Bad Man Steals Guns.

Some "bad" man who was evidently short of weapons, broke a glass in the Fink harness store Sunday night and made way with three Colt's revolvers that were on display in the windows. Two of the guns were of 38-calibre, the other 45; one was new, the others had been used a few times. The thief, overlooked, or did not want, a shot gun standing in the window.

The noise of falling glass was heard about twelve o'clock by persons living in the blocks adjoining, but robbery did not enter the minds of the hearers.

Garlows will Move to Cody.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Garlow will leave shortly for Cody, Wyo., where they will manage the Irma hotel and look after Colonel Cody's extensive interests in that section. This move is made on account of Colonel Cody having decided to sell his ranch west of town, a probably purchaser for which is expected to arrive this week.

Mrs. Cody spend the summer traveling with the Colonel and later go to Cody All North Platte people will regret the removal of Mr. and Mrs. Garlow and Mrs. Cody. The name of Cody has been so closely identified with North Platte since its location in 1867 that we feel that we are losing not only very estimable people, but people who were Miss Ruby Shaner spent Sunday with responsible for making the name North Platte known in every civilized nation.

N. B. Olds Passes Away.

From a Ceres, Calif., paper it is learned that Noble B. Olds, a former resident of North Platte, died at that place February 22d and interment held at Modesto. The deceased was born in Massachusetts January 23, 1851, and came west when a young man. In 1878 he married Miss Julia Dillon, sister of Mrs. W. W. Birge, of this city. They located in this city in 1888, and Mr. accepted on account of his matured Olds conducted a grocery store on the north side of the tracks. taking a marked interest in public affairs and his advice often sought and judgment. It is generally known that Mr. McNeel was an applicant for the North Platte postoffice under the new administration and was so liberally supported by all citizens disregarding political lines that it was generally conceded that he would have been named for that place. This makes his death come to us with the unusual blow and the large list of friends who were supporting him.

It is always a blow to the community that has to suffer the loss of one of the builders of its commonwealth; such Neel and not only the large circle of friends in his community will be sad and in mourning but the citizenship of Lincoln county each will join with the other in saying he was a good man and his death is our loss.

To the family we commend the sympathy of the public and especially the early settlers of Lincoln county.
