Revival Meetings.

At the Christian church at 7:30 every evening for an indefinite time under leadership of Evangelists Knowles and Underwood.
Come and enjoy the meetings, they close promptly at 9 o'clock. Song service begins at 7:30 prompt.

New Time Card.

Effective yesterday a new time-card went into effect on the Union Pacific under which two through trains have been restored. These trains are No. 5 and 4, the former reaching here at 8:30 in the morning from the east, and the latter arriving from the west at 10:40 at night. No. 5 will stop on flag at Maxwell and Brady, which makes a good service for residents of those places who desire to spend a day in North Platte. They can return on No. 4 which leaves here at 11:45, thus giving them a chance to attend a show or a public meeting.

There are minor changes in the schedule of other trains. No. 16 leaves at 7:55 in the morning instead of 8:15 as formerly, and No. 1 and 12 are effected a few minutes.

Pioneer Dies

Louis Rogge, a pioneer of this city, died Sunday evening at his home at 521 E. B St. Mr. Rogge had been in poor health since the first of the year and death claimed him in his sixty-ninth year. The deceased was well known among the early settlers but being of a retiring disposition he made few acquaintances of late years. His friends knew him to be a steady and industrious man, who bore ill will to none. For a number of years he was employed in the local round house and performed his duties well. Mr. Rogge leaves an aged wife and two daughters, Mrs. Antone Pushman and Mrs. John Ruick. He was born in Germany, December 17th, 1842.

The funeral will be held from the residence at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Favor a New Lighting System.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce held in the library building on Friday night of last week, M. E. Crosby was elected to the position of secretary to succeed Chas. F. Temple, who recently resigned. The matter of bettering train service into this terminal was taken up and considered at length, the object being to arrange for the arrival and departure of the passenger trains on the main line and the branch at such time that the visitors from neighboring towns would be in the city during business hours and do some of their shopping here and return home at reasonable hours of the day. The conditions as they now exist are extremely inconvenient for people who desire to visit our city by train. The committee previously appointed for the purpose were urged to further investigate and report at a later meeting. The matter, also, of the installation of a street lighting system was given considerable attention and a committee was appointed to investigate the cost of a lighting system and to outline some plan for its installation and maintenance. The "Electrolite" system was very favorably considered. This system, if carried out as discussed, would result in the electric lighting of Front and Dewey streets with intersecting streets from Third to Front, by lights surmounting ornamental posts systematically arranged on either side of the streets and not allowing of any congestion of posts at the street corners. This plan would result in a street lighting that is uniform and brilliant, and at a very reasonable expense, and should receive the hearty support of all our citizens.

"The Rose of Panama."

John Cort's production of Heinrich Berte's Viennese operetta "The Rose of Panama," will be the attraction at the Keith next Friday evening with the complete wealth of costumes and beautiful scenery that so impressed the large audience which gave it patronage during the engagement at Daly's Theatre, New York, last season.

Chapine, the little Frenchwoman who captured New York in a single night, will be heard in the prima donna role of Jacinta, while many others of the metropolitan company have been retained for this tour.

Heinrich Berte's music is perhaps, the principal feature of the opera. The score contains more than twenty really high class numbers that are reminiscent of "The Pink Lady," "The Chocolate Soldier" and "The Merry Widow," but sufficiently removed to absolve the composer from plagiarism.

The story is laid in a Central America Republic, whose president, Kemy de Valmore, is anxious to surrender his job and his himself to dear old Paris. He has, however, become so popular that he is maintained in office against his will. When a revolution breaks out he hails it with delight, for he sees a plan to escape the cares of office by having the rebels victorious. To this end he tries to aid them, but is always frustrated by his loyal supporters. The pretender to the presidency is one Casterra who would really rather do anything else but fight. The romance involved lies principally in the courtship of Marcel Arranto, once a cowboy, and Jacinta, a favorite of the president.

Fate of Alcibiades.

The brilliant, witty and dissolute Alcibiades had one of the most extensive experiences in exile that ever fell to the lot of man. While in command of the Sicilian army he was recalled to stand trial for the destruction of the busts of Hermes, an outrage that had taken place just before his departure. Knowing that his death had been determined on, he escaped to Sparta, where, by adopting the manners of the people, in strange contrast to his former style of luxury, he became immensely popular. He engaged in military operations against the Athenians and succeeded so well as to excite the envy of the Spartan leaders, who expelled him, whereupon he went to Persia and lived there with a magnificence that astonished the Persians themselves. He was recalled to Athens with the same capriciousness that marked his ostracism and was appointed commander in chief of all the Athenian forces; but, failing in an important expedition, he was again sent into exile and was finally assassinated in Persia.

A Fashion That Failed.

Charles II. attempted to put down the mutability of fashion—in masculine costume. On Oct. 6, 1666, as Pepys records, the king declared in council "his resolution of setting a fashion in clothes, which he will never alter. It will be a vest. I know not just how, but it is to teach the nobility thrift and will do good." Six days later Pepys sees the Duke of York try on the new "vest," which is again declared to be like the laws of the Medes and Persians. It was "a long cassock close to the body, of black cloth and pinked with white silk under it, and a coat over it, and the legs ruffled with black ribbon like a pigeon's leg." But Louis XIV. maliciously dressed all his footmen in this costume, and so did French noblemen, with the result that the English court very soon discarded the "unalterable" costume.

Opaque Windows.

The building contractor let loose some of his most emphatic phrases when he found that the man who had been hired to daub whitening all over the windows had not half done the job. "That man doesn't seem to understand what the windows in a half finished building are whitened for," he said. "We don't plaster them over with chalk to prevent the public from seeing the unfinished condition of the interior, but to keep the workmen from battering out the glass. Transparent glass looks just about as transparent as air to the man who is moving a wooden or iron beam in a hurry, and he is likely to ram the end of it through an expensive window, but when the glass is coated with white it becomes visible, and the workmen hand their material in through the door."

Miss Laura Murray was hostess to the Study Club last evening.

Charles J. McLane and son left this morning for Omaha to attend the Aksarben.

Mrs. E. F. Seeberger left yesterday afternoon for Omaha to spend a week with friends.

The young ladies' bridge club will meet with Miss Alice Birge Thursday.

The Eastern Star will have practice for initiation and floral drill Saturday evening, October 5th, at 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. F. W. Rincker will go to Omaha tomorrow evening to visit friends and attend the fall festival.

Hudson Owners' Bulletin.

The Hudson Motor Car Co. furnishes free to Hudson owner a Bulletin issued monthly, telling the owner how to take care of his car. It gives hints on driving a car and tells exactly how to treat your car to get best results and get most mileage for least expense.

Howard E. Coffin says, "Maximum Life depends solely on Design, Materials, and CARE of the Car." The Hudson factory takes care of the first two items and the "Hudson Bulletin" attends to the last.
