Announcement

I herewith announce my candidacy for county commissioner on the republican ticket and ask the support of all citizens and pledge to conduct the county affairs in an economical and business way if elected.

IRA L. MILTONBERGER.

New Party—Same Old Methods.

Despite its idol's fierce denunciation of the old parties, the projected new party is employing the very same methods, and the very same machinery.

Here we see the new third party convention being organized by a national committee made up of one member from each state, this national committee being absolutely self-constituted without even pretense of a popular commission.

Here we see this committee claiming to typify reform and emancipation starting out with closed doors and secret sessions to avoid the publicity accorded by the old parties.

Here we see contending delegations coming up from the southern states whose electoral votes are already foreclosed.

Here we see the negro question again rising as a perpetual puzzle incapable of any party promising equal rights to all.

Here we see this self-constituted national committee relieving the convention of the necessity of selecting its temporary chairman and other officers.

And above all, we see the convention made up of delegates chosen, not by direct primary, but hand-picked, and often in direct violation of the primary laws of the states they are supposed to represent.

In a nutshell we see a convention built on extortion of the bosses, yet with its own program prearranged and its action in every detail fore-ordained without leaving delegates the slightest freedom of choice.

Down with the old boss-ridden parties! Up with the new party of the people!—Omaha Bee.

Bryan's Estimate of Roosevelt.

(An analysis by W. J. Bryan in "The Commoner.")

"He criticises our tariff; of course he does this, because he stands for the doctrine of taxation of the many for the benefit of the few, and he has done nothing to relieve the people of the extortion now being practised upon them through high tariff schedules.

"On the trust question his position is radically wrong and probably accounts for the support which he is receiving from some of the trusts.

"Corporations engaged in legitimate business can and should be regulated, but a private monopoly is different—it should not be permitted to exist.

Regulation was tried under Mr. Roosevelt himself and trusts grew and fattened under him. One trust, the steel trust—the worst of all—secured from him permission to swallow up its largest rival, and his most conspicuous supporter, Mr. Perkins, is connected with several trusts.

"Mr. Roosevelt has recommended federal incorporation—the very thing that trusts desire. The trusts want relief from state laws and Mr. Roosevelt is the first president to join them in advocating this legislation. On the trust question Mr. Roosevelt is hand-in-hand with predatory wealth. His policy on this subject is not only not progressive but is reactionary and dangerous.

"But Mr. Roosevelt's errors are not wondered at. His whole bias is wrong. He is more Hamiltonian than Hamilton himself. No public man since the government was formed has treated constitutional limitations so contemptuously. He concludes his Outlook editorial with these significant words: 'The progressive would discard those limitations surviving from the past that hamper and interfere with the progress of the people, and turning forward would insist that ninety million people of the nation should be permitted to do whatever is necessary for the welfare of the nation and for securing social justice.

Away with the constitution and let us decide what the people need and then do it for them! That is the Roosevelt program. He has a passion for power—such a passion as no other president ever had. No other president ever felt so rebellious against the restrictions which our forefathers thought it wise to throw about the executive office.

"In his Osawatimie speech, as interpreted afterwards in the Outlook, he outlined his policy, first, the absorption by the general government of much of the power now exercised by the states; second, the absorption by the federal executive of much of the power now exercised by all by other departments, and, third, a president who will be overlooked to as the steward of the people. This is not popular government; it is despotism. Add to this centralization of government a man of Mr. Roosevelt's temperament and you have the man on horseback."

The Sidney Telegraph looks at it this way: "The man who calls himself a republican and yet supports the new party movement may deceive himself, but cannot fool others. No service he may have rendered the republican party can give him any claim to the recognition of republicans if in this exigency he gives countenance to and joins hands with those who are planning the overthrow of the party. The citizen who renounces his republicanism and enters the democratic ranks can be respected. But there can be no respect for the one who while professing to be a republican unites with conspirators against the party he had been affiliated with. The time is at hand for every citizen to decide under which flag he will serve and to declare his decision without qualification or reservation. In the impending conflict there must be no trimmers or temporizers."

Cattle at South Omaha firmed up last week and sold from 25 to 50 cents higher than the preceding week. The best beef cattle sold as high as $9.75 and feeders as high as $7.00. The week closed with top notch hogs selling at $8.15. The receipts of cattle at South Omaha last week were less than half the number in the corresponding week last year. There is no evidence of a reduction in the price of meat, on the contrary higher prices may be expected.

"Let the people rule." That has been Roosevelt's cry. Yet he approves a plan to seize republican organizations wherever possible, having republican electors who are willing to betray their party vote for him instead of for the republican nominee for president, and preventing "the people" from having any opportunity to vote for Taft, even though they desire to do so. Consistency is a jewel not recognized by the bull moosers.

Lucius Stebbins, candidate by petition for congressman in the sixth congressional district, declares that as he cannot get the use of the Carnegie library hall for independent political action, he will hold his headquarters on Dewey street in the interest of all parties and candidates, including Bull Moosers. All interested are invited to participate.

The Roosevelt men now nominated as republican candidates for presidential electors from Nebraska should either resign or declare their intention of voting for Taft. If they resign their places can be filled by men who are republicans, and the bull moosers can name their own electoral ticket. This action would be honest and regular, and there would be no masquerading in false disguise.

In the majority report filed by the congressional committee appointed to investigate the United States steel corporation, an indictment is made against former President Roosevelt for making the control of the steel trust absolute and is charged with being responsible for the gigantic stature which the trust has attained.

A TREACHEROUS TROUBLE.

North Platte People Are Shown the Way Out.

Kidney diseases are very dangerous. They come on silently, gain ground rapidly, and cause thousands of deaths that could have been prevented by proper treatment in the beginning.

Nature gives early warnings of kidney disease—backache, twinges of pain when stooping or lifting, headaches and urinary disorders. If these symptoms are unheeded, there is grave danger of dropsy or possible Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills have earned a reputation for their effectiveness in kidney troubles, and are known and recommended the world over. The Tribune readers should find convincing proof in the following statement. It's from a citizen of this locality.

Mrs. C. K. Smith, Elsie, Nebr., "For about five years I endured great agony from kidney disease. I could not rest well, felt weak and tired and was all worn out. Dark spots appeared before my eyes and I often thought I was going to smother. My limbs swelled and I became so bad that I could hardly get around. This remedy did such good work that I consider it worthy of my endorsement."

Local and Personal.

Mrs. Fred Warren and children leave tomorrow for a month's visit in Fairbury and other points in the east part of the state.

Jason Sawyer, who has been employed as freight brakeman at Rawlins for some time, arrived Saturday for a visit with relatives and friends.

The national convention of the Knights of Columbus will be held this week at Colorado Springs. Several members of the local lodge are planning to attend.

Several companies of the Nebraska National guards that had been taking part in the maneuvers at Pole mountain, north of Cheyenne, passed east today.

Wm. Ebright, of the south side, who has 150 acres in corn, says the prospects for a big crop are better than in any previous year. Naturally, he feels jubilant.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sumner, Mrs. Sumners sister and Attorney Dorsey, of Bloomington, stopped over in town yesterday to visit at the Federhof home while enroute to Ogden in an automobile.

The Hendy-Ogier garage have fourteen Ford cars enroute from the factory. Seven of these will be delivered in North Platte and seven at Stapleton. The two cars driven up from Omaha by Mr. Hendy Saturday have been sold, one going to Thos. Peterson, who lives south of Maxwell.

The grub-worm has destroyed much corn in northeastern Iowa in the last few days. Entire fields are infested by worms. The worms are found in such great numbers that newly stirred ground appears as though it was covered with snow. The worm is pronounced by scientists to be the larva of the June bug.

Geo. W. Perkins, late of the steel trust and a leader of the bull moosers, informs the public that there will be no lack of money for the Roosevelt campaign. If some trust celebrity like Perkins should say that there is plenty of money for the Taft campaign the bull moosers would at once yell "trust candidate."

Seven Days in a Year.

At the examination of pupils in an English primary school the inspector put questions at random to the scholars. Among the latter was a tow-headed lad who, on being asked how many days there are in a year, answered, "Seven." When the titling of the rest of the class subsided the inspector remarked: "I said a year, not a week. Now try it again. How many days are there in a year?" The lad appeared nonplused and vexed for a moment, then ejaculated: "Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday—just seven. If there's others I never heard of 'em."

The Clever Osteopath. A certain osteopath was treating a young lady who had very weak ankles and wrists. As she lived in a town quite a distance from his own city he was forced to leave the city Saturday of each week and go to the town in which the young lady lived, give her the treatment on Sunday and return to the office on Monday. A friend once asked the osteopath how he had arranged to give the young lady the treatments for her ankles and wrists when she lived at such a distance, and the osteopath replied, "Oh, I go out and treat her week ends."—Lippincott's Moisture and Temperature. A cubic foot of air at the temperature of zero (F.) can contain only 5 of a grain of water vapor, at 32 degrees it can hold 2.13 grains, at 65 it can contain 6.8 grains, and at 98 it can hold 18.96 grains of moisture in suspension. These figures go to show that summer air can hold at least nine times the quantity of dampness that air can when reduced to the temperature of freezing.

Medical Etiquette. Instead of being kept up, as people so often imagine, in the interests of the doctors, is maintained in the interests of the public. It is they, not the doctors, who would suffer most were it done away with.—London Spectator.

The Remainder. Dear Snapshots—Can you tell me what is the remainder of the quotation beginning "Man proposes?" Certainly. Man proposes; woman opposes.—Buffalo Times.

Easily Answered. Wife—The doctor has advised me to go south for a month's rest. The question now is where to go. Husband—Go to another doctor.—Fliegende Blatter.

Not So Bad. "A penny for your thoughts," chirped the young lady. "Well, I've had worse offers from publishers," responded the poet.—Kansas City Journal.

A Merchant of Brady

came into our store the other day and purchased 2,000 cigars for his trade. Though he is a new customer, it didn't require any talking to sell him the goods; he knew the name of J. F. Schmalzried on a cigar box means quality; a well made cigar from the best brands of tobacco. Certain brands of our cigars have been on the market for twenty-five years—if they were not good, smokers would have declined years ago to buy them. They have been tested by critical smokers and not found wanting in any particular.

Bale Your Hay and Sell It

THERE is always a ready market at a good price for baled hay. It can be handled easily. It prevents waste. Baling is most profitable when you use I H C pull power presses requiring either one or two horses; or I H C motor presses using 3, 4, or 6-horse power I H C engines. Both styles have three separate bale chamber sizes, 14 x 18 inches, 16 x 18 inches, 17 x 22 inches. Many farmers feed their own stock silage and shredded corn stover and sell their high-priced hay. A big majority of them

Use I H C Hay Presses

The I H C pull power press has a greater capacity than any other horse press of its size. The steppover is the lowest and narrowest made. An adjustable bale tension insures compact bales. A roller tucker makes each bale neat and smooth in appearance.

The I H C motor press consists of a bale chamber and an I H C engine, mounted together on substantial trucks. When not baling hay you have a portable I H C engine, which can be used to saw wood, pump water, shell corn, grind feed, separate cream, or to run any farm machine for which its power makes it suitable. Two perfect machines in one.

Call on the I H C local dealer in your town, or, write for an I H C hay press catalogue.
