Might be Dangerous.

In the evidence before the money trust investigation last Friday, Banker Baker, a very prominent and successful banker of New York, practically turned state's evidence.

Mr. Untermeyer: I suppose you would see no harm in having the control of credit as represented by the control of banks and trust companies still further concentrated?

Mr. Baker: It might not be dangerous, but still it has gone far enough. In good hands, I do not say it would do any harm.

Mr. Untermeyer: So that the safety, if you think there is any safety in the situation, lies in the personnel of the men?

Mr. Baker: Very much.

Mr. Untermeyer: Do you think that is a comfortable situation for a great country to be in?

Mr. Baker: (Very slowly) Not entirely.

Senator V. V. Hoagland of North Platte is opposed to the legislature taking any action in the university removal agitation. "I think that the only way to solve the matter," said the Senator, "is to put it up to the people by a referendum vote and let it be settled that way. It is a matter in which every voter in the state ought to have a chance to help settle and the legislature will have enough to do this winter without getting mixed up in the university removal matter."—Omaha Bee.
