The Democratic Banquet

To the democrats of Lincoln county and their friends, including the ladies, who wish to attend a banquet to be held at North Platte on the evening of December 5th; all are most cordially invited to attend this love feast.

A charge of $1.00 per plate will be made, and those wishing to be at the banquet supper will please notify the secretary of the county committee, A. F. Beeler at Hershey or North Platte, by letter or in person, giving the number that will attend from the various precincts, so arrangements can properly be made to accommodate all who give notice of their intention of attending the banquet.

Judge J. H. Dean of Broken Bow, Judge W. D. Oldham of Kearney and Geo. C. Gillan of Lexington have all answered saying they would be present and take part in the programme. Those who have heard these gentlemen will be pleased to learn of an opportunity of hearing them again. If you have never heard them it will be a treat not often enjoyed in this part of Nebraska. Democrats and their friends are invited alike. Do not forget the date, December 5th.

A. F. BEELER,
Sec. of Democratic Committee.

Farmers, you well know the layers are the payers. Fresh eggs are now worth 35c. I can start you in this prize winning kind of chickens. I have some choice roosters that I will sell, but they won't last long, so come early.

U. P. Will Reopen Case.

That the Union Pacific will reopen the case of the contested right of way over most of its system, which has been repeatedly decided against the company, seems certain.

It was thought that the decision against the railroad by the United States circuit court of appeals and the passage of the bill introduced by Congressman Norris of Nebraska had finally concluded the railroad's claim to the 400-foot right of way, comprising properties in Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado and Wyoming. Millions of dollars were involved in the original suit and the amount will be larger this time.

It is stated that the Union Pacific will carry the case to the United States supreme court and will likewise contest the validity of the Norris law which limited the right of way to 200 feet instead of 400 feet.

Evans' Minstrels.

The "Honey Boy" minstrels, who come to the Keith next Wednesday evening, have no superiors in the minstrelsy line. A general description of the evening's entertainment is as follows:

The comedians, vocalists and musicians are disclosed at the opening of the show seated upon a terraced dias in the midst of a colorful arrangement. "The Floral Bower" is the name of this opening part, which introduces the following favorites: Interlocutor Vaughn Comfort, Comedians John King, Sam Lee, Tommy Hyde, Jack Kenney and Raymond Maxson; Singers James Meehan, Jim Doherty, Joseph Gillespie and others. Tuneful oldtime melodies and the latest popular song hits are among the vocal selections rendered. "I Want to Hear an Irish Band Play on St. Patrick's Day," the song hit of the Friars' Frolic, brings this opening to an epic finish.

"De Go Lightly Guards' Reception," is the pretentious afterpiece and is said to be the best farcical sketch ever written by the inimitable "Honey Boy." Its book, lyrics and music are from his pen; "Cicero Didimus Jones" is the nomenclature given him as a roustabout dandy, and when later, mainly because of hunger and partly because of a bribe of two dollars, he impersonates "General Woolf Woolf," a valiant African military leader, he is said to stir up a maelstrom of mirth. "De Go Lightly Guards" and "The Daughter of the Regiment," the last being rendered by Charles Hilliard, the clever and artistic delineator of an alluring octoroon beauty, are its song hits. The dancing of the famous "Turkey Trot" by Raymond Maxson and Charles Ufer is another feature, as is an elaborate ensemble march conceived and staged by James E. Gorman, stage manager for all Cohan and Harrie productions.

"Seminary Days" the middle part, is a song and dance novelty, John King and Sam Lee are the center of its ridiculous situations. It shows a moonlight picture of a girls' seminary in the Southland with the dusky belles and their tatterdemalion beaux romping and singing. "The Boys We Love" and "When the Old Town Clock Strikes Nine," its song numbers were written by the "Honey Boy." The eccentric dancing of Raymond Maxson is one of its salient features.

Evans in his merry monologue moments, which reveal him in his happiest vein, a clever saltatorial exhibition by Tommy Hyde, the world's premier soft shoe dancer, assisted by Johnny Barry, feature the delectable olio.

The W. C. T. U. will hold a meeting in the public library Tuesday afternoon from 3 till 6 o'clock. Mrs. Favoright evangelistic superintendent, will have charge of the meeting.
