Obituary.

Gilbert H. Gregg was born at Willard, in Lincoln county, Nebraska, on August 25th, 1887. He lived with his parents in the north part of this county until May, 1907, when he went to Helper, Utah, as assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A. under Mr. Julius Sheppard, formerly of our city. Shortly after going to Helper, he accepted a position as fireman on the Denver & Rio Grande railway, and by reason of faithfulness to his work, he was promoted to the responsible position of engineer, in Dec., 1911.

About a year ago he was married to Miss Viana Nora Nesbitt, of Grand Junction, Colo., and the young couple made their residence at that place. He was killed by accident at Wellington, Utah, on the night of April 26th, 1913.

His wife, father, mother and nine brothers and sisters remain to mourn his sudden and seeming untimely departure. The following letter was received by the family from [Sec. Sheppard, of Helper, Utah:

Helper, Utah, April 27, 1913.

Mr. Aaron S. Gregg,
Dear Mr. Gregg: You do not know how badly I felt when I was told this morning of the death of brother Gilbert. Am told that he was leaning out of the cab window looking at the working of the injector when they passed thro the iron bridge. I guess he never knew a thing after being struck for he died in a few minutes. I feel very sorry for the family. It will be a hard blow for all.

I, too, will miss him for he came in to the Y. M. C. A. every trip as it is the only home he had away from home. He always slept and spent his loafing time in the building, usually with a book on "air" in his hands, for he was a good student.

I thought much of him because he had a mind of his own and could not be influenced to drink, gamble and waste his money with the bunch, some of which did not like him because he would not stand for such foolishness.

He always worked hard, saved his money, and minded his own business and was always a gentleman.

It hurts me to see a young man cut down like that but God knows what is best, and I pray that He may sustain all of you in this awful hour.

With kindest regards, am your friend,
J. SHEPPARD.

Mr. Gregg's death was the 11th, caused by the narrow gauge bridges on the Denver and Rio Grande between Grand Junction and Helper in the last 15 years. He was injured at 8:00 p. m. Saturday, the 26th, and died at 11:16 p. m. the same day, while he was being rushed to Grand Junction for treatment. Besides the wife of the deceased, her brother J. H. Nesbitt and wife, her sister Miss Ruth Nesbitt, and Mr. L. C. O'Brien representative of the Fireman's brotherhood, accompanied the remains to our city. The death comes indeed as a shock to many loved ones and friends of the deceased, and we all offer felt sympathy to the bereaved in this their dark hour of sorrow.

Notice to the Public.

Musical Elephants.

Yankee Robinson's musical elephants, which have been playing the big vaudeville houses during the past winter, are making a tremendous hit. The elephants are of more than ordinary size, in fact, the largest performing elephants in the country, and they go through their daily routine amazingly.

In addition to the herd which the circus carries, it has on exhibition the greatest beast that ever walked the face of the earth—Kongo, a mighty elephant from India—imported to this country for a tour of the circus this season. Will exhibit here May 12th.

Ed. G. Bixler, a former North Platte boy, arrived Tuesday and remained until today visiting old-time friends. For a number of years Mr. Bixler has been on the vaudeville stage, and is on the Orpheum circuit at a weekly salary that enables him to maintain a yacht in which he spends his summer vacation at points along the Atlantic coast between Washington and New York, the former city being his headquarters. He had three days between dates and took the opportunity to spend the time with his old North Platte friends.

About 800 horses were sold on Monday and Tuesday of this week at the horse sales of Bradstreet & Clemens company and the Grand Island Horse & Mule company. Prices were slightly off. The receipts of all railroads in Nebraska, excepting solely the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha, a short line, fell off during the year 1912. The falling off is not heavy nor serious but is sufficient to indicate that the railroads occasionally have troubles of their own and that a period of recuperation is sometimes necessary.—Kearney Hub.

Health a Factor in Success.

The largest factor contributing to a man's success is undoubtedly health. It has been observed that a man is seldom sick when his bowels are regular, he is never well when they are constipated. For constipation you will find nothing quite so good as Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. They are sold by all dealers.
