The D. of H. Convention.

The second annual convention of the D. of H. A. O. U. W. which was held in this city this week in the L. O. O. F. Hall closed last evening after a most successful and interesting session of two days. The visiting delegates from the twenty-seven towns which the 7th district embraces, numbered close to one hundred, each and every one of whom expressed themselves highly pleased with the manner in which they were received, the method with which the local lodge carried out the ceremonies and the favors extended to them by the business men.
Wednesday morning the convention was called to order by the Dist. President and a program of music, addresses and appointment of committees followed. In the afternoon the report of the lodges was read and consented upon. Talks were given by the Grand Master Workman Walling, and papers read by members. Initiatory work was held during this session. In the evening a public reception was held during which talks were given by P. H. Sullivan, A. M. Walling G. M. W., Mrs. Mayme H. Cleaver G. C. of H., and music rendered by Mrs. DeFord and Miss Cohagen. The election of officers was held yesterday, those elected were District President, Mrs. Ireland; Dist. Treasurer, Mrs. Wilson; Dist. Secretary, Mrs. Dillman, all of Curtis, and the next convention will be held there.
Mrs. Cleaver and Mrs. Augusta Anton, of McCook, were the principal speakers yesterday afternoon. The reception last evening was held in the K. P. Hall where a large number had assembled. J. G. Boshier in well chosen words gave the opening address. Mrs. Cleaver gave a short talk and a unique parasol drill by sixteen young ladies in Japanese costume under the direction of Erna Huffman was given.
The Curtis lodge held their memorial services and the newly elected officers were installed.
The vocal duet by Mrs. Huffman and daughter Irma was loudly applauded. The latter part of the evening was spent in a social manner and the convention was voted one of the most profitable ever held.
To Mrs. Magnolia Duke, Mrs. Mary Elder and Mrs. Lottie Cronin is due the credit for the successful manner in which the program was carried out.

City Council Proceedings.

The city council met in adjourned session Wednesday evening.
The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.
A copy of the report of the school board showing the necessary levy for maintaining schools was read and upon motion placed on file.
The Fourth of July Committee and band appeared before the council and asked for the use of the streets for the week beginning June 30th in order to hold a carnival. It was agreed that the streets be turned over to them and they be entitled to concession money. A petition from the residents of East Ninth street was read asking that the sidewalk be laid on the north side of the street be laid on the old line which is three and one half feet in from the line now used. The council did not see how they could violate the order of putting in a walk on any but required lines.
The report special of auditor Hoagland of the Water Works books was read and filed, a copy of which is published.
An ordinance forming a new sewer lateral district, being an extension of sewer lateral M between 5th and 6th streets was read and passed, extension to reach to sewer on Adams Ave.

Estimates of the expenses of the fiscal year 1913 from the finance committee was read and approved and ordered published in the Tribune.
A communication from Simants stating that the walk on lots 7 and 8, blk 7 in the Peniston Addition was too low and engineer reported that the walk had settled eight inches. The council instructed the clerk to notify owners to raise same. John Jone was appointed as night police.
In a letter received by Rev. Harman yesterday from Rev. J. F. Selbert, of Chicago, the latter said Henry Cordes was his guest and that he was showing the North Platte man some of the big things of Chicago. After riding on a trolley car for eighteen miles on a nickel fare, Henry remarked that it was one time in his life that he got his money's worth.
The work of decorating the walls of the Elks' building began this week. Sluder doing the preliminary work and the decorative designs will be put on by an Omaha artist. This work will cost about twelve hundred dollars, but will be an improvement worth the expenditure.
Hupfer & Landgraf have placed in five different sections of the city a total of 600 lineal feet of sheet iron bill boards, ten feet high. These boards have been erected with permanency and the firm expect their investment of a thousand dollars to prove a good one.

We have the two reel the Eclair, the Faith Healer which is a story of tremendous power. J. W. Johnston is "Helmer" the man who doesn't care; Guy Heblund is "Robert", the man that doesn't believe in God; and Miss Barbara Tennant is "Louise the girl who believes and cares". With a powerful theme, artistically handled in the weaving of the plot, Eclair has scored heavily in this story of love and faith. The action of the plot is unusually clear out and forceful and the development of the situations being in such capable hands, the result has been an artistic triumph and a tremendous sermon. Robert and Louise are married. On their honeymoon Louise learns, on finding a Bible in their room that Robert does not believe. A couple of years after their marriage, they are reduced to poverty, and Robert is obliged to go as a laborer in order to support his wife and child. Helmar treats his wife so meanly that she decides to leave him and is writing a letter to a friend when her husband returns unexpectedly. He reads the letter and learns that his wife will shoot herself if the friend does not come and take her away, he offers her the revolver with which to carry out her threat. But her nerve fails her and the pistol drops to the table. Saying that his life is worth less than hers, Helmar leaves the house intent on suicide. He is about to jump in to the river when he decides upon a better way to drop out of her life. Leaving his coat and hat on the bank, he enlists in the army. Believing that her husband is dead, the wife welcomes the attentions of the friend, and one day, when she is riding in an automobile with the friend, the husband, who is walking along the road sees her and exclaims that he wished he were blind so that he may never see her again. Several weeks later in a battle his wish is granted, for a shell burst over his head and blinds him. This terrible visitation of the wrath of God makes of Helmar a new man, and he opens a mission for curing the sick and the weak. To this mission comes Louise, who was on her way to the drug store for a bottle of medicine for the sick daughter, Clara. She stands unobserved until the gathering disperses then she approaches and when the faith healer turns towards her, she recognizes in Helmar an old friend. She makes herself known and leads him to where the sick child lies. Helmar prays fervently and soon the little one begins to regain her strength. Robert regains a part of his fortune and Helmar goes to make his home with them. In the closing scene his wife and sight are both restored to him.

Notice to Water Consumers.

In the future whenever it becomes necessary to shut off water from any portion of town one long blast of the fire whistle will be given, followed in a moment by the number of the ward in which the water will be shut off. For instance, some day this week probably Friday afternoon or evening, the water will be shut off on West 4th street and everything west of Maple street and South of the U. P. tracks. The signal given will be one long blast of the whistle followed in a moment by three short blasts signifying the 3rd ward. Saturday evening water will probably be shut off on every-thing south of 3rd street. In every instance water will be kept off as short a time as possible and work will be done at such times as will, we hope, inconvenience consumers as little as possible. Work will probably be done in the evenings commencing about 8 or 9 o'clock. It is not always possible to say just how long water will be shut off in any particular case as we do not know just what condition will be met with. Consumers should draw off water sufficient to last them at least two or four hours. Hershey S. Welch, Water Commissioner.

M. E. Church

Children's Day will be observed at Methodist church Sunday morning. Preparations have been made to make this a delightful service to all. The exercises will begin at 10:30 sharp. A collection will be taken for the benefit of young men and women in our schools who are striving to secure a Christian education. Special music has been provided, among which will be a trombone duet by Professors Tout and Williams.
The service will close with the sacrament of baptism administered to children.
At 2:30 the Junior league will hold its session with the children. Epworth league at 6:45. Preaching 8 p. m., subject, "Beautiful Feet". The Sunday evening services thru the summer months will be made cool by the breath of brevity. A wide awake song service followed by a short vigorous talk by the pastor will be the order for each Sunday evening.
All are cordially invited.

Fifty-three one-hundredths of an inch of rain fell last night. It came down gently and soaked in as it fell. Crops were not suffering for moisture, but nevertheless last night's precipitation came in good. Keep up the good the work, Brother Shilling.
