What the Whirligig of Taade Will Do.

The railroad rides of a steer that was owned in Dawson county by several people at one time and another makes rather curious reading. The various journeys made by the animal have been traced up and are as follows:

As a calf the animal was shipped to South Omaha from Overton. While in the stock yards there it was purchased by Claude Carr of this city and shipped here and placed in the latter's pasture and branded. When he was a two-year Mr. Carr shipped the animal with other stock to South Omaha and sold it. An Iowa man brought it as a feeder and shipped it to his farm, and later sent it back to the South Omaha market where it was again sold. Cole Durland, a feeder of this county, bought the animal and it was again shipped back to Dawson county. He fed it for several months and again forwarded it to South Omaha market where it was again sold, and it is probable it will not again come back to its native country.—Dawson County Pioneer.

Special at the Episcopal Church.

Next Sunday, Oct 13th, will complete to the day the Rector's seventh year as Rector of the Church of Our Savior. They have been busy years and not unblest with results. The Rector would like to meet all the communicants at the morning service at 10:30 a. m. at which time a short account of the seven years results will be given and a sermon appropriate to the day. Let us all come out who can arrange in anyway to do so; let us have a good attendance; we will not have unless you come.

Sunday evening the services will also be of a special nature and make arrangements to attend both services next Sunday. At the evening service, the Rev. Oliver D. Baltzy of the Koozts Memorial in Omaha, who is in attendance at the Lutheran Synod now in session in our city, will speak to us. Rev. Mr. Baltzy is one of the most gifted preachers of the west and the Rector especially urges all the members to give him a hearty and responsive welcome. Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m. Special music.
