"Bunty Pulls The Strings," which comes to the Keith next Friday evening, is a Scotch comedy interpreted by an all Scotch company. Bunty, who pulls the strings, is the daughter of Tammas Biggar, and presides over his household as the successor of her mother, who died two years before. Susie Simpson is an old maid and a distant relative who has loaned Tammas a matter of one hundred and twenty pounds, which Tammas used to make good the deficiency of an elder son. Miss Simpson compels Tammas to choose between marriage or the restoration of her money, and Tammas is not in a position to liquidate, and in consequence passes a bad Sabbath. Jealousy of an old flame of Tammas' impels the vindictive old maid to denounce Tammas in the kirkyard, before the churchgoers as a dishonest man, when the inventive Bunty promises to make good the amount and averts the arrest of her father, by confiscating the nest eggs of her wedding with honest Weelum Sprunt. The rest of the play is taken up in showing how Bunty sets all things right defeating Susie and marrying her father to his boyhood love.

Col. Cody Sells Ranch.

Col. W. F. Cody yesterday sold the Scout's Rest ranch to J. M. Hamilton, of Chester, Penna., for an even one hundred thousand dollars, this sum including fifty head of horses, about twenty head of cattle and all the farm and haying machinery. Mr. Hamilton, the purchaser, was in town yesterday closing up the deal. The ranch embraces 2,342 acres, all of which is tillable, but on some portions of it there are deposits of alkali, which deteriorates its value as productive farm land.

Mr. Hamilton is prominent in business circles in Chester, a man of large financial resources, and has purchased the ranch with the expectation of operating it as a stockgrower and feeder. Upon arrival home he will send out a manager. While not certain as to the future, he said it was possible that he might eventually make the ranch his home.

He was very favorably impressed with North Platte as a business point, and pleased with the cordiality extended him by those of our business men he met.

Teachers' Association Closes.

The West Central Teachers association closed Saturday evening, after a profitable three day session in this city. The enrollment for the convention reached two hundred and the program was rendered as previously announced. The visiting teachers were loud in their praise of the entertainment provided for them. One of the most enjoyable features was the banquet held Friday evening at the Masonic hall which was served on beautifully decorated tables by the Catholic Order of Foresters.

Among those who responded to toasts were Miss Ruby Mangel and Dr. N. McCabe of this city, P. M. Whitehead of Gothenburg, Cora O'Connor of the Kearney normal, Miss Clark of Maxwell, and J. E. Delzell of Lincoln. The programs rendered at the Keith theatre were exceptionally good. The meeting in 1914 will be held at Gothenburg.

Platte Valley Bank Reception.

Three thousand people visited the Platte Valley Bank Saturday evening at its formal opening in its new location on the corner of 5th and Dewey streets. The receiving hours were from 7:30 until 10:00 p. m. and long before the time announced for the opening the entrance and walk were crowded with anxious patrons and friends who were eager to view the beautiful new fixtures, decorations and conveniences which the increasing patronage of this institution demanded.

For several weeks the building had been undergoing changes which add to its beauty and give to the bank the facilities necessary in its rapidly growing business. The new corner entrance leads directly to the president's office which is comfortably fitted up with upholstered mahogany chairs and private desks. The banking room is large, well lighted by the indirect lighting system and affords the employees a convenient room to prepare their business and give their customers every attention. In this room is the new vault 10 by 14 feet in dimensions in which are stationed one hundred safety deposit boxes with the master and customers key. A large safe for currency occupies the south half of the vault and directly behind this is noticed the large silver chest and filing system demonstrating the filing of checks, deposits and cancel vouchers, also the roller shelves upon which are stored the books. The lining of this vault is one fourth inch steel over sixteen inches of concrete reinforced by seven eight inch steel rods running over and along the side tied by three extra steel bands. The door weighs 3,400 pounds, has the double combination and twenty bolts.

To the right of the vault is the private coupon room where the patrons of the bank can bring their deposit boxes for inspection. A large apartment at the rear of the building is used as a directors' chamber.

The large tables, chairs and office fixtures are all highly polished mahogany. The ceilings of the new rooms are finished in delicate colors and frescoed with borders of flowers. The lower half of the walls are in white marble and the grill work is in polished brass. F. C. Pielsticker, president of the bank, received the visitors at the entrance and directed them to the receiving line in which stood Mr. and Mrs. James Payne and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Beeler.

The large vault door was explained by L. E. Mehlmann, assistant cashier, who demonstrated it clearly. The visitors were then taken into the vault where J. D. Uttendorfer, of the City National bank of Omaha, explained the interior workings.

Misses Virginia Bullard, Margaret Jones, Myrtle Beeler and Mrs. John Sims greeted the guests in the directors' room and presented cut flowers to the ladies and cigars to the gentlemen. Cashier M. E. Scott also welcomed the visitors in this room. During the evening Stamp's orchestra furnished a program of popular music. Cut flowers, palms, ferns and arcarias were abundantly used in decorating.
