North Platte's Earliest Citizens Dies.

In the death of Mrs. Dorothy Rowland, which occurred at her home in the south part of town yesterday afternoon at 4:15, North Platte lost its earliest settler, and more, with the exception of Charles McDonald and son Will her residence in Lincoln county antedated any person now a resident of the county. Mrs. Rowland's death came as a result of a general breaking down of physical strength, for she had attained the age of seventy-nine years and yet when failing strength a few days ago made it necessary for her to remain in bed, it was the first time in fifty years that she had remained in bed for a full day on account of sickness.

Born in Weston, Mo., October 16th, 1833, Dorothy Grooms made the overland trip to Ft. McPherson in 1862, and on May 21st of that year was united in marriage to Robert E. Rowland, the wedding ceremony being performed by Charles McDonald, then a justice of the peace.

A residence near Ft. McPherson was maintained until 1870, when the family moved to North Platte, and where the deceased had since made her continuous residence. While residing near Ft. McPherson, on several occasions it was necessary for Mr. Rowland and his family to flee to the fort to escape possible harm from roving bands of Indians, and into the life of the deceased came many of the stirring incidents of a new and undeveloped county. Mrs. Rowland belonged to that class of sturdy pioneers of whom there are few left in the west; they performed their part in settling, peopling and developing the country, few of whom like she lived to see the full fruition of their work; to such as her we are indebted for many of the blessings and advantages we enjoy.

The husband departed life May 30th, 1882, and to mourn the passing of this pioneer mother are two sons and one daughter, Robert E. and J. W. Rowland, and Mrs. Henry Breternitz, all residents of the city.

The funeral service will be held at the Lutheran church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

Dies of Bright's Disease.

Richard Williams died at the home of his nephew Dick Williams yesterday afternoon at the age of seventy-one years. The deceased had been living on a fruit farm near Willow Springs, Mo., and four or five years ago became afflicted with kidney trouble. He rapidly grew worse, and as he was living practically alone, his nephew went to Willow Springs seven weeks ago and brought him to this city where he was given tender care by Mr. and Mrs. Williams and skillful medical attention by local physicians, but the best that could be done was to make the patient as comfortable as possible. He suffered greatly, but bore his affliction with much patience, and death came as a relief.

Accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Williams and a brother who came here three weeks ago, the remains were taken to Cambria, Wis., this morning for interment, that place having formerly been the home of the deceased and the present home of the brother.

EXTRAVAGANCE is one of those insidious habits that creep upon us and takes away our money, wastes our time, and ROBS US of a comfortable old age. Those small sums that we fritter away from week to week, would look very handsome a few years from now in the bank. After you have started a bank account, you will find that it is no sacrifice to deny yourself many of the useless pleasures that really eat up so vast an amount of money.
