"Gold and Water" is the story of a jumped claim. The rightful owner fortifies, the only available well and forces capitulation of the jumpers. This is a Nestor film.

"Jacques, the Wolf" is a two reel Eclair with a setting in the Canadian woods. Oscar Lund is featured as the trapper, and Alec Francis appears as the police officer. The trapper falls in love with two girls and develops a dual nature in many respects. Aside from his love story we see the constant warfare waged between the Royal Mounted Police representing law and order, and the poaching trappers. Both sides sleep with left eye open and right hand on a gun, and shoot to kill.
