August Weather.

The average man is inclined to regard last month as the hottest August we have ever had, but the monthly summary issued by Observer Shilling of the local office shows that August, 1909, and August, 1900, were just as warm as last month, the average for August in each of the three years being seventy-seven degrees. On the 27th of last month the absolute maximum for August was reached when the temperature registered 103.

The rainfall last month was ninety-eight one-hundredths of an inch, which is the lightest precipitation we have had in any August since 1894, when the fall was but seventeen one-hundredths of an inch. There have been five Augusts since 1875 when the rainfall was less than last month. The average for the month is 2.46 inches. Had we received the average our corn crop would have been a good one.

The federal court officers, the jurors and a number of witnesses were in town Tuesday but only two cases came up for hearing before Judge Munger, the greater number of the cases having been transferred to Omaha for hearing. Judge Munger will come here later in the year and hear several equity cases. Judge Munger and the court officers highly complimented the attractiveness of the new federal court room, and the offices for the officers.

Miss Annie Kramph and mother were visitors at the Hunter fruit farm north of Sutherland Monday and were amazed at the extent of the orchard and the burden of apple borne by each tree. Fred Payne was exhibiting on the streets Tuesday samples of his fourth and fifth cuttings of alfalfa.
