One Voice Music.
Composers have not scorned writing airs to suit the style of particular singers, thus, as Francis Rogers remarks, "storing up for the usual voices of subsequent generations much travail and sorrow." Mendelssohn crowded "Hear Ye, Israel," with high F sharps to give Jenny Lind, whom he adored, a chance to display the particular beauty of her voice in that region, with the result that that air has been a sore trial to most sopranos ever since. Faure, the famous French baritone, also had a particularly facile and mellow high F sharp, and many parts were written especially to give him a chance to exhibit it to the gasping multitude. But in most baritone voices this F sharp is the very limit of the upper range, and, although it may have both power and brilliance, it seldom possesses either mellowness or facility; consequently all the roles written for Faure (Meyerbeer's "Dinorah," for instance) are particularly trying for the ordinary baritone.—Argonaut.

Wearing Shabby Clothes.
It's a great thing to wear shabby clothes and an old hat. Some of the best things I have ever known, like these experiences of the streets, have resulted from coming up to life from underneath, of being taken, for less than I am rather than for more than I am.
I did not always believe in this doctrine. For many years—the years before I was rightly born into this alluring world—I tried quite the opposite course. I was constantly attempting to come down to life from above. Instead of being content to carry through life a sufficiently wonderful being named David Grayson, I tried desperately to set up and support a sort of dummy creature which so clad, so housed, so fed, should appear to be what I thought David Grayson ought to appear in the eyes of the world. Oh, I spent quite a lifetime trying to satisfy other people!—David Grayson in American Magazine.

Kleptomaniac.
The paragraphist opened his typewriter, adjusted a sheet of paper, lit his pipe and sat for a moment immersed in thought. Then he clicked off a single line of copy. He glanced at what he had written, and a look of surprise came across his classic features. Then he gasped, shrieked and went into a fit of hysterics.

Curious Signboards.
An eighteenth century Glasgow sweep suspended over the door of his house the announcement:
Barry Keir, he does live here.
He'll sweep your vents, and not too dear.
And should they chance to go on fire
He'll put them out at your desire.

Bear Fighting.
In the seventeenth century on feast days the life of the czar of Russia was enlivened with such amusements as a battle to the death between a bear and a spearman. In which, it is said, frequently the man lost his life. In the event of a successful issue the spearman was rewarded by being taken to the royal cellars, where he was allowed to drink as much as he liked.—Cri de Paris.

Not Enough Practice.
"Oh, Johnnie, Johnnie," said the aunt reproachfully, "why is it you never remember to say 'Thank you'?"
"I expect it's 'cause I don't get things given to me often enough for practice," answered the young diplomat, hopefully eyeing a box of chocolates.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Easily Explained.
Grinn—What's happened to disturb the friendship between Nupp and Cut-up? Each one of them says the other is an intolerable bore. Barrest—Nupp's recently become the father of a firstborn and Cut-up's just had a surgical operation.—Exchange.

Just a Reminder.
"You must give me credit for making money last," declared the wife.
"But don't forget that I make it first," said the husband.—Buffalo Express.

Legal Note.
Bix—My lawyer tells me I have a strong case. Dix—He probably means that it is one that will last for years.—Boston Transcript.

Poor Guesses.
Patience—Is Will good at guessing games? Patrice—I think not. He said he guessed I'd learn to love him.—Yonkers Statesman.

BELGIAN CUCUMBERS
By M. QUAD
Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.

The county of Vernon in a certain middle state was in peace. Farmers, mechanics and merchants met each other and asked:
"How is old Vernon county?"
And the answer would be:
"Old Vernon county is all right—you bet!"

Fifty men saw X. M. Davis, as he came to be known, when the bus drove up to the inn at Clifton with him as the only passenger. He was a middle aged man, and he had the face of a true American patriot. He had come to give Vernon county such a chance to get rich as had never been held out to her before. Years ago his grandfather had died and had been buried in that county, and it was consecrated ground to him. That is why he had come to it instead of any other county.

It was amazingly prolific.
One acre of ground would grow 5,000 cucumbers, each three feet long and weighing five pounds.
It was like eating oranges. It was a breakfast food in itself. It left behind it an exhilaration not known to any other vegetable in the world.
This cucumber was certain to take the place of grains of all sort in a year or two more and would displace the potato and the turnip entirely.

Mr. Davis did more than talk and exhibit seeds. He put $50 cash in bank as a prize to the person raising the most Belgian cucumbers the next spring or summer. It was November then. Between November and April Mr. Davis sold over $3,000 worth of seeds and received his money for them.

When he went away he went boldly, and he left the prize money in the bank. By so doing he escaped all suspicion.
Now came a mystery. In Clifton lived a widow named Lee. She had been there only two years, and the people knew little about her. She was nearly six feet tall, rugged and strong, and she neighbored with none. She went to Mr. Davis for some seeds, but refused to pay the price. She offered only a penny apiece and when turned down made use of some very strong language.

April was a forward month in Vernon county, and the cucumber vines were beginning to run by the middle of May. One night some one pulled up and stacked the vines in ten different gardens. They found tracks of a man's boots, but nothing further. The next night more gardens suffered. Just who to suspect was a puzzle, but of course it was a case of jealousy and spite. Every man who had any vines set a watch on them.

Deacon Tracy was the first one to report a clue. He had half an acre of vines and was sitting up to watch for the vandal when a man came suddenly upon him and knocked him senseless. When he recovered his wits his vines had been destroyed. Tracks left by a man's boots—that was all.

Of course there were excitement and indignation. A reward of $5 was offered for the arrest of the marauder, and owners of vines as yet untroubled hired watchmen. Then the man of night betook himself out among the farmers. He railed far and wide. He destroyed nothing but the cucumber vines, but he did not spare a hill of them that he could get at. He was chased by men and dogs; he was shot at; traps were set for him in twenty different places, yet no one earned that reward.

At Farmer Johnson's place he and his son were hidden in the smokehouse when the unknown appeared. He had scarcely pulled a vine when they were upon him. Both were strong men, but the struggle was over in a minute. The unknown knocked them both silly and got away with their hats and pieces of their shirts as souvenirs. It was figured that he had got such a scare, however, that he would not appear again. He returned next night when no one was watching and attacked the vines.
The excitement was now at fever heat, and the whole county was asking what should be done, when the marauder came to his end. A widow named Jones had twenty hills of vines she was watching. She had an old army carbine, and a neighbor had loaded it for her. She was watching from a window, and as the man of night appeared and began his work she fired at him. He dropped, but struggled up and ran.

A hundred men turned out and searched the streets and alleys and the country around, but they did not find the wounded man. They had given up the quest when word went round that no one had seen the Widow Lee for three days. The locked doors of her house were broken open, and she was found dead on the floor. A bullet had struck her in the chest—the bullet fired by the other widow. She was dressed as a man from head to heel and had false whiskers besides.

Diarrhoea Quickly Cured.
"I was taken with diarrhoea and Mr. Yorks, the merchant here, persuaded me to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. After taking one dose of it I was cured. It also cured others that I gave it to."
Wm. E. Gebhart, Oriole, Pa.
That is not at all unusual. An ordinary attack of diarrhoea can almost invariably be cured by one or two doses of this remedy. For sale by all dealers.

SHERIFF'S SALE.
By virtue of an order of sale issued from the district court of Lincoln County, Nebraska, upon a decree of foreclosure rendered in said court wherein Knox and Walters a co-partnership is plaintiff, and E. Rima are defendants, and to me directed, I will on the 16th day of October 1913, at 2 o'clock in the forenoon, in the door of the court house in North Platte, Lincoln County, Nebraska, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, the following described property to-wit: Northeast quarter (NE 1/4) of section two (2) township fifteen (15) range thirty (30) west of the 6th P. M., in Lincoln County, Nebraska.

LEGAL NOTICE.
To Albert W. Kilmer and Jennie Kilmer, his wife, defendants:
You and each of you will take notice that the Bank of Stapleton, of Stapleton, Neb., as plaintiff, has filed its certain petition in the District Court of Lincoln County, Nebraska, in which you and each of you are named as defendants, the object and prayer of which said petition is to set aside and foreclose that certain mortgage made and executed by you and each of you to The Gandy Bank upon the following described real estate situate in Lincoln County, Nebraska, to-wit: The southeast quarter (se 1/4) of the southwest quarter (sw 1/4) of section thirty-two (32), township sixteen (16), north of range twenty-six (26), west of the 6th P. M. and which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of that certain promissory note made and executed by you for the principal sum of $315.00. And said foreclosure is had for said principal sum together with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum from September 5, 1912. You and each of you will make answer to said petition on or before October 13, 1913, or the allegations thereof will be taken as true and decree entered accordingly.

LEGAL NOTICE.
To all persons interested in the estate of Susan Pickett, deceased.
Whereas, there has been admitted to probate in the county court of said county, an instrument purported to be the last will and testament of Susan Pickett, late of said county, deceased; and John J.
