On sale Saturday 65c and 75c Ladies' Silk Hose for 39c. The Leader.

Mrs. Thos. Golden and children returned to Valley Junction, Iowa, yesterday after a visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Duke.

A ten pound boy baby was born yesterday morning to Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Tottenhoff. The interested parties are reported to be getting along nicely.

T. M. Cohagen, distributing agent for the Dolan Fruit Co., has closed out the third car of peaches shipped to North Platte this season. Each car contained eleven hundred cases.

J. W. Davis, a printer who knows the business from a to z and has had many years of experience, arrived Wednesday to assume charge of the mechanical department of The Tribune.

Lost—Either on cars between Lexington and Sutherland, or on streets of North Platte, a soldiers' civil war discharge and a real estate deed. If found return to Tribune office and receive reward.

While working in the elevator shaft in the federal building the early part of the week, Webb Hughes fell and sustained a bad injury to his left knee. The trouble will keep him from work for some time.

On sale Saturday 75c and $1.00 Ladies' Union Suits 39 cents. The Leader.

James Bechan, living northwest of town came in Wednesday to make final proof on his 489-acre homestead. Though Mr. Bechan lives in the hills, he has had good crops this year, his corn being especially fine.

Ike Stebbins, for two years meat cutter at the Marti market, has transferred his services to the Broadbeck & Son market. Ike is a master hand with the knife and cleaver, and the market securing his services is fortunate.

Contractor Surber Gets Badly in the Hole.

Roy Surber, building contractor of this city, left rather unceremoniously last Saturday leaving behind him a record of poor business management and debts that are not yet definitely known but will probably aggregate $1,500 or $2,000. This indebtedness is not evidence of dishonesty but rather inability to correctly figure on building contracts, and as a result the money he received for his work was insufficient to pay his labor and material bills. He had contracts for five or six houses on which he had materially underbid other contractors. As work on these buildings progressed, money was advanced by the owners, but the amounts received proved inadequate to meet the labor and material bills and of course the more the work progressed the larger became the existing deficit. Finally concluding that he could no longer keep afloat, he placed his contracts in the hands of C. F. Temple and announced his intention of going to Grand Island.

The labor and material bills are liens against the houses under contract and the owners must foot the bills in order to clear off the lien. Among the buildings under contract by Surber were the Christian church, the Guillaume house on east Sixth, the Charley Temple residence and the Redmond house, the latter about completed but full settlement had not been made.

Extravagantly Entertaining.

It would be interesting to know just how many of those who voted against the proposition to provide suitable headquarters for the fire department, on the ground that it would increase their taxes fifty or sixty cents a year, will go to the ball grounds next Sunday and pay one-half that amount to see the game. Compared with a Sunday ball game, the best interests of the fire department and the efficient protection of our property interests sink into utter insignificance. Our houses may burn and we may be homeless, but thank heavens we now have permission to play Sunday ball, which of course is a wonderful impetus to our financial, commercial and moral growth. Certainly the voters of North Platte are extravagantly entertaining.

Boy Scouts Pass Through.

The company of boy scouts—sixteen or eighteen in number—that were with the Buffalo Bill Show, arrived in town Wednesday. When the show went to pieces at Denver, the scouts were practically stranded. They gave exhibition drills in that city, took up collections, and finally started on a hike to Chicago. Two drummers and two buglers accompany the scouts, and each scout carries a rolled flag. Enroute to Chicago they give drills in the towns through which they pass and by taking up collections manage to secure enough to buy food. They gave exhibition drills on the streets Wednesday evening and appeared at the Keith last evening. Last night they resumed their march.

Modest in His Wants.

The local U. S. land office is in receipt of a letter from a Kansas man who says he desires to enter nine sections in the North Platte forest reserve, one for himself and one for each of his eight sons. He even goes so far as to name the location of the sections, his desire being to get the land in a compact body. Nine sections equal 5,760 acres, which would be quite a holding for one family. This man and his boys, if qualified to enter, stand an equal show with the thousands of others who desire to homestead in the reserve.

Real Estate Loans.

Buchanan & Patterson have plenty of money on hand to make real estate loans on farms, ranches and city property. Loans closed promptly, no delay. Rates and terms the most favorable.

Some of the Doings in Town Twenty-two Years Ago.

(Taken from The Tribune of August 19th, 1891.)

The Farmers' Alliance, later known as the Populist party, met in county convention and placed the following ticket in nomination: For treasurer J. K. Stevens; clerk, Elmer Rider; sheriff, Wm. Beatty; judge, J. K. Stockton; clerk of court, Tim Keiher; superintendent, Florence McNeel; surveyor, Paul Meyer; coroner, I. A. Fort; commissioner, A. M. Stoddard. One hundred delegates attended the convention.

Schmalzried, the cigar manufacturer, moved into his new block on Dewey street.

Among the designs J. B. McDonald was preparing for the Lincoln county exhibit at the state fair was a locomotive and tender sixteen feet in length. The frame and boiler was of wood covered with building paper on which was glued wheat, rye and oats. Watermelons were used for the cylinders, pumpkins for the steam and sand domes, and the drive and truck wheels were constructed of ears of corn. At that time Jim was about the busiest man in town.

The little daughter of Perry Corbett made a narrow escape from being bitten by a rattlesnake, which she found in the yard, and which just in the nick of time was killed by the little girl's grandmother. The snake had six rattles.

Maurice Fowler purchased the stock and equipment of the Dick Bangs' livery stable.

Engine 685 came out of the shops after a rebuilding and went into service on the Second district with George Baskins handling the throttle.

Fredrickson and Gus Norton went to Omaha, the former to bring back engine 628 and the latter engine 691.

E. R. Goodman, with Golding & Loftus, of Denver, arrived in town to visit his parents.

Tom Stimson, then living on a farm in Nichols precinct, went out in his potato patch and dug twenty-five potatoes that averaged four pounds each. Tom said they were "average potatoes."

Colonel Cody was reported in poor health and he was expected home soon to recuperate.

A man named Drout, living in the west part of the county, was arrested on the charge of attempting to poison his wife, but at a hearing before Judge Stockton was discharged.

A gang of gamblers had been driven out of Kearney and had come to North Platte, but finding the picking poor, migrated to Cheyenne at the end of a week.

The Iddingslumber company received a shipment of fifteen cars of coal, which was some coal for those days.

Found Guilty of Assault.

The Kilmer brothers, who were on trial in the county court this week on the charge of assault on charges preferred by Mr. and Mrs. Siebold, Mr. Neu and Mr. Linn were found guilty by the jury before whom the case was tried, but in its verdict the jury recommended leniency. One of the defendants was fined fifty dollars and costs and the other twenty-five and costs, and stand committed until the fine and costs were paid. The case grew out of a fight at the school meeting in the Kilmer neighborhood the latter part of June. The case occupied Monday, Tuesday and part of Wednesday, the prosecution and defense each introducing a number of witnesses, and besides these witnesses, there were a number of spectators from the north part of the county.

Here are Hay Makers for You.

Up on the big hay meadows of the D. B. McNeel ranch northwest of town for some time past eight or ten mowers have been at work cutting hay and following the mowers are several rakes and four sweeps. The men employed in the field are sufficient in number to form two ball teams and enough left over to form a respectable sized audience. Work is suspended on Sunday and the men play ball. From fourteen to sixteen stacks, each containing six tons, is the daily average of this gang of hay makers.

M. E. Church

Considering the extreme heat the attendance at Sunday school has been very good. We desire to make it better. Be on hand Sunday morning at 9:45 sharp and enjoy the song service that preceds. At 11 a. m. the pastor will preach on "The Unrecognized Christ." The Epworth League is full of life and vigor, you are invited to attend one of its enthusiastic services at 6:45 p. m. At 8 p. m. the theme will be "The Inspiration of Facts."

Notice for Bids.

Notice is hereby given that the city council will receive bids for the construction of permanent sidewalk and approaches and street crossings to be laid by the city for the fiscal year 1913. Bids must be based upon the specifications of the city engineer and general sidewalk ordinances, which are on file in the office of the city clerk. All bids must be in by 5:00 p. m., on the 2nd day of September, 1913. The council reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

C. F. TEMPLE, City Clerk.

Myrtle and Vicinity.

Mrs. Bill Ross returned last Saturday from a two weeks' visit with relatives in Iowa. Her mother accompanied her home and will remain indefinitely.

Earl Wright came up from North Platte last week and visited friends for several days.

Charlie Gambrel had a horse killed by lightning recently.

Dick Ross is suffering with blood poisoning caused from getting a piece of steel in his hand.

Grandpa Allison, who suffered a paralytic stroke two weeks ago, is reported to be improving.

The Demon Barber.

The story of the "demon barber," his misdirected energy and undue personal attention to customers, a story that has been made famous in ballad and on the stage, was this: He lived at 183 Fleet street, London, next to St. Dunstan's church. Under his shaving chair there was a trapdoor. When Mr. Todd, making some excuse, left his customer—or client, for this is now the genteel term—and went into an adjoining room he drew a bolt. The trapdoor turned over and threw the customer into a cellar. There he was murdered, and his body was made into mutton pies, which were sold at a neighboring shop at a reasonable price and much relished. This story was believed by all for many years, and Dickens mentions it in "Martin Chuzzlewit," yet it was without foundation.

Gents in Vienna.

He was known twenty years ago as a "gigerl," and young men who were ambitious in regard to correct dress studied him closely," says the Vienna Press. "In other countries his name was variously 'top,' 'dandy' or 'dude,' but in Vienna he had an added touch of dash, and that made him a 'gigerl.'" Today the son of the fashion wise man of those days, who, like his father, knows how to wear his clothes and appreciates the superiority of the man whose necktie and socks are in harmony as to color, whose dress is correct, no matter what the occasion may be—promenade, funeral, race, opera, business or golf—is known as a "gent," derived from the English word "gentleman." A member of the American colony at Vienna, commenting on the "gent" article, says, "We try to explain to our neighbors that 'gent' is only four-fifths of what they think the abbreviation stands for."

Remarkable Cure of Dysentery.

"I was attacked with dysentery about July 15th, and used the doctor's medicine and other remedies with no relief, only getting worse all the time. I was unable to do anything and my weight dropped from 145 to 125 pounds. I suffered for about two months when I was advised to use Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I used two bottles of it and it gave me permanent relief," writes B. W. Hill of Snow Hill, N. C. For sale by all dealers.

Microscope and Building Stone.

Especially valuable are the comparative microscopic studies of rock used in building which has resisted weathering for a long time and that which is in process of disintegration. The cause of rapid weathering can be recognized as a natural structural relation. Two granites, for instance, of almost identical mineralogical and chemical composition can behave quite differently. The one remains sound for years; the other disintegrates rapidly because delicate microscopic pressure zones run through it. Two marbles of equal beauty show entirely different powers of resistance as material for a work of art exposed to the weather, according to whether the calcite individuals in thin section interlock with sinuous outlines or merely adjoin each other as paving stones.—Engineering and Mining Journal.
