Lincoln Highway Permanently Located.

Tuesday afternoon Secretary Crosby, of the Chamber of Commerce, received a telegram from T. C. Patterson, North Platte's representative at the good roads meeting at Detroit which read:

"Lincoln Memorial Highway permanently located along Platte valley, following the Transcontinental route through Nebraska. When completed this highway will be of concrete from New York to San Francisco."

This means that the efforts of the cities south of the Platte to secure the Lincoln Highway along what is termed the south or Denver trail did not succeed and the good roads congress has selected the only logical route through the state.

The concrete roads in the vicinity of Detroit are to be the model for the Lincoln highway. In speaking of the Detroit roads, the superintendent says: "We prepare and shape the sub-grade, roll it hard with a 10-ton roller and lay the concrete right on the natural sub-soil. Side rails are used and when the concrete has become sufficiently hard to remove the rail the finishers pare off the outer edges to prevent a sharp dividing line between the concrete and the gravel shoulders.

Our trunk roads are built 16 feet wide with gravel shoulders four feet on each side. The lesser traveled roads have 12 or 15 feet of concrete with a minimum width over all of 24 feet. We have also built concrete roads from 10 to 18 feet wide. They are always wide enough to make passing of teams or automobiles going in the opposite or the same direction very easy. The upkeep expense of these roads is less than five dollars a year.

P. H. Ruddy Dies in Omaha.

J. E. Evans received a telegram Tuesday afternoon from Chas. P. Ross, of Omaha, informing him that Patrick H. Ruddy, of this city, had died suddenly in his room at an Omaha hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Ruddy had gone to Omaha Sunday to attend the Ak-Sar-Ben, but their anticipated pleasures were cut short by the grim reaper.

The body was at once taken in charge by an undertaker and brought to this city on an early train Wednesday morning. A committee from the Grand Army of the Republic, of which the deceased was a member, assembled at the depot and escorted the remains to the home. The funeral was held from the Catholic church yesterday morning, the G. A. R. and the K. of C. attending.

Interment was at the Catholic cemetery, where the beautiful burial service of the G. A. R. was read by J. E. Evans. Taps were sounded by Harry Huffman, and as the casket descended the last tributes to a comrade-at-arms were contributed, first the evergreen, then the rose, and last the wreath.

Mr. Ruddy came to North Platte about thirty years ago and by his cheeriness and pleasant manners won the good-will and respect of every acquaintance. Several years ago he purchased the Commercial Hotel and had since conducted it as a rooming house. He had been more or less affected with heart trouble for some time past, and this was the cause of his death.

The war record of Comrade Ruddy was a most honorable one, at the age of sixteen he enlisted in Co. E, 11th Wisconsin Infantry in 1861, was honorably discharged and re-enlisted, serving four years. He was with Grant at Corinth and Vicksburg, and was present at the capture of Mobile. He was a brave soldier, never shirking duty, and revered the flag with a patriotism that never dimmed. His service to this country, if nothing else, entitles Pat Ruddy to grateful remembrance.

Mr. Railroad Man that lives in the east end—What are you going to do when they start work in the new round house. You will have a long cold walk this winter. You had better see me about a lot in the Dolson addition. We will make exceptional terms for the next thirty days. C. F. Temple.

Cochran Patterson, of Long Beach, Cal., who had been visiting in town for a week, left yesterday for home, going via El Paso, Texas. Mr. Patterson owns a number of pleasure boats at Long Beach and other points along the Pacific, which bring him a handsome revenue. He spent the early part of his life in North Platte, and is glad to return here occasionally and meet his old friends.
