are constantly hearing about "efficiency". One way in which efficiency is to be brought about in any large enterprise—according to its apostles—is by scientific management. Frederick Taylor was one of the pioneers in mapping out a plan for shop scientific management. The real worth of his plan to all concerned, both employers and employees, has not yet been determined but his books contain some very excellent food for thought and are well worth reading even by the opponents of his ideas. The library has his "Scientific Management." It used to be thought that almost any one could clerk in a store with but very little preparation and after a position had been obtained there was certainly no need for study. This is an exploded theory. To be a first class salesman requires education along particular lines. To supply this need the library has a very excellent work on "Salesmanship," and expects to add from time to time other books of the same nature.

North Platte is justly proud of its trees. They are not just happenings. They were planted and reared with care and labor. However, they are as susceptible to damage from ignorant care as any other trees and there is need for intelligent knowledge concerning the care of our beautiful shade trees. The library has on its shelves a very excellent book on the care of shade trees.

Baby Tigers Coming.

Don't miss seeing the baby tigers when you visit the big menagerie of Campbell Bros. great consolidated shows on its coming visit to North Platte on Saturday, August 3rd. It is very rare indeed that tigers are born in captivity. The coming of these little strangers a few days ago is therefore an event in the natural history as well as in the annals of the circus world. "Topsy," the big Bengal tigress, is as proud of her offspring as the average human mother, but alas, she is not able to suckle the little mites sufficiently. Campbell Bros. consequently had to buy a milk cow to feed them and now "Bessy" travels with the show to produce food for tigers. Surely a new use for a cow! There are four young ones, one having died, and each is about the size of a domestic cat. They can be handled the same as kittens. It is worth while to go to Campbell's Gigantic Circus to see them, alone. Just think of being able to say in after life that you have handled a tiger.

J. R. Ritner is the latest to invest in a Ford car, and like all other Ford purchasers is well pleased with it.
