Hershey Struck by a Cyclone.

The village of Hershey, twelve miles west of North Platte was struck by a cyclone last evening. A number of buildings were demolished, but fortunately no one was injured. The funnel-shaped cloud was seen to form about two miles northwest of the town, and seemed to be the result of two clouds merging. With awful velocity and a roaring that warned the people of its approach the storm swept toward the village; those residents who had cellars seeking retreat therein.

The first building struck in the town proper was the large hay barn, which was completely demolished, the depot building was partly unroofed, the opera house was moved bodily twenty inches on its foundation, buildings occupied by the drug store, the postoffice and the hardware store were unroofed and the fronts partly demolished, a large grain house was careened on its side, the garage of Dr. Sadler was lifted bodily from the foundation and carried away, the automobile standing in its tracks uninjured; two houses were moved from the foundations and more or less damaged, but none of the occupants injured; and numerous small stables, sheds and outhouses were completely wrecked.

The cloud rose and fell as it passed along; wrecking a building, then lifting passed over the next without damage, then again dipping and creating damage. The force of the wind was shown when a piece of a 2x4 was driven through the siding and plaster of a house; pieces of corrugated iron from demolished buildings penetrated the sides of other buildings; and wreckage was carried a distance of two miles outside the town. A heavy hail accompanied the storm, and crops which had not been damaged by hail of Tuesday evening was laid waste.

While no deaths or injuries resulted directly from the storm, one death was indirectly due to it; Supt. Wickstrom, of the North Platte Land & Water Co., dropping dead from heart trouble while viewing the wreckage following the storm. He was standing at the site of the hay barn, and suddenly dropped to ground, expiring before medical aid could be summoned. This tragic feature of the storm created profound sorrow, for the deceased had lived in Hershey for a number of years and was one who stood high in the estimation of the people.

Miss Tillie Blankenburg returned last evening from a short visit in Omaha.

Lightning, Hail and Windstorm

continue their destruction. It is unfortunate that so few people were insured. Dear Reader, are you one of these? The many losses that are being reported sets insurance companies to thinking and their agents to wondering why some people don't insure. We are getting constant reports by telephone and wire of the many losses. One man loses eight head of cattle out of nine, another three horses, another his barn. Ten farmers in the valley west of us, lose all their crops. What a pleasure it would have been to us to be able to pay all these losses. Had these unfortunate farmers been in bn us we would have paid every dollar. Be wise and let us insure what you have left today.
