

The selection of a proper gift for the bride is at times very difficult. We have made a study of their selection and have at our store an endless variety of articles particularly suited for this occasion.

Have just unpacked and are now displaying the finest line of new cut glass ever brought to our city.

Our silverware is of many designs and the new pieces we are now showing were selected with great care by our buyer while in the eastern cities during the summer.

We are always pleased to receive visitors.

When Servants Were Fined. What would servants of modern Lots in Taylor's addition for next times say to the following rules and regulations that were adopted over 300 years ago in the household of Sir J. Harrington, the translator of Arlosto?

A servant absent from prayers to be fined twopence; uttering an oath, a penny; leaving a door open, a penny; a penny fine for any beds unmade, fire unitt or candle box uncleaned after 8; any one breaking any of the butler's glass, a shilling; twopence fine for any one who has not laid the table for dinner by half past 10 or supper by 6; any one being absent without leave, fourpence fine, a penny tine for any follower visiting the cook; a fine of a penny for any visitor's room left untidy for four hours after he or she has dressed; a penny fine if the hall be not cleaned by 8 in winter and 7 in summer; a fine of threepence if the stairs be uncleaned every Eriday after dinner.

All these fines were deducted from the servants' quarterly payment of their wages.-London Standard.

Red Hair and Temper.

"All mankind," said Major Hurst, a well known English student of eugenics, "may be divided into those who are red baired and those who are not red haired. It is a fundamental difference." In almost every case of a red haired child the major has succeeded in discovering a red haired ancestor, and he thinks that practically the whole of the red haired population springs from a single red halred man far back in the past. Here are some of his conclusions: In order for red to appear it must be in the ancestry on both sides. A red father and a dark mother, or vice versa, hardly ever have a red child. Two reds always have red offspring. But it is exceedingly rare to find two reds marry, as they seem to have a mutual antipathy. It is a popular fallacy that red haired persona have any distinctive temperament. They are no more hot tempered than other people.

A Story of Talleyrand.

During the troublous days of the French revolution, when aristocratic heads were dropping in the basket in the name of liberty, fraternity and equality, Talleyrand lived and prospered by virtue of a marvelous ability to tell just the psychological moment Bratt & Goodman have some great to jump off one band wagon and ahourd another.

The name of this French displomat has been kept alive more than have those of most of his contemporaries by a vast number of anecdotes in which he figures. It was Talleyrand whom Mme, De Stael, homely but brilliant, tried to corner by asking him if she and the beautiful Mme. Recamier were to fall into the water, which one he would rescue. And Talleyrand smiled Mrs. Caroline Voss, who lived sixteen in his most languishing manner and re-
