Dr. Quigley Writes About His Trip.

Monday, June 2.

Dear Sir:—When I got on the boat at Hoboken, New Jersey, and found that most of the passengers were Italians and Germans, I began to feel lonesome. A few hours out and the sea (it is roughest near New York) began to get us where we live. Squamish feelings around the stomach and a dizzy feeling in the head did not tend to improve the disposition and I felt that the North German Lloyd had offered me a personal affront when seated at the table at dinner I found seated across from me two "dagoes" and a pale a nemic youth of 18 who seemed to be sick, across at the next table in my line of vision was a cadaveric looking individual whom I mentally put down as having cancer. The rest of the table were Germans and Italians and they talked their own languages in a way to disconcert a lone American with a nauseated stomach. However my two "dagoes" turned out to be two very pleasant and polite Italian gentlemen. My cadaveric individual is the editor of a large Syrian newspaper in New York and a man of culture and high educational attainments. Two of the Italians are large good looking men like Mike Salcetti, in the business of making fixtures for drug stores in Brooklyn and another is a manager of several theatres in Eastern cities, so it was my first impression of these people were wrong and after nine days with them I find them well educated, lovable people. We are a few hours out of Gibraltar. The ship will stop there several hours and we will go ashore and inspect the town. Then we go on to Naples and arrive there next Friday.

The voyage has been very pleasant and the weather today is ideal, warm and sunshine without any wind and the bluest water you ever saw. Mrs. Quigley just called to me through the window that there is a whale in sight. She and Barlette are feeling fine, he has not been the least bit sick but we were sick the first two days. The food on board is all German and Italian. The stuff cooked hot is German and the cold stuff like salads is all Italian. Lunch in five courses and dinner usually seven. There is a great variety but I can't get use to the d— foreign stuff and would give $10 right now for a good cup of coffee and an American cigar. German cigars and coffee are fierce. There is much beer drinking but no drunks and some little gambling. The quantities of spaghetti consumed is surprising. It must take tons of it. There are several doctors on board and several priests. One priest Father Kaup is well acquainted in Sub.

The Azores Islands which we passed through Friday were a most beautiful panorama from our ship and the sea thereabouts is alive with fish in places. One peak on the Azores is 8,000 feet high and the clouds at the summit cleared a few minutes so we got a good view of it. Father Kaup says "See Naples and Die." He says it is very beautiful so I will write my impression of it if I have time after we go to Vienna. From Naples we will visit Rome, Florence, Venice and Milan but will stay most of the summer in Vienna.

DR. D. T. QUIGLEY.

Let us show you our new line of delft blue German Tile goods. Fine wedding gifts. DIXON, The Jeweler.

Manager Robinson's Yeomen ball team went to Hershey Sunday where they were defeated by the score of 1 to 0 by the Hershey "Giants." The game was a pitcher's battle between Jones for the Yeomen and Beechan for the Hershey team, the former getting eight strikes out and the latter fifteen, and each allowing three hits. In the ninth inning the Yeomen's only chance to score was quickly shut off by phenomenal catch of Sandall's. The Hershey team made their score in the last of the ninth when with one down the next at bat was hit by a pitched ball, went to third on a hit and scored on a slow grounder to Jones. The field work of the Yeomen was especially good.
