Cody Offers Relics to City.

Colonel Cody, with his accustomed generosity, will tender to the city of North Platte as a nucleus for a museum, his entire collection of Indian relics, which is one of the finest in the west, part of which is stored at Cody, Wyo., and part at the Scout's Rest ranch. Not only will the gift include these Indian relics, but also many articles which the Colonel collected during his trips abroad. Located in what was once the great hunting ground of the Sioux and other Indian tribes, it is particularly fitting that North Platte should have a museum of Indian relics. It is probable that with the Cody collection to start with, many donations would be made by pioneers of the west who have relics in their possession. Mounted buffalo, elk and deer could also be obtained, and we believe that within a few years North Platte would have a collection of relics of the pioneer days that would surpass any to be found in the country, and one that would become more valuable as the years pass.

Where Colonel Cody's proposed gift shall be stored, is a question that is up to the people for solution. It may be possible that an annex to the south might be built to the public library by a vacation of the alley—this, however, is only a suggestion, it may not be worthy of much consideration. The matter however, should be taken up at once by our citizens.

North Platte to Kansas City.

The Tribune is creditably informed that when the Gibbon-Hastings cut-off is placed in service a solid passenger train will run from North Platte to Kansas City, and that the train crew will run through to that city. The engine crew district will be from North Platte to Hastings. It is also probable that solid Kansas City freight trains will be made up at North Platte; in other words there will be a North Platte-Kansas City passenger district, and a North Platte-Hastings freight district. The opening of the Gibbon cut-off will largely increase business in and out of North Platte, as much western traffic now routed via Denver to Kansas City will come through North Platte and over the Gibbon line.

WEINGAND'S

Notice to Ditch Owners.

To all ditch owners taking water out of the North Platte river:

I desire to call your attention to the fact that if any of the ditches which have not yet consummated contracts with the United States government for water out of the Pathfinder Reservoir in times of scarcity of water in the North Platte river, that they must make their applications within a short time or it will be forever too late. This is a matter of immense importance to the irrigation interests along the North Platte river. The secretary has communicated with the secretary of the interior at Washington, D. C., in regard to the extension of time for purchase of reservoir water from the Pathfinder Reservoir in pursuance of the resolution adopted by the Nebraska State Irrigation Association, Oct. 24, 1912, asking for an extension of time for a period of one year from January 1, 1913. In a letter from the secretary under date of December 6, 1912, the secretary says: "It is presumed that the association represents the corporations or individuals referred to, but this does not clearly appear, nor the more important fact whether these persons in consideration of such extension will obligate themselves to take prompt action. It would seem therefore, that it is unwise to make any general agreement which may prevent the consummation of plans for the use of the stored water by those who may be prepared to do so and to tie up the use of the water already stored at large expense by the government. Each association or individual who may desire to obtain this water should immediately present a statement or proposition indicating clearly a definite date when they or he will be prepared to discuss details, so that those who are now on the point of concluding arrangements will not be interfered with. In other words, the time has now arrived when each application for stored water should be dealt with on its merits."

If any ditch owners whether irrigation districts or individuals expect to contract with the government for water out of the Pathfinder Reservoir, please communicate with the undersigned immediately so that application blanks can be obtained and filled out, and sent to the secretary of the interior.

Respectfully submitted,
J. G. BEELER,
President, Nebraska State Irrigation Association.

No Occasion for a Fuss.

The claim of Omaha scribes that Omaha high school is winner of the state inter-scholastic football championship of 1912 is stoutly contradicted by North Platte, which piled up an unbroken string of victories during the recent gridiron campaign and won most of its games by overwhelming scores. The North Platte chaps are asking whether or not their neck of the woods is a part of Nebraska and if Omaha is the entire commonwealth. But there is no occasion for a fuss. If North Platte were to challenge the Omaha lads for a post-season game on a neutral gridiron, as, for instance, the state university field, surely Omaha would not dodge the issue.

Phone Temple to show you the lots.
